When consumers quit buying, and money needed in industry is piled up in banks, it is little wonder that there is unemployment.

CHILE CABINET QUITS; MUTINY WINS SUPPORT

NEW MINISTRY PLANS FOR STATE OF SIEGE

Threat to Bomb Vessels by Air Is Made; Sailors Deny Communist Purposes.

Santiago, Chile (Thursday), Sept. 3 (U.P.).—A new cabinet was sworn in last midnight only a few hours after the former cabinet resigned as a result of the mutiny of the Chilean navy at Coquimbo. Members of the new cabinet of Acting President Manuel Trucco's government are:

The Chamber of Deputies met at midnight, shortly followed by the Senate, to consider the government's request for authorization to establish a state of siege in various cities where disorders might occur in connection with the sailors' mutiny.

Last-Minute Effort Fails.

The former cabinet's resignation was accepted soon after being submitted. The government had made a last-minute effort to subdue the mutinous sailors by threatening an air bombardment but labor and Communist circles sympathized with the mutineers and threatened a general strike.

The sailors had been given until 4 a. m. Thursday to surrender the ships, which comprise almost the entire Navy. If they did not heed the ultimatum, the government intended to send airplanes to Coquimbo, where the vessels were anchored, to drop bombs on them.

The mutineers refused to receive the government representative, Rear Admiral Eduardo Von Schroeder, semi-official sources said. He had gone to Coquimbo by plane after the mutineers demanded a proposed 30 per cent pay cut be recinded.

Sympathy Is Evidenced.

They said they would deal only with a committee composed of workmen and students. There were many evidences of sympathy for the sailors in Communist and Labor circles. A mass meeting led by the Chilean Workers Federation met in front of the Congress buildings and urged a general strike today in support of the mutiny.

All military garrisons in northern Chile were ordered ready for action against the sailors and the air force concentrated at Iquique was prepared to bomb the fleet if necessary. Juan Esteban Montero, candidate for president, was asked to return to Santiago from Valparaiso by special train to aid in quelling the mutiny.

The mutiny began Tuesday when the sailors seized all officers, including Admiral Campos, and took possession of eight warships. They formed a committee to negotiate with the government and issued an ultimatum giving the cabinet 48 hours in which to rescind orders for a 30 per cent pay reduction and to find a solution for the economic crisis which has upset the stability of the national government this year.

Ibanez' Trial Demanded.

They also demanded extradition and trial of former president Gen. Carlos Ibanez, who fled to Argentina after the July revolution, and the trial of all members of the deposed regime. The present cabinet was attacked as unfit for office.

In connection with the sailor protest against pay reductions, it was pointed out that the government's economy program apparently does not provide for cuts in their earnings. The government ordered 30 per cent reductions in all salaries of more than 3,000 pesos ($360) per year, whereas the sailors receive less than that amount.

The rebels had provisions for 48 hours on their ships. They said their movement was one of discipline, not against officers, but as a protest against the government and that, in no event, did they desire to turn the navy's guns on their brothers ashore.

Press Censorship Set Up.

The government, which was charged with incompetency and neglect of disorderly administration affairs inherited from the Ibanez regime, established press censorship, put soldiers on duty patroling the capital and summoned two presidential candidates, former President Arturo Allesandri and Communist Senator Manuel Hidalgo, to an extraordinary cabinet session. It was believed Hidalgo might exercise influence with the mutineers, but the sailors' statement issued from the battleship Almirante La Torre said their uprising was not communistic.

The sailors held control of the 28,800-ton Almirante La Torre; the 10,000-ton O'Higgins; the torpedo boats Hyatt, Lynch and Serrano; submarine tender Araunaco, and two submarines. The ships make up practically the entire navy, except for submarines at Talcahuano, in southern Chile. The governments chief forces to oppose the sailors would be 38 fighting airplanes at Iquique, in northern Chile. None of them is a regular bombing craft.

The cabinet just resigned was the third since the overthrow of Gen. Ibanez. Pedro Opazo headed the first provisional regime, but was succeeded by Juan Esteban Montero, who resigned to become a presidential candidate.

GIFFORD LISTS BODY FOR CREATING JOBS

H. A. Wheeler, Banker of Chicago, Heads Group Named by Director.

(Associated Press.)

A committee of industrialists, labor leaders and economists, headed by Harry A. Wheeler, Chicago banker, was appointed yesterday by Walter S. Gifford, national relief director, to find ways of creating jobs for the unemployed.

Wheeler's committee is the second of three to be created by Gifford to carry on the three major activities of President Hoover's unemployment relief organization.

Gifford announced Tuesday the appointment of a group headed by Owen D. Young, of New York, to direct the raising of relief funds through local agencies. The third committee, yet to be announced, will advise in the administration of relief through the money raised by Young's committee.

The task of the committee appointed yesterday, Mr. Gifford said, will be to "develop any possible extension of emergency industrial policies which have been found practicable in providing employment during the present period."

The group, to be known as the Committee on Employment Plans and Suggestions, is composed of sixteen members in addition to Wheeler, including Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio; Alexander Legge, former chairman of the Farm Board and president of the International Harvester Co.; William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Edward N. Hurley, former chairman of the Shipping Board, and Wesley C. Mitchell, director of the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Others appointed are: Fred C. Croxton, Gifford's assistant; W. Rufus Abbott, Chicago; Leonard P. Ayres, Cleveland; C. H. Banfield, Oregon; S. P. Bush, Columbus; Homer Ferguson, Newport News, Va.; Charles C. Gates, Denver; A. Johnston, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; H. C. Knight, New England Council; Matthew Sloan, New York, and L. R. Smith, Milwaukee.

"The committee," he added, "will give consideration to feasible means for providing additional employment. Many suggestions have already been sent to the President's organization on unemployment relief. These suggestions and such others as are submitted will be carefully examined in order that their maximum possibilities may be utilized."

The President's organization yesterday launched a Nation-wide campaign to urge young people to remain in schools this year instead of seeking jobs in competition with heads of families.

The campaign was opened with a radio speech by Green, who said: "Taking from an adult the opportu-

Two Seized After Chase In Mickey Duffy Killing

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 2 (U.P.). Herman Cohen, 27, and Albert Hodkinson, 25, of Philadelphia, were arrested by State troopers at Toms River today as accessories after the fact in the killing Saturday of Michael J. (Mickey) Duffy, south Jersey beer baron, in his Ambassador Hotel apartment.

The two men were at a house in which the police had hoped to find the actual killer. They got away in a fast automobile in which were Cohen's two young sons. Police got the number of the car. It was flashed on the police teletype and the arrest followed.

Riot in Ecuador Kills 7, Hurts 30

Red Leads Mob of 3,000 in Attack on Former President's House.

Quito, Ecuador, Sept. 2 (U.P.).—A mob of 3,000 persons, led by the Communist Senator Maldonado, clashed with cavalry in the streets of the capital today, after attempting to storm the house of former President Isidro Ayora. Seven persons were killed and about 30 others injured in the fighting.

The disorders, which began last night, had been threatened since the president was deposed and succeeded by a military regime, due to protests over the match monopoly contract between the government and the Swedish Match Co. The Senate last night cancelled the monopoly after serious disorders in the streets, in which several persons were killed.

An attorney for the match company was threatened by the mob and the offices of the newspaper Comercio were attacked.

ARMY AND NAVY TO SHARE AX IN WOOD ECONOMY

Fresh From Hoover Talk, Appropriations Chief Scores Building.

Position Directly Opposes Advice to President by Senator Reed.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Leaving the White House yesterday after a talk with President Hoover about the problem of balancing next year's national budget, Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), of Indiana, gave out a statement that contained bad news for the Army and the Navy—particularly the Navy.

If Representative Wood has his way—and the chairman of the House appropriations committee generally does have his way—the Navy can expect less from the next Congress than it got from the last, which was precious little.

"There is no necessity for continuing naval construction at the present rate," Chairman Wood said as he was leaving the White House. "There isn't going to be any war tomorrow. Why, in heaven's name, should we build our Navy up to the London treaty limits when it will have nothing to do after we have built it?"

Statement Timed to Deficit.

Chairman Wood issued his economy statement at about the same time that the Treasury Department was announcing that the deficit for the first two months of the fiscal year of 1932—July and August—was $396,365,000. This makes the deficit for the first two months of this fiscal year $144,000,000 more than it was for the first two months of the last fiscal year.

The explanation is simple. Uncle Sam received in the way of taxes and customs duties in the first two months of this fiscal year only $230,399,151. In the same two months, he spent $626,764,751. A large part of this outgo was for construction of public buildings, a program that has been speeded up to relieve unemployment.

For the last two months of the last fiscal year, the Government's income was greater than its income this year and its expenditures smaller.

Other Economies Forecast.

Representative Wood, in commenting yesterday on the deficit and the importance of balancing the budget, said that all departments of the Government would have to economize in the next fiscal year. However, he was especialy emphatic about economy in the War and Navy Departments.

As a matter of fact, these two departments have been striving hard all along to economize. There have been many evidences of this. The public has read how the Navy has cut down on its enlisted personnel, and how the Army has been eliminating various forts and camps.

The American Army is extremely small compared with the armies maintained by some of the powers in Europe. The American Navy is far below the strength allowed it under the London naval treaty.

Building Program Lost.

In the last Cogress, Chairman Fred Britten, of the House navel affairs committee, after receiving a program which, it was understood at the time

Chinese May Seek Mexican Row Aid

(Associated Press.)

China may solicit the good offices of a third power to bring about an amicable settlement of the controversy over the expulsion of Chinese from Mexico.

This possibility was seen last night by officials at the Chinese Legation. An attache blamed the present agitation upon an organization in Mexico known as the Anti-Chinese Society, which launched a campaign to drive out the large number of Chinese in Sonora who control the greater part of the grocery and retail business.

The official said he could not say what action the Chinese government contemplated, but it was not improbable China would solicit the good offices of the third power to bring about a settlement. The officials declined to intimate what third power might be asked to act, but it was asserted unofficially by observers in the Diplomatic Corps that the United States would be a logical neutral.

Dowager Queen Marie Reported Seriously Ill

Vienna, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Word from Roumania today said Dowager Queen Marie was seriously ill and her physicians believed an operation might be necessary.

She became ill soon after Princess Ileana's wedding recently, but recovered somewhat and has been advised to go to her castle in the Carpathians to recuperate. If her condition does not improve, the doctors say, an operation will be performed.

OUSTS DICTATOR

JUGOSLAV DICTATOR TO GO, KING DECIDES

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, Sept. 2 (U.P.). King Alexander announced tonight a decision to terminate the Jugoslavia dictatorship established 32 months ago.

Addressing a meeting of the cabinet of Premier Gen. Pera Zivkovitch, the king declared he would grant the nation a "liberal and democratic constitution."

King Alexander, who established the dictatorial government in January 6, 1929, when conflict between the Serbs and the Croats threatened to destroy the national unity, read a draft of the new constitution to the cabinet meeting.

The old constitution was framed in 1921, soon after the scholarly, dark-haired king ascended the throne of the Kingdom of Serbs, Croats and Slovenes. It was abolished at the time he dismissed Parliament and appointed a cabinet responsible to the crown in 1929.

The chief obstacle to constitutional government in the kingdom was the Croatian home rule movement, which caused riots, bombings and frequent political clashes between the minority Croats and the Serbs, who were the strongest faction in the federation formed after the World War.

The draft constitution read to the cabinet provided:

1. Reorganization of Parliament, consisting of a Skupshtina and a Senate. (The Skupshtina is the name of the former Parliament which had only one house.) The Skupshtina, or chamber, would be chosen by universal suffrage. The voting age would be 20. The Senate would be an equal number of elected and appointed members.

2. All laws would require approval of both chambers.

3. The rights of individuals would be fully guaranteed.

4. Diets would be established in the various provinces for local administration.

5. The government would be empowered to suspend part of the constitution in event public order was endangered.

It was announced that Minister of Justice Dimitri Ljoise and Minister of Public Works Dusan Sernac had resigned and been replaced by Dragutin Kojic and Albert Cramer. Six ministers without portfolio were appointed to the cabinet.

Rum Case Voided On Wire-Tapping

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Federal Judge William B. Sheppard, of Florida, in Brooklyn today voided a Volstead law case against fifteen men and two women on the ground that wire-tapping and other unlawful means had been used in securing evidence. Kenneth Voight, assistant United States attorney, who made the nolle prosequi motion on which the judge acted, said his orders came from the Department of Justice in Washington.

"It is another evidence," he declared, "that public sentiment against gathering evidence by tapping telephone wires is becoming more widespread."

EXTRA SESSION OF PARLIAMENT MEETS SEPT. 8

SPECIAL ASSEMBLY IS FIRST SINCE WAR

MacDonald to Ask Vote of Confidence at Opening; 50 Majority Seen.

London, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—The national cabinet completed its new taxation program at a five-hour meeting today and a call was issued for Parliament to meet in special session September 8 to enact the program into law.

The government made it clear there will be no dilly-dallying in the House of Commons by deciding to ask for a vote of confidence on the opening day of the session without explaining the economy and taxation program designed to cope with the national financial emergency.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald will ask the House to declare without delay whether it will put its trust in the three-party administration he heads. Then, if the expected vote of confidence is forthcoming, Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, will make a full statement setting forth the entire budget balancing scheme. Mr. Snowden will make his appearance before Parliament next Thursday, it was learned authoritatively tonight.

MacDonald Defies Constituency.

Mr. MacDonald today informed his constituents at Seaham Harbor that he intended to retain his parliamentary seat until he has disposed of the financial emergency.

In a letter to the Seaham Harbor Labor party, which demanded his resignation from his seat in the Commons because he accepted the prime ministership of a government in which the Liberals and Conservatives are participating, he declared that any action he might take "will be only after I have finished the duty which I am now undertaking and not before."

The cabinet's financial plan for resuscitating the treasury embodies two principal bills having to do with new taxes and revenues. Just what these are is a state secret, but the whole population, from the lowest to the highest, is preparing to participate.

Liquor and Amusements Slated.

Beer, wines and tobacco, as well as theaters, movies, cricket, horse racing and all amusements, are expected to bear increased taxation. It is believed, however, that the government will go lighter on beer than anything else because it is the beverage of the low wage worker.

This will be the first special session of Parliament since the war. The summons for it was issued tonight by Capt. E. A. Fitzroy, Speaker of the House.

"I am satisfied after consulting with his majesty's government that the public interest requires the House should meet at an earlier time than October 20," the summons read.

"By virtue, therefore, of the resolution of the House of Commons of July 31 last, I now give notice the

65 A. F. of L Pickets Arrested at Paterson

Paterson, N. J., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Sixty-five American Federation of Labor pickets were arrested today, charged with violation of Judge Freeman's order against picketing. They were released under $15 bail each.

The arrests were made at the John Hand silk mill. There was no disorder. Strikes have been in progress in the Paterson silk industry for several weeks.

Police Commissioner Herbert Crosby (left) and Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride, as they called at the White House yesterday to thank President Hoover for his interest in District affairs, as exemplified in ordering the Department of Justice to aid in investigations of police third degree tactics in Washington.

Rest of 100 Witnesses to Appear This Morning at 10 o'Clock.

HARKER TAKES STAND TWICE TO GIVE STORY

Findings May Be Returned to Supreme Court This Afternoon.

Witnesses, under close guard of United States Marshals and Department of Justice agents, streamed through the corridors of the courthouse yesterday as the grand jury hastened its investigation into charges of police brutality.

Approximately 40 testified yesterday and about 20 more under subpena were not reached as the jury adjourned at 4:20 p. m. They were told to report again as the investigation opens at 10 o'clock this morning, and with them the remainder of the more than 100 witnesses in the first five cases of alleged police brutality will appear.

It was apparent from the trend of the investigation that the jury was attempting to gain a clear picture of the true situation in Washington's precinct station houses.

The grand jury first took up the case of James Henry Harker, 22-year-old baker, whose allegations that he was whipped with a rubber hose and punched in the eye by First Precinct policemen, started the investigation. After calling a number of witnesses in this case, the jurors suddenly dropped it and turned its attentions to witnesses in the five other cases of alleged third degree methods which have been completed by Department of Justice agents.

Harker Is Recalled.

Then Harker, who had occupied the witness chair in the grand jury room for a long session in the morning, was recalled. After this the jury turned its attention again to the other cases, some of which are believed to involve the same policemen who are accused by Harker.

It appeared likely last night that some of the witnesses under subpena would not be called by the grand jury. Observers speculated on the meaning of this move. It is believed that evidence presented by the chief witnesses called yesterday was so conclusive that members of the jury feel it will be unnecessary to call corroborative witnesses.

Seldom have grand jury proceedings in Washington been surrounded with so much secrecy, nor have witnesses been guarded so closely.

Rumors that some of the key witnesses have been approached and attempts made to intimidate them brought about the unusual situation. J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, and Leo A. Rover, United States attorney, took steps to see that witnesses were approached by no one and that they talked to no one.

Under Close Guard.

The witnesses were herded into the Motions Court room when they reported yesterday. There they were kept under guard of several marshals and a Department of Justice agent or two until they were called to testify. This action is regarded as unusual, for in ordinary cases grand jury witnesses are allowed to sit in an anteroom adjacent to the grand jury room, and are not under guard.

When the witnesses were called to testify, they were accompanied the length of the corridor to the grand jury room by marshals and Department of Justice agents. When their testimony was completed, they were again guarded until they left the courthouse, and in some cases were spirited out of the building.

When the grand jury adjourned for lunch, the witnesses who had not been called during the morning session were allowed to leave their room, but were warned as they left, to talk to no one.

In addition to these precautions, Mr. Rover, who took personal charge of presentation of the cases to the jury, declined to make public the list of names of witnesses and kept a close secret the names of the policemen accused by them.

Good Reason for Secrecy.

Release of the names of witnesses is usually regarded as a simple matter of routine.

WASHINGTON ZONE TOPS U.S. IN TRADE

Richmond, Va., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Of all the Federal Reserve districts, the retail trade reported today by the Bank of Richmond for the Fifth District in late July and early August made the best comparison with figures for the previous year.

The retail trade, as reflected in 34 leading department stores of the Fifth District, was lower than that of the same period in 1930, but nevertheless, the report pointed out, it was the best in the country.

Trade in Washington was reported to have been better than in July last year, and Richmond stores reported a very small average decline last month.

In cumulative sales since January 1, Washington stores led with a gain this year of 2.1 per cent. Baltimore was in second place with a decline of 4.3 per cent compared to Richmond's decline of 4.8 per cent.

A seasonal decrease in stocks on hand was reported to July, and at the end of the month practically all of the stores were reported to be car-

Darrah Is Ordered To Duty in Panama

(Associated Press.)

War Department special orders yesterday relieved Brig. Gen. Thomas W. Darrah as chief of staff of the Third Corps Area at Baltimore, Md., and ordered him to duty in the Panama Canal Zone. Gen. Darrah's promotion from a colonel's rank became effective Tuesday.

Representative Wyant (Republican), Pennsylvania, had protested the promotion several days ago. He asserted Darrah during the World War had been relieved of a field brigade command on a charge of unfitness.

Gen. Douglas McArthur said last night that he had received many telegrams deprecating the attack on Gen. Darrah and that the charges against Darrah were found unsound by an investigating board at the time and that Gen. Pershing had restored Darrah to another brigade command.

25 Per Cent Increase In Postal Rates Urged

San Francisco, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—An increase of 25 per cent in postal rates on first class mail and maintenance of the postal wage scale were advocated in an address here tonight by Postmaster General Walter F. Brown before the annual convention of the National Association of Postal Supervisors.

Brown said the $100,000,000 deficit in the Postal Department could be cut down through revision of the wage scale, but pointed out this would be in contrast to President Hoover's policy of maintaining wages.

U.S. READY TO FIGHT ARMS PARLEY DELAY

Geneva, Sept. 2 (U.P.).—An informal request that the 1932 world disarmament conference be postponed has been made to the League of Nations secretariat by representatives of the French government, it was learned today.

Although the foreign office at Paris and a spokesman for the French delegation at Geneva denied such a request had been made, it was generally known that there was sentiment in France favoring postponement and the French spokesman confirmed that his government considers a delay desirable.

It was believed the request was in the nature of a "feeler" motivated by the general elections to be held in France next May, by the forthcoming United States elections and the definitely expected British general elections. It was known, however, that postponement would be opposed by the United States, Germany, Russia, Hungary and other nations.

Authoritative sources said negotiations were proceeding to persuade France to send a delegation to Washington to prepare for the conference. The delegation would attempt to persuade President Hoover of the importance of the French viewpoint, which is that France should be guaranteed security by international treaties before she lays down her arms. The French attitude, which has been emphasized repeatedly by her statesment, has clashed with the British and American demands for disarmament as the first move toward security.

(United Press.)

The United States Government is prepared to fight for the 1932 disarmament conference, it was learned authoritatively yesterday, and to denounce vigorously any country which interferes with it.

Administration officials said plainly

Rescue Is Ordered For Eight on Island

Instructions to Remove Party, However, Not Yet Received by Cutter.

San Diego, Calif., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Although Coast Guard headquarters in Washington announced today that officers here had been requested to render assistance to a party of eight Americans stranded on Guadalupe Island, the Coast Guard Cutter Tamaroa put to sea on a 10-day cruise without having received such an order.

Mrs. J. A. Woodcock notified Coast Guard officers here last week that her husband, four other men, a woman and two children were stranded on the island. A Mexican possession 220 miles south of San Diego. The party had gone to the island to kill wild goats.

4 First Classmen Ousted From Annapolis for Pranks

Men, Who Were to Graduate Next June, Dismissed for Misconduct on Practice Cruise; Two Cases Reputedly Involve Rum Smuggling Attempt.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 2.—Four midshipmen of the first class have been forced to resign from the Naval Academy "for the good of the service," it was announced late today by Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent, following the Navy Department's approval of recommendations in the premises. Offenses committed during the late summer practice cruise to northern European waters are the cause, it was stated.

Those involved in the escapades, all of whom would, in the ordinary course, graduate from the academy next June, and the States from which they were appointed are:

Earl S. Schweitzer, Pennsylvania; George R. Fink, New Jersey; Colwell E. Beers and John R. Parks, both from Missouri.

Schweitzer was one of the star men in scholastic work and general efficiency, and is understood to have been slated for a high post in the regimental organization for the coming term.

Authorities of the academy declined to discuss circumstances attending the acts of misconduct charged against the boys, but it is generally understood that in at least two cases the midshipmen are accused of having attempted to smuggle liquor aboard ship at one of the foreign ports. The story circulating here is that these two returned to their ship together. One is said to have carried a box under his arm. Questioned by an officer, he is said to have replied that it contained a pair of shoes, and his companion vouched for the statement. An investigation revealed the true state of affairs, it is said.

Use or possession of liquor and falsifying are punishable by dismissal, under Naval Academy regulations, and a number of students have fallen by the wayside for such violation in recent years.

When the cruising squadron returned to Hampton Roads, August 12, the four above named offenders and several others, reported for minor infractions, were brought to Annapolis with members of the football

BISHOP TO WELCOME QUIZ BY GRAND JURY

Cable Follows Report U. S. Attorney Asked Nye Probe Records.

London, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, today reiterated a statement he made last Sunday in which he said he had never opposed a grand jury investigation into his 1928 campaign transactions if the Department of Justice decided the law and the facts warranted such a procedure.

Bishop Cannon's statement today referred to a dispatch from Washington which said the United States district attorney had called for the records of the Nye investigating committee.

"I have not seen the stenographic transcript of the testimony before the committee," he said, "I have only seen brief press dispatches in European editions of American papers and a brief summary cabled from my office.

"I emphasize again the statement I made on August 30 that I have never opposed a grand jury investigation if the Department of Justice decides the law and the facts warrant such a procedure. I insist I have not violated the Federal corrupt practices act; first, because the provision in that act concerning the election of presidential electors is unconstitutional, the Supreme Court having decided that presidential electors are State officers and if so, Congress is not empowered to legislate concerning the election of such officers.

"Second, nevertheless, a full report of all money expended by the headquarters committee of anti-Smith Democrats was made by the treasurer to the Clerk of the House of Representatives.

"Third, all other money placed in my hands for campaign purposes was expended by me personally in the State of Virginia for the defeat of the Smith Democratic Presidential electors.

"Fifth, no proof can be presented that one dollar was expended by the headquarters, or by me personally, for the election or defeat of congressmen or senators.

"Fifth, I did not apply one dollar to personal uses from the campaign funds placed in my hands. The personal notes which it was testified before the committee I paid in 1928 were paid out of my personal resources, just as I had been paying for many years similar obligations incurred to maintain the "Richmond Virginian," our prohibition daily. All campaign contributions deposited in Richmond, and the Blackstone personal accounts, were checked out for general and Virginia campaign purposes."

Faith, Hope and Charity Needed More Than Ever

By JOHN J. DALY

CALVIN COOLIDGE pleaded for faith in Massachusetts. As a result, the Cabots and the Lodges got together, cast aside all doubt, and made of the Old Bay State the pride of New England—with the exception, possibly, of Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont and one or two other Commonwealths.

One State having faith in itself led to a sort of renaissance amongst all the others, especially those near by. Even Tammany began to have faith in New York, and New Jersey experienced a birth of State pride so that today the word mosquito is never mentioned there in polite circles. It all began with Bostonians having faith in Massachusetts.

Now comes Otto Kahn calling on all his fellow citizens, from the rock-bound coast of Maine to the sandy stretches of sun-kissed California, and from the sapphire Gulf of Mexico to the beauteous borders of Canada, to have faith in America.

* * * *

It is time for an old-fashioned revival.

In 1928 and '29, just after the clarion call for faith in Massachusetts, vociferous and cocksure preachers—according to Mr. Kahn—pronounced the doctrine that America had entered a new economic era. It was true! Since then, unfortunately, other preachments, equally vociferous and just as cocksure, proclaim that America has again entered a new economic era. Well, it has; but——

These two economic eras are diametrically opposed to each other, and because the latter is said to be filled with dire and dismal developments, the faith that moves mountains of wheat and cotton is called upon to get the Nation out of the wilderness. Have faith in the Farm Board!

Rome and Greece, the mighiest empires of them all, were builded, fundamentally, on faith. The wise peripatetics, who walked about preaching the glories of their countries, were men of vision and faith. Logic had nothing to do with it. They knew, by an inborn sense of right and wrong, that Rome was Rome and Greece was Greece.

ALL the world has had faith in Herodotus, the father of history, because he recorded his findings, after conducting indefatigable research, with an impartiality that was pronounced. So, we have faith in him, as we have faith in the nebular hypothesis—and if we can have faith in these, certainly we can have faith in America. It's as simple as believing that breath is life.

The self-sacrifice of Leonidas and the good faith of Regulus—which, of course, is what made him a regular guy—are the glories of history. It should never be said that any Roman general, even if he were put to death by the Carthginians, possessed more faith in his country than Americans have in theirs.

Marcus Antonius said that the grandeur of the people of Rome was not seen so much in what they took as what they gave. The faith they held in their emperors—one of them, Caesar, capable of giving kingdoms to street beggars—came mighty near being the glory of all time. Yet all this should be as nothing to the faith which Americans have in America—for Rome in all its grandeur, and Greece in all its glory, are as nothing to the magnificence of America, its people having faith. After faith—hope. And the greatest of these is charity.

GEORGIA TO FOLLOW TEXAS COTTON CALL

Will Hold Special Session if Western State Does; New Parley Proposed.

(Associated Press.)

The Governor of Georgia told the Governor of Texas yesterday that the Georgia Legislature would be called into extra session to consider the cotton situation as soon as a special session call is issued for the Texas lawmakers.

At the same time Gov. O. Max Gardner of North Carolina telegraphed Gov. Ross Sterling of Texas, proposing a conference of governors, United States senators and agricultural leaders at Memphis, September 14 and 15, to consider the cotton situation.

Gov. Sterling disapproved the North Carolina governor's suggestion, explaining that "Our Texas farmers would not be contented to await results of a conference, which, in its nature, may be long drawn out."

Undecided on Special Session.

Gov. Sterling, awaiting a completion of his canvass of sentiment for an extra session, had not yet issued a call. The Texas executive said yesterday he was undecided about a special session, but that if he did issue the call, it would not be before September 10, when the State Senate is scheduled to convene to hear impeachment charges against District Judge J. S. Price. The Texas governor said that unless a more favorable response was received to his inquiry he doubted the advisability of a special session.

In his announcement that Georgia was ready to follow Texas in attempting relief for the cotton farmer, Gov. Richard B. Russell, jr., said the Georgia Legislature can act as rapidly as that of any other State, and it would be a useless expenditure of tax money to call a special session in Georgia if there were no prospect of other States doing the same.

Gov. Russell said the situation is critical, but that "it will never be solved in a spirit of excitement or hysteria. In the meantime it would appear to be wise for all cotton farmers who can possibly do so, to withhold the sale of any cotton until further developments."

Gardner Would Sift Views.

In his proposal for a conference, Gov. Gardner suggested there be no attempt to "promote any one plan but to get the conservative and careful judgment on all plans that may be presented and offer, if possible, a unified program to the South."

The plan for individual State action for the relief of cotton growers was initiated by Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana, who recently called his State Legislature in special session at which an act was passed, banning under penalty the growing or sale of cotton in 1932. The law is contingent on similar action by States producing 75 per cent of the American cotton crop.

Gov. Long suggested governors of other cotton-growing States call their Legislatures into special session for similar action.

Gov. Blackwood of South Carolina, also has been canvassing State legislators and agricultural leaders for a campaign for a special session and farm groups in Alabama have urged Gov. Miller to call the Assembly into special session.

Solution Called Farmers' Job.

Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, announced from his home in Vienna that the statement of Carl Williams, cotton member of the Farm Board, that the Farm Board would buy no more cotton, was a rejection of the relief plan proposed by Southern senators. He said the solution of the problem was up to the farmers, the financial and credit agencies of the South and the cotton-growing States.

Efforts on the part of the State to develop new markets in Latin-American countries as a means of relieving cotton farmers' distress were suggested to Gov. Russell today by T. R. Gress, assistant attorney general of Georgia.

In a letter to the governor, Gress advised establishment in the bigger Latin-American capitals of permanent warehouse displays of Georgia products both industrial and agricultural.

Fleeing Holdup Jumps Into Car Full of Police

New York, Sept. 2 (U.P.).—Ernest Pickford, stickup man, tried to rob a Brooklyn shoe store today, met with resistance, grew jittery and dashed into the street.

Gun in hand, Pickford leaped onto the running board of a passing car, leveled his pistol at the driver and shouted:

"Drive fast. Get me out of this neighborhood."

Six hands grabbed Pickford and pulled him inside. He learned later that he had tried to commandeer a car occupied by a police shotgun squad.

RAIL HIKE ARGUMENT WILL BEGIN SEPT. 21

(Associated Press.)

Oral argument on the railroad's plea for a general 15 per cent freight rate increase yesterday was set by the Interstate Commerce Commission for September 21.

Acting in an effort to expedite decision of the case, the commission announced the argument dates despite the fact that hearings still are in progress. The order also specified that attorneys for both sides must submit their briefs not later than September 18.

Five of the eleven commissioners now are sitting at two concurrent hearings in Chicago. These hearings started Monday and are expected to end next week.

The Chicago hearings are the last of a series that started July 15 with the railroads presenting their case. There was a recess from July 22 to August 4 when hearings were resumed at Portland, Me. Since that time the proceedings have been continuous, evidence at times being given simultaneously in two different cities.

The arguments will be heard by the full commission. Nothing definite has been determined as to the time to be allowed for arguments, but it is believed they will last several days, possibly almost a week. A decision is expected in October.

The railroads of the country, acting in unison through a committee of three railroad presidents, on June 17 asked the commission to permit a flat 15 per cent increase in rates on all products except coal. Coal was reserved for special application of rates based on a 15 per cent increase.

ORTIZ RUBIO IS MILD ON U. S. TREATMENT

Annual Report Refers Only Indirectly to Slaying of His Nephew.

Mexico City, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—No direct reference to the recent slaying at Ardmore, Okla., of President Ortiz Rubio's nephew, Emilio Cortes Rubio, and another Mexican youth, was made in the presidential annual report to Congress, published today, but regret for the incident was expressed indirectly.

The foreign relations section of the report, prepared by Foreign Secretary Genaro Estrada, said Mexico has had to be "intensely active" in protecting Mexicans and their property in the United States, and that the latter are "sometimes injured by the abusive application of immigration laws and sometimes by violence, as in the case of the deaths of some of our compatriots."

The report added, however, that the American authorities had given courteous attention to Mexico's complaints in these cases and said the fact that most of Mexico's foreign difficulties had been with the United States was explainable in that most of her foreign dealings were with that country, due to its proximity and the two people's mutual interests.

The report said American immigration authorities had obliged many Mexicans to leave the country on flimsy pretexts, but that the majority of the 91,972 who had returned to Mexico between July, 1930, and June 1931, came of their free will and were aided by the Mexican government to return to their homes from the border.

American Held in Cuban Revolt Charges Shanghai

Santiago, Cuba, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Gus O. Balling, an American citizen and a resident of New York, who is held here as a prisoner of war, today told William Schoenrich, United States consul, how he was shanghaied aboard a vessel off New York on August 17 and forced to join the recent rebellion against President Machado.

A friend telephoned him in New York on that day, he said, and asked him to go aboard a ship 30 miles out to give medical attention to a sailor whose leg was broken. He agreed, but once aboard the ship, which he identified as the Isle Vomeur, he was forcibly detained while it steamed south.

Two of the men aboard, whom he identified as Sergio Carbo, editor of a Havana magazine, and Emilio Laurent, told him they needed a surgeon and that they were going to Havana.

Later he learned that the ship was bound for Gibara, which the rebels planned to seize. Balling did not know there were guns aboard, he said, until they got to Gibara on August 22 and there began the battle in which the federal forces defeated the rebels.

While he remained in the rebel camp and until he was captured with other prisoners he attended the wounded at Gibara, he said.

Cuba Seeking Extension On Short-Term Debts

Havana, Cuba, Sept. 2 (U.P.).—With peace restored on the island, government officials are anticipating better times for Cuba, depending on a rising sugar market and the extension of payment of her short-term loans. The revolution temporarily halted negotiations for this extension on debts of $100,000,000. If the extension can be arranged it will effect a substantial reduction in the annual service charges.

Despite heavy slashes in the national budget for the past three years and the emergency tax law which increased taxes on imported goods, difficulty is being encountered in balancing the budget. Practically all public works, except necessary upkeep, have been suspended, many government employes have been dismissed, and the wages of others have been reduced in an effort to bring about a balance. The government has managed to keep up interest and principal payments on its foreign loans.

Fixed American Service Forecast by Dr. Eckener

Recife, Brazil, Sept. 2 (U.P.).—Dr. Hugo Eckener, of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin, said today that an air passenger, mail and freight service on a definite schedule between Europe and Recife appears probable in the near future.

The Graf has just completed a 5,000-mile flight from Germany. Dr. Eckener said the ship would depart Thursday night on the return trip.

Five Arrested in Bombing.

Mexico City, Sept. 2 (U.P.).—Five persons were arrested today in connection with the bombing of La Profesa Church here Monday.

Arrest Awaits Von Buelow As Penitentiary Term Ends

Canon City, Colo., Sept. 2 (U.P.).—Count Karl von Buelow, a leading member of the German spy system in this country during the World War, will be given his freedom from the Colorado Penitentiary tomorrow.

But when Von Buelow passes through the prison gates he will be taken in custody by immigration officials who will put him in the county jail here until it has been decided just where to send him.

Von Buelow, who has been the head waiter in the prison dining room, now is a "man without a country," he claims, saying that for political reasons Germany no longer wants him.

If the former German spy is given his choice of where to go, he will choose Vera Cruz, Mexico. In and near that city, he said, he has valuable holdings that will enable him to live the "life of a gentleman."

Von Buelow was sent to the penitentiary from Colorado Springs for forgery. Due to good behavior allowances he will be eligible for automatic parole tomorrow.

He is a graduate of Heidelberg University and reputedly the scion of a noble German family. During the war he was an aid to Capt. Karl Boy-Ed, director of the German intelligence system.

Von Buelow's operations in this country took him to many cities. He employed various aliases and disguises. He was arrested during the war at Elko, Nev., and held as an enemy alien at Fort Douglas, Utah.

After his release, at the end of the war, he was arrested in Ogden, Utah, for robbery. He served a term in the Utah State Prison.

He came to Colorado after his release, was arrested and sent to the State penitentiary. Immigration officials have requested a German passport for Von Buelow.

TWO-SCORE WITNESSES HEARD IN POLICE BRUTALITY INQUIRY

nesses and also the names of the men who are accused, or I would not do so," he declared.

At the same time he announced in emphatic terms that any one who attempted to question a witness would do so at his own risk.

Mr. Rover, Director Hoover and John M. Keith, in charge of the Bureau of Investigation's third degree inquiry, met for a long conference before the grand jury proceedings opened yesterday morning.

Then Mr. Hoover and Mr. Keith hurried into the grand jury room, bearing brief cases which bulged with data the Department of Justice has collected during its ten days' work on the investigation. It is believed the Department of Justice officials presented to the jury more than a score of statements taken from First Precinct policemen, professing ignorance of any beating received by Harker while in custody there.

These statements were taken before the Department of Justice entered the inquiry, and it is understood that several of the men at the precinct have "amended" the statements since.

Harker Details Charges.

After Mr Hoover and Mr. Keith had finished their preliminary work in outlining the case to the jurors, Harker was called into the room. He is believed to have detailed the charges he made against Precinct Detective James Mostyn, and Policemen W. C. Groomes, William R. Laflin and William T. Burroughs, which resulted in suspension of these men.

After his release from custody at the First Precinct Harker asserted Mostyn punched him in the eye, flogged him with a rubber hose and kicked him in forcing him to confess to a housebreaking charge. The other policemen were in the room at the time of the beating, Harker said.

Harker remained in the grand jury room for some time, and several other witnesses were called in during his presence.

Among them was one of the owners of the P O Visible Lunch Room, at 727 North Capitol street, the place Harker was accused of robbing by the four policemen, and Dr. H. Watson Moffitt, the physician who examined Harker shortly after the young man was released from custody at the instance of his attorney, S. McComas Hawken.

Take Most of Morning.

These proceedings took most of the morning. After lunch a number of witnesses were called and then Walter Johnson, colored, was taken into the grand jury room.

Johnson is believed to have told the story of his own alleged beating at the First Precinct station, and of seeing a rubber hose in the "third degree" room a short time after Harker was questioned. Johnson was whisked out of the building by several U. S. marshals.

After Johnson had testified, the jury is believed to have turned its attention to the other four cases of third degree methods, which were worked up as companions to the Harker case. A number of witnesses were called.

Adjourns at 4:20.

With 20 more witnesses under custody in the motions courtroom, the grand jury adjourned at 4:20 p. m. It is believed that the jury has about completed its investigation of the first five cases of alleged police brutality, and it is likely that few of the remaining witnesses in them will be questioned.

There is a possibility that findings in these cases may be returned to the District Supreme Court this afternoon. However, the usual course will be to make the report on Friday, "indictment day."

Inspector Louis Stoll, who conducted the preliminary police investigation into Harker's charges, appeared outside the grand jury room late yesterday afternoon, but was not called to appear before the grand jury. Later Capt. W. E. Holmes, commander of the First Precinct, appeared at the courthouse, it is believed for a talk with Mr. Rover. Capt. Holmes and his men were to be called as witnesses today, but Capt. Holmes said he did not know whether they had been ordered to appear or not.

Call to Thank Hoover.

In the midst of the grand jury investigation Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, Police Commissioner, and Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride, yesterday called at the White House to thank President Hoover for his interest in District affairs.

It was President Hoover who called the Department of Justice into the investigation following a call by Dr. Luther Reichelderfer, president of the Board of District Commissioners, and Mr. Bride.

The District officials did not see Mr. Hoover, but expressed their thanks to his secretary, Lawrence Richey.

Gen. Crosby was away on his vacation when the third degree investigation was started, and the Police Commissioner has been awaiting an opportunity to thank the President for his interest in the situation and for his statement condemning police who beat prisoners, but praising the force as a whole.

Representative Ernest W. Gibson, of Vermont, yesterday expressed an opinion that investigation of the Police Department should not be confined merely to brutality, but should go into all phases of police activity, particularly the relations between police and members of the underworld.

Representative Gibson is chairman of the special subcommittee which has been making a systematic study of all branches of the municipal administration of Washington.

U. S. HOSTILE, PARIS ASKS PARLEY DELAY

that in this Government's opinion the conference scheduled for next February must be held, not only in the interest of reduced armament expenditures but because it is felt world trade can not recover unless continental Europe gets away from its belligerent postwar frame of mind.

A report from Geneva, itself unconfirmed, that France had asked informally for the indefinite postponement of the general disarmament conference to be held at Geneva, was sufficient to reveal the determination of this Government to do all it can to force a conference and to bring out the fact that the administration is angry at the constant hints that postponement would be desirable.

Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle, jr., discussing the Geneva report, said that this Government felt one of the most important things in the world would be to cut down expenditures on armaments, and he added that if the United States were notified by the League of Nations that the date had been changed it would say very strongly what it thought.

The situation is a peculiar one. Every one in Washington knows that France, with the biggest army in Europe, does not want to hold a disarmament conference. Every one knows that France is going to do all it can to avoid one. Every one in the French government knows that President Hoover is personally deeply interested in holding the conference.

There is little this Government can do. With the respective positions of France and the United States so well known, there is little chance for informal get-together talks. Neither is inclined to change.

However, this Government feels that if France ever were brought to a disarmament conference real progress could be made through the sort of mass pressure that can be brought into play at open conferences. Perhaps France's attitude is dictated by thought of the same possibility.

This Government still is proceeding on the idea that the conference must be held. The western European division of the State Department has been working for months, in cooperation with the War and Navy Departments, on plans for the February conference, and will continue to do so.

What exactly are the armaments of each country, what reductions in this Government's view could be made, and the best means for making reductions so as to leave every nation relatively self-sufficient are among the things being worked out. It is still possible that this Government, if events shape themselves properly, might go to Geneva with a comprehensive disarmament plan.

Nervous Trigger Finger Gets Man 5-Year Term

Justice F. D. Letts yesterday sentenced Edward H. Smith, Negro, to five years in jail because he "got a little nervous" last February when he was attempting to rob John J. Gormley at the latter's store, 1038 Jefferson street northwest, and permitted his "pistol finger" to function twice.

Justice Letts asked about the Negro's aim and when told that Gormley had been wounded in the leg, he ordered Smith sent to jail.

Textile Workers Seen In Desperate Condition

(Associated Press.)

Desperate conditions attributed to wage cuts among Southern textile workers were pictured yesterday in the current issue of the American Federationist on the basis of a first-hand investigation of three unnamed mill villages.

The magazine, published by the American Federation of Labor, said in one town there had been 52 deaths this year, compared with 37 during the same period last year, before the wage cuts and employment of "stretch out" methods.

Nine of the deaths, the magazine said, were among children under 5 years of age.

"With the pinch of low incomes, families, and especially children, do not get proper nourishment and consequently there is a great deal of sickness," the article said.

It was reported that workers whose tasks were increased had received no extra pay and many of them complained their work was too much for them and caused them to lay off for a day now and then to rest up.

The article told of heads of families working for from $9.30 to $18 for a week of 55 hours. A survey of the pay envelopes of 75 men and women showed average wages of $10.70 for the men and $8.81 for the women per week. About half of these were on part-time work.

The magazine estimated the minimum budget for a family of five in these textile villages at $17.16 a week, basing the estimate chiefly on Agriculture Department figures.

Representative Cole (Republican), Iowa, called on President Hoover yesterday to discuss conditions in his State.

Farm Board Offers Seed To 12 Montana Counties

(Associated Press.)

The Farm Board yesterday offered to supply wheat for planting to farmers in twelve designated drought counties in Montana.

In a telegram to Gov. Erickson, the board suggested an arrangement under which the Montana county commissioners would buy the necessary amount of grain, giving in return notes payable in a year at 5 per cent interest.

Board members said they understood the arrangements included no other sections designated as drought areas by the Agriculture Department because Montana was the only State where seed is needed for the approaching winter wheat planting.

Farmers in the twelve counties are eligible for drought relief loans with a maximum of $1,000, but these are to be applied only toward the purchase of live stock feed.

The board in its telegram to the Montana governor said the Agriculture Department was unable to finance the purchase of seed wheat.

Asserting it understood that the county commissioners have the power to furnish seed grain on time to farmers, the board proposed that the commissioners buy some of the 200,000,000 bushels of the grain which its stabilization corporation holds, "f. o. b. present nearest locations at current market prices."

The board said it wished to emphasize that the proposal was made "only for the purpose of meeting a human emergency in this drought area."

Premier Laval and Edge Hold Hour's Conference

Paris, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Premier Laval and American Ambassador Edge conferred for an hour tonight. It was authoritatively learned that the questions of prolonging the Hoover moratorium, debt reduction and disarmament were not touched upon.

The Havas Agency said that during their talks, Ambassador Edge, Finance Minister Flandin and Premier Laval discussed the execution of a German-American agreement, covering private debts between German and American citizens. By this agreement, the agency said, Germany receives $18,000,000 and the United States $9,000,000. The American Government, it said, asks that the Hoover moratorium and London accord shall not affect it.

Mellon Sued to Prevent Postoffice Site Deal

A suit brought by the Droesch Realty Co., of New York, to prevent Andrew Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, from completing a deal for a postoffice site at Jamaica, Long Island, on the ground that the site was zoned residential, was dismissed yesterday by Justice F. D. Letts, who upheld the contention of Government counsel that the Secretary's act was not reviewable by the courts.

The court was told that a congressional appropriation of $875,000 had been made to purchase the site and erect the building and the realty company complained that the nature of the building was such that real estate values in the vicinity would be lessened. John J. Wilson appeared for the Government.

Johnson Congratulated On Attack on Job Policy

San Francisco, Sept. 2 (U.P.).—Mail received by United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson (Republican) California, today contained many letters of congratulation for his criticism of the Government policies in dealing with unemployment.

Senator Johnson declared in a speech before the California convention of the American Legion at Long Beach that the Government had failed to deal vigorously with the unemployment situation.

The reporting stores turned their stocks 249 times in July and since January 1 stocks have been turned an average of 2.148 times, a higher figure than 1.874 times for the corresponding seven months last year.

Collections in July were reported to average 27.4 per cent of total receivables outstanding on July 1, compared with 26.4 per cent of the outstanding receivables collected in July, 1930.

Sixty-five jobbers and wholesalers reported on their July business to the Bank of Richmond. In comparison with sales in July last year, July sales this year were materially less in all of the five lines in which figures were available, hardware, showing the greatest decline. In comparison with June, 1931, sales, July sales showed seasonal increases in three lines, but dry goods and hardware failed to make gains during the later month.

Hose Turned on Mexican Students.

Mexico City, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Police and firemen tonight dispersed a group of several hundred medical students who threatened to stone the plant of the newspaper La Prensa, which has been sponsoring the visit here of Dr. Pedro Gomez Llueca, Argentina specialist. had the backing of the administration, introduced a bill authorizing $74,000,000 for cruisers, submarines and aircraft carriers.

Had this bill been enacted into law, it would have represented a move to place the American Navy on a parity with the British Navy. As it happened, the bill failed of passage, and some of its supporters blamed this failure on the White House.

The only money that the last Congress authorized for the strengthening of the Navy was $10,000,000 for eleven new destroyers, and $10,000,000 for modernization of existing battleships.

Jobless Aid Argued.

The Navy Department, hoping that Congress would increase the size of the Navy in time for the next international naval conference in 1935, has been planning to submit a three-year program, in accordance with which a definite sum would be spent on ships in the next three years.

Parity with England would not be the only argument behind such a program. Its advocates are prepared to show how the building of ships would provide work for unemployed just as construction of Federal buildings is now providing work.

The insistence of Chairman Wood that naval construction be eliminated in the interest of economy places him in direct opposition to another of President Hoover's close advisers—Senator David A. Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania.

Senator Reed, who was one of the American delegates to the London Naval Conference, stated at the White House recently that "unless we build the Navy to treaty limits by 1935, we will have no standing at the next conference."

Former Chief of Police Killed by Texas Posse

Henderson, Tex., Sept. 2 (U.P.).—R. E. Williams, former Wink, Tex., city marshal, was shot and killed near here today by a posse of rangers and deputy sheriffs seeking a Louisiana bank robber.

The officers had been watching Williams' home, in a tent camp at London, near here, on suspicion that the former peace officer was involved in the $2,400 Pelican, La., bank robbery Monday. The bank's cashier and his wife identified Williams as one of the four bandits. Possemen found $35 in gold in a thermos jug in the tent occupied by Williams.

THEFTS BY CLERK PUT AT $2,500,000

Chicago Bank Employe Used Securities for Margins in Speculating.

Chicago, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Peculations of Walter E. Wolf, a veteran employe from the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Co., were estimated today at $2,500,000 as an audit was being made to determine the exact amount. Wolf, who confessed embezzling bonds to enable him to speculate, was held by private detectives in a hotel.

Neither Wolf nor the bank's officials, many of whom had worked with him 20 years, could tell how much he had stolen. "We do not definitely know the amount, but it is sizeable," said President Ames R. Leavell. One high official said the best estimate was $2,500,000.

A large portion of this is believed still in the hands of brokers with whom Wolf placed it as margin for stock market speculations. Lloyd, of London, had insured the bank against such loss for $2,000,000 and was expected to establish title to bonds now in brokers' hands.

The first embezzlement occurred in 1919, according to Wolf's reported confession, and small amounts were used from time to time as margin. In the 1929 market crash he was called upon for more and more margins, his market losses grew by leaps and bounds, and the embezzlements grew correspondingly larger.

As manager of the coupon department, Wolf handled a constant stream of gilt-edge securities. When he took a bond, he also took the bank's record of it so an audit would show no loss. Whenever bonds were called for, he would get them back from the brokers and convert others to his own use.

News of Wolf's confession was a shock to his business associates. He had always been considered a quiet, family man who apparently lived within his income of around $5,000 a year.

A broker who decided to investigate the customer with apparently unlimited collateral at his disposal was responsible for discovery of the peculations and Wolf's subsequent confession.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 33

THIS is a photo of the first football team which ever represented Emerson Institute on the local gridirons and there are some very familiar names in the list of those who played with the big E. I on their sweaters, although you may not recognize them.

THREE ARE INDICTED AS KIDNAPING GANG

Warrants Out for 2 Others; Trimmed Him at Cards, Too, Victim Says.

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Swift indictment of three persons by a grand jury and the issuance of bench warrants for two others brought trial nearer today for a band of five accused of the kidnaping of Charles Rosenthal, young broker.

Those indicted, after Rosenthal and police officers had appeared before the grand jury, were Nicholas Rutigliano, alias Nicholas Green; Marcus Blumenthal, alias Jack Markham, and Bettine Green, a Negress, also known as Betty Stewart.

Bench warrants were issued by Judge John J. Freschi in general sessions for Theodore Adinolfi and Albert Sileo, who are being held in Newark, N. J.

Rosenthal, who was abducted August 11 and released seventeen days later after his mother paid $50,000, told the grand jury he was kept handcuffed all the time he was a prisoner in an uptown apartment and that he was guarded night and day.

A rumor that Rosenthal's winnings from his captors at cards was the reason for their reduction in the ransom demanded of his family from $100,000 to $50,000 was denied by the broker. He said they took all his cash at pinochle, hearts and poker, but gave him $10 when they released him.

The Green woman, who allegedly acted as a decoy for the band to lure Rosenthal into their clutches, denied in police line-up any knowledge of a plot to kidnap him.

Police said they have confessions from all four of the men, who face maximum terms in prison of fifty years.

(Associated Press.)

Representative De Priest (Republican), Illinois, the only Negro member of Congress, yesterday presented President Hoover a mass of protests against the intention of the War Department to break up the Tenth Cavalry from a Negro regiment into small units.

De Priest said the Negroes of the country felt that breaking up of the unit would deprive them of an Army group which had always been composed of Negroes.

The GIRL About Town

OF course, Secretary Mellon had the "courtesy of the port" when he returned from his vacation in Europe. But, if the Secretary had anything to declare, he declared it. Equally certain is it that his trunks contained some new volumes of poetry, which the Secretary purchased in his rambles. He is a connoisseur of literature as well as of painting.

I saw Julia K. Whiting dashing along on her black horse as we drove in from Virginia yesterday. Julia adores horses, and never leaves her place near Warrenton save for a horse show or similar event. She has gone "back to the soil" with a vim. She always cared more for the tanbark than for the society arena, although her debut parties were delightful. I failed to note whether Julia had bobbed that glorious long hair of hers, the envy of all the girls in her tent at the National Service School.

Genevieve Champ Clark Thomson must have been behind her editor husband's fight to declare a moratorium on cotton growing, which won in the Louisiana Legislature the other day. She headed the "Use More Cotton" movement, and gave up silk stockings for cotton ones, when some of the other advocates were only "pretending." Genevieve is a brilliant political speaker, is only rivaled by Alice Longworth in political acumen, and knows most of the congressmen by their first names.

Mah-jongg, that fascinating lottery of ivory and bamboo pieces with its poetic symbols and signs, is playing a return engagement in Washington society. Five or six years ago it captured the National Capital by storm and put to rout bridge, African golf, seven up and even poker, that great American invention for taking money away from your friends.

Senators played mah-jongg; diplomats adored it; the Upper One Thousand played it at a dime a point, and it was a Yellow peril you could mention even in the most diplomatic of society. And here it is again!

4 FIRST CLASSMEN OUSTED AT ACADEMY

squad who went on leave ahead of their comrades, as usual. Meanwhile Rear Admiral C. C. Bloch, squadron commander, had forwarded a report of the misconduct acts. Superintendent Hart, approving of the reports, recommended the dismissal of the four first classmen. In the absence of Secretary of the Navy Adams, who is on vacation, Ernest Lee Jahncke, Assistant Secretary, intervened to the extent of giving the culprits a chance to make statements why the recommendations should not be carried into effect.

(United Press.)

Secretary of Navy Adams announced yesterday that he had accepted the resignation "by request" of four first classmen at the Annapolis Naval Academy, who had been charged with "misconduct" during the recent summer training cruise to European ports.

At the same time, Adams revealed that the Navy Department was continuing its investigation of six other midshipmen against whom charges have been preferred by Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, commandant of the Naval Academy.

RECORDS OF MISSING SCANNED IN KILLINGS

Hundreds of Letters Seek to Link Powers With More Murders.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—County Prosecutor Will E. Morris and C. A. Duckworth, Clarksburg police chief, scanned a mass of information concerning missing persons and the past of Harry F. Powers today while Powers' attorney prepared to defend him on charges of slaying two women and three children.

The officials said they were receiving mail and telegrams from hundreds of persons throughout the United States who have friends or relatives missing. They said they would investigate the cases to determine whether Powers, who corresponded with many women through a matrimonial agency, was responsible for any of the disappearances.

J. E. Law, attorney for the prisoner, succeeded in gaining admittance to the County Jail with a physician who examined Powers. They were in the man's cell for more than an hour. Law made no announcement of the purpose of the examination, but previously he had said he desired to have his client examined to determine whether he suffered injury at the hands of the police. The authorities claim they obtained a confession from Powers last Saturday.

Wife Turns Against Powers.

Chief Duckworth said Powers' wife, Mrs. Luella Powers, had changed her attitude of faith in her husband's innocence. He quoted her as saying she was "through with Harry Powers—I wouldn't have him turned loose for $100,000,000."

The bodies of Mrs. Asta Eicher and her three children, found near the Quiet Dell garage that Powers built near here, were cremated today in Pittsburgh. The ashes were to be sent to their former home in Park Ridge, Ill. Charles Fleming, of Northboro, Mass., brother-in-law of Mrs. Dorothy P. Lemke, advised a local undertaker he would leave home for Clarksburg tonight to claim his relative's body.

Arraignment Date Uncertain.

There was no intimation when Powers would be arraigned on the murder charges. The authorities were confining their attentions to tracing the man's past.

A photograph officers said belonged to Powers indicated he lived at Miller, S. Dak., in 1924 under the name of Joe D. Gildau.

Postcards mailed in a period from 1924 to 1927 indicated he had been at Connellsville, Pa.; Mansfield, Ohio; Richmond, Va.; Crestline, Ohio, and Vandalia, Ill.

Detectives who questioned him concerning the disappearance of Stamatifos Sfikas, owner of a shoe shine parlor here, said Powers "made light" of intimations that he may have been responsible for the man's disappearance.

Matrimonial Agency Under Fire.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Concluding the first day of his investigation of the American Friendship Society, Assistant Attorney General Joseph A. Gillis said tonight the society "should be put out of business and I believe I have sufficient evidence to do it."

It was as a member of the society that Harry F. Powers developed "romances" with the two women whom he killed in Clarksburg, W. Va., and corresponded with scores of other women.

Another death by violence among the society's far-flung membership was disclosed during the day. Investigating officers said they had learned that Mrs. Laura Bruckmeyer Downey, proprietor of a beauty shop in Detroit, and a widow with three children, was killed in Miami, Fla., January 7, by Martin F. Downey, a few weeks after a correspondence courtship developed through the American Friendship Society resulted in their marriage.

Downey killed himself at the same time, the investigators said they were informed.

C. O. P. CHALLENGES ROOSEVELT AID PLAN

Democratic Leader Brands Alternative as Smacking of Small Politics.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—A Republican alternative for administration of the $20,000,000 unemployment relief fund proposed by Gov. Roosevelt was submitted to the State Senate today and immediately was described by the Democratic leaders as "smacking of small politics."

The Republican proposal calls for administration of the fund by a special bureau in the department of social welfare. Under the governor's plan the money would be distributed by a temporary commission of three prominent men to be chosen by him.

Shortly after Democratic Leader John J. Dunnigan of the Senate denounced the Republican proposal as "sounding like a charity bill," a compromise measure was offered in the Assembly.

Dunnigan expressed surprise at what he termed a display of "small politics" after he said he thought the majority party had accepted Roosevelt's proposal in its entirety.

The compromise measure, offered by Russell G. Dunmore, Republican leader of the lower house, proposed that the fund be administered by a commission of three, composed of Dr. Charles H. Johnson, head of the social welfare department, and two appointees of the governor.

After introduction of this second Republican alternative in the Assembly, Senator George R. Fearong, Republican Senate leader, said his party was not committed to any one plan.

"We are all here," he said, "to serve a common purpose, to arrive at the best possible solution for the problem that confronts us."

Fearong disclaimed Dunnigan's charge of "small politics" and urged that an open mind be kept on the subject "until we have had the benefit of the opinions of thousands of men and women who have been engaged for years in this work." These opinions will be obtained at public hearings, which will be conducted at a joint session of the fiscal committees September 9.

No other aspects of the governor's plan were challenged by the Republicans, who dominate both houses. Roosevelt proposed to raise the $20,000,000 fund by increasing the personal income tax.

Legislature adjourned until next Tuesday night.

Tammany Chiefs Defied by Seabury

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Samuel Seabury waved a "big stick" today over the heads of the Tammany Democratic members of the legislative committee, investigating the municipal government.

A virtual ultimatum from the office of the white-haired independent Democrat said he would move for private hearings only before members of the committee who do not "deliberately and aggressively obstruct the proceedings." Private hearings by the Republican-controlled committee, of which Seabury is chief counsel, have been the target of repeated criticism by the minority Tammany Democrats.

"I defy Judge Seabury to apply it (the new policy) to me," quickly responded State Senator John J. Dunnigan, Democratic leader and ex-officio member of the committee. "Mr. Seabury has no right to put into effect such a rule," said Dunnigan from Albany. Private hearings have been the target of repeated criticism.

Esch-Cummins Law Hit in Freight Fight

Manufacturers and Farm Group Time Attacks Simultaneously.

Chicago, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Manufacturers protesting against the proposed 15 per cent increase in freight rates attacked the transportation act itself in an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing today.

Leo E. Golden, traffic counsellor for the Grand Rapids, Mich., Chamber of Commerce, asked the commission to urge Congress to repeal the clause which says the Government shall recapture one-half of a railroad's earnings in excess of 6 per cent of its property valuation.

Simultaneously the American Farm Bureau Federation, whose conventions have for ten years advocated repeal of section 15 A of the Esch-Cummins law, announced that its officers would testify Friday and denounce this clause which gives railroads the right to earn 5¾ per cent on their investment.

U. S. Magazines to Print In Canada, Due to Tariff

Winnipeg, Manitoba, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Notice that several United States magazines would be published in Toronto as a result of the recent 15-cent-per-copy minimum tax on certain type periodicals, has been received by W. J. Dickson, president of Canadian News, he said today.

Dickson said he had received such notice from the publishers of Love Story, Western Story, Popular, Argosy, Flynn's, Adventure and Calgary Eye-Opener. C. W. Playfair, president of Western News Agency, expressed belief the new tariff might cause Canadian readers to switch to English magazines.

COMPROMISE NEAR IN SPEAKER CHOICE

Mapes and Frear Suggested as Republican Team to Cement Factions.

(Associated Press.)

With but three months until the new Congress convenes, speculation around the Capitol has thrown new possibilities into an already complicated line-up of contenders for leadership in a House in which strength is closely divided between the two parties.

The latest suggestion is for a "compromise" Republican ticket including Representative Mapes, conservative Michigan member with a large personal popularity, for Speaker, and Representative Frear, progressive from Wisconsin, for leader.

On the theory that this team would promise to hold Northwestern liberal elements in line while satisfying the regulars, it was predicted today in some quarters that it might overcome an established lead, now almost evenly divided by the survivors of Nicholas Longworth's famous triumvirate of leadership — Representatives Tilson, of Connecticut, floor leader, and Snell, of New York, chairman of the rules committee.

The late Speaker Longworth's closest personal friend in the House, Minority Leader Gardner, of Texas, remains meanwhile the only Democratic candidate for Speaker. For Democratic leader, Representatives Byrns, of Tennessee, ranking minority member of the appropriations committee; McDuffie, of Alabama, veteran whip of his party, and Crisp, of Georgia, have been suggested.

With eight House seats vacant and the count standing two in favor of the Republicans, the balance of power might be tipped from day to day and organization may depend on the death and sick list when Congress assembles.

Another new name in the speakership race is that of Representative Cooper, of Ohio, whose strong stand for prohibition enforcement might become a campaign issue.

Representatives Hoch, of Kansas, and Purnell, of Indiana, are repeatedly mentioned as possibilities among those who want to elect Western or Middle Western men to high places. Representative Michener, of Michigan, who made a name for himself as a judicial investigator, has been suggested. It is assumed that he and his colleague, Napes, will not oppose each other.

Should the doughty Frear appear on the Republican slate, there would be the spectacle of a candidate for honor in a member who once paid the price of his committee membership for party irregularity. Frear campaigned vigorously for the ill-fated Independent presidential aspirant, Robert M. La Follette, in 1924, and was removed from committee assignments, but later was reinstated.

Lady Astor Denies Joining Red Party

Pet Aversions Are Blamed in Declaring Reports Are Inaccurate.

Plymouth, England, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Attacks made on Lady Astor in connection with her recent visit to Russia in company with George Bernard Shaw have drawn a vigorous reply from the Virginia-born member of the British Parliament.

In a letter addressed to W. L. Munday, chairman of the Conservative organization in her constituency, Lady Astor asks him to inform her supporters that she has not joined and is not joining the Communist party.

"Certain known people utilize every chance of either using me to air their pet aversions or using their pet aversions to injure me," she says. "On this occasion they either have taken the opinions of Mr. Bernard Shaw to try and discredit me, or they have seized upon inaccurate reports and statements supposed to have been made by me in Russia."

Ship Hears Nautilus; Radio Signals Weak

Copenhagen, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—The correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph at Longyear City, Spitzbergen, quoted Capt. Jaeger, of the steamship Ingertraede, tonight, as saying he heard radio signals from Sir Hubert Wilkins' Arctic submarine Nautilus at 9:50 p. m. today, but the signals were too weak for him to understand.

Stock Fraud Convict Will Face Tax Trial

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—George Graham Rice, internationally known stock racketeer, was brought back from Atlanta today to stand trial for not paying income tax on the proceeds of his promotion schemes to the Government.

Rice is serving four years in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta for using the mails to defraud in connection with sale of Idaho Copper Co. stock and in promotion of the Wall Street Iconoclast, a publication he used to boost the value of Idaho Copper stock.

YAWL OCEAN RACERS CHEERED ON RETURN

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Six modest youths who sailed a 45-foot yawl the 2,900 miles across the Atlantic in 17 days came home this afternoon to grow dizzy in the sort of boisterous reception New York usually reserves for aviators, channel swimmers and visiting celebrities.

They were the crew of the Dorado, which won the recent race from Newport, R. I., to Plymouth, England, in competition with larger boats manned by far older and more experienced sailors.

They came into the harbor on the Liner Homeric at noon and were taken off at quarantine by the City Tug Macom. From then on they experienced all the thrills that go with a typical New York "Welcome Home"—band music, congratulations of city dignitaries, cheering of crowds, parade, speeches, the posing for news reel pictures, a radio broadcast, interviews with crowds of reporters and then a banquet at night.

The six youths insisted they had done nothing much.

Yachting experts, however, said the foresight shown by Olin J. Stevens 2d, the 23-year-old captain, navigator, owner and designer of the Dorado, in picking a Great Circle course was what made the triumph possible. The other nine entrants headed for the Gulf Stream in the hope of being pushed on their way by a strong drift. Stevens turned the Dorado at the very start of the race toward the north. There he found favorable breezes that sent the small yawl speeding on its way, while the other craft, in the absence of the expected drift, were creeping along.

In addition to four friends, all but one under 23, Skipper Stevens took along in his crew his brother, Roderick, jr., 22, and his father. Three remained on watch all day and night, in four-hour shifts. The other members of his crew were Hartwell Moore, 20, of Huntington, N. Y.; Owen P. Merrill, of Roverton, N. J.; Edward S. Koster, of Scarsdale, N. Y., and John D. Fox, of Stamford, Conn.

Mining Board Delays Dividend for Merger

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—The meeting of directors of Phelps Dodge Corporation to consider dividend action has been postponed until after the meeting of Phelps Dodge and Calumet & Arizona Mining Co. stockholders September 21 to vote on the merger of the two companies.

Officers of Phelps Dodge Corporation explained that when the consolidation is perfected some of the present directors of Calumet & Arizona will be placed on the Phelps-Dodge board, and it was considered proper that they should have a voice in the dividend policy.

Sutton, W. Va., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—The Bank of Sutton, a State institution, closed its doors today and officials announced the action was taken for protection of depositors. The bank had capital stock of $30,000. Deposits June 30 totaled $298,087.

Gasoline Price Advanced.

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Richfield Oil Co., of New York, has advanced the tank car price of United States motor grade gasoline to 6¼ cents a gallon, from 6 cents, at its terminal.

Jews in Palestine Believe Coming of Messiah Is Near

Need Growing Out of Racial and Religious Conflict With Arabs Stimulates Faith in Old Testament Phophecy by Ezekiel.

Jerusalem, Sept. 2 (U.P.).—The coming of a "Kingly Messiah" to restore the biblical kingdom of David is imminent, in the belief of thousands of Jews in the Holy Land.

Burdened by many obstacles in trying to create a national home for their race and still involved in their bitter quarrel with Moslems there, the Jews believed the day is at hand for the fulfillment of the Old Testament prophecy of Ezekiel.

Daily prayers are said among the 50,000 orthodox Jews for the coming of their leader. Recent threats of conflict with Arabs have served to intensify the belief of both worshipers and priests that the prayers will be answered, despite the many historical instances of "false messiahs."

The words of the prophet Ezekiel have long been the basis of the belief: "Behold, I will take the children of Israel from among the nations, whither they are gone, and will gather them on every side, and will bring them into their own land; and I will make them one nation in the land upon the mountains of Israel; and one king shall be king of them all."

Since 1882 when 200 Israelites from Yemen, reputed to be members of the "Lost Tribe of Gad," made a journey on foot across the Arabian Desert to be here for the expected appearance of the Messiah, some 8,000 of their coreligionists have come to Palestine. After the World War the Zionist movement brought about 100,000 Jews from 50 countries.

Those who have opposed the Zionist movement have persistently forecast that it will end in a great Arab-Jewish conflict which will destroy the $100,000,000 invested in rehabilitation of the Holy Land as a Jewish National Home.

Outside the sacred site of Solomon's Temple at the Wailing Wall, which is now on sacred Moslem grounds, Jewish devotees awaiting the Messiah have pleaded every day for reunion of their scattered tribes, rebuilding of their temple and reestablishment of the Throne of David.

Nor have the Moslem religious leaders been idle in aiding the Arab plan for a United States of Arabia with Jerusalem as its capital. One instance of the effort to unite Arab sentiment for the project was the recent burial of Mohamet Ali, Indian Moslem leader, and former King Hussein in the precincts of the temple from which, tradition says, Mohammed ascended to heaven.

Hazz Amin El Hassein, the grand mufti of Jerusalem and representative of the Arabs, told the United Press that the Jews have attempted to buy the Mosque of Omar, but Palestine government authorities have discounted such reports.

Leland Abandons Suit On Ford Lincoln Deal

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Henry M. Leland, veteran of the automobile industry and former president of the Lincoln Motor Car Co., announced today that he will make no further effort to prosecute his $6,000,000 suit against Henry and Edsel Ford.

The announcement, made in a letter to 2,400 former stockholders in the Lincoln company, said that there is no further recourse at law in Leland's efforts to enforce a verbal agreement he says Henry Ford made to reimburse the stockholders of the Lincoln company when it was taken over by the Fords in 1924.

Edwina Booth Cleared Of Love-Theft Charge

Los Angeles, Sept. 2 (U.P.).—Edwina Booth, blonde heroine of the film, "Trader Horn," was absolved of a charge of stealing the love of Duncan Renaldo, romantic young hero of the picture, after fifteen minutes of testimony in superior court today.

A decision favoring Miss Booth was handed down in the $50,000 damage suit brought against her by Mrs. Suzette Renaldo, wife of the actor. Mrs. Renaldo charged that Miss Booth carried on a love affair with Renaldo while they were working on the picture in Africa.

Lehigh Valley Omits Dividend on Common

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Directors of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Co. today omitted the dividend of 62½ cents a share due at this time on the common stock. The regular quarterly payment of $1.25 a share on the preferred was voted, payable October 1 to stock of record September 12.

Italy Is Cool to Report Princess May Wed Carol

Rome, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—A report that King Carol of Roumania is seeking a marriage with Princess Maria Francesca, second daughter of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, was received coldly here today and most commentators considered any such marriage impossible.

Unofficial commentators at Vatican City said papal sanction would not be obtainable for such a marriage because King Carol is a divorced man, whose former wife is still living.

Royal Mounted Police Catch Horse Thieves

Regina, Sask., Sept 2 (A.P.).—The Royal Canadian mounted police believed they were on the trail of a province-wide ring of horse thieves with the arrest today of three men.

The men were taken into custody after discovery of a secret corral filled with stolen horses, which police said had been traced to various farms in Saskatchewan.

50,000,000 IN CHINA NEARING STARVATION

Missionary From Staunton Says Flood Refugees Are Doomed.

Shanghai, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Another vast welter of death and suffering was slowly being revealed today as President Chiang Kai-Shek estimated that 50,000,000 Chinese flood victims were on the verge of starvation.

While national effort was being made to relieve Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang, where 250,000 persons were estimated to have died of flood, starvation and exposure during August, attention was diverted to northern Kiangsu Province where the once fruitful and happy basin between the Grand Canal and the sea has been transformed into a death trap for scores of thousands.

The flooded area there approximates 5,000 square miles in which 10,000,000 persons dwell. The most intense misery has been inflicted upon five rich farming counties, each supporting 1,000,000. This region, containing the cities of Kaoyu, Shaopo, Taichow, Tungtai and Hinghwa, lies ten feet below the Grand Canal bed and twenty feet below the normal level of the canal. The Rev. Thomas L. Harnsberger, who arrived today from the devastated area, estimated at least 100,000 had died in the northern Kiangsu floods and that 2,000,000 would perish of starvation and exposure.

Mr. Harnsberger, who came from Staunton, Va., nineteen years ago as a Presbyterian missionary, said hundreds of villages must have been submerged.

While the National Flood Relief Commission's energies have been concentrated upon the central Yangtze valley, Kiangsu provincial authorities are mobilizing to aid the Grand Canal region. Already 40 launches are rescuing people from trees and roofs.

WASHINGTON PLANE CRASHES IN DUNDALK

Ludington Line Pilot Is Hurt as Ship Strikes House in Trouble Test.

Banking sharply to avoid high-tension electric wires along Dundalk avenue, which he saw he would be unable to clear, Earl Smith, 36, Washington pilot for the Ludington Line, at 1:28 o'clock yesterday crashed his ten-passenger trimotored Stinson monoplane in taking off from Logan Field, Baltimore. He sustained injuries that may cause him to be laid up for several weeks.

The pilot was alone in the airplane at the time, having asked three men passengers from Newark, N. J., to get out at the field for a while until he could make some test flights after one of the plane's motors had been functioning improperly. He had made one unsuccessful attempt to get off the ground before the crash.

The motor was still cutting out frequently when the plane left the ground on the second attempt, but Smith said later that the take-off would have been successful if the soft ground at Logan Field had not retarded him.

He had been forced to leave one of the prepared runways in order to head northwest into the wind, he explained, adding that he had taken off with similar type machines using only two motors on previous occasions.

Feeling that he could get no higher, and headed for the wires, Smith banked his plane sharply to the right and drove between the house and garage of Stanley Lanselle, of 6806 Beiclare avenue, Dundalk. One wing struck a porch roof, crumpling and knocking it down, and the other crashed against a small garage. The body of the plane was slightly damaged.

Occupied until the last second before the crash with the controls, Smith was unable to turn off the motors and feared the machine would burst into flames. He climbed out of the cabin of the monoplane immediately after it settled to the ground.

It did not catch fire, however. Officials at the field praised Smith's work in heading the body of the machine between the two structures and said that probably saved him from being seriously injured or killed. They pointed out that the portion of the machine occupied ordinarily by the passengers was not disturbed.

Suffering from a lacerated forehead, which had struck against the front of the cabin, a cut right arm and strained back, Smith was taken to the City Hospital in Baltimore for treatment and shortly afterward piloted another airplane furnished to bring him here. At Emergency Hospital it was said he was suffering from fractured vertebra and would be laid up several weeks.

The three passengers, Messrs. Goldhill, Robichan and Allen, whom Smith had brought from Newark, and who were bound for the Capital, took a later plane.

Mr. Lanselle was asleep in a second story front room when the wing of the airplane struck the roof. P. E. Fenn, salesman of 301 East Lanvale street, was standing on the porch after an interview with Mrs. Lanselle. He saw the airplane headed toward the house and retreated to safety.

Afterward he went to the assistance of the pilot. The Dundalk Fire Department was summoned, and the firemen cleaned up the spilled gasoline about the machine as a preventive measure.

Amateurs to Try Handicap Air Race

Socially Prominent on List of Pilots to Start Derby Today.

New York, Sept. 2 (U.P.).—A group of amateur pilots, several of them listed in the social register, are adjusting their planes for the start tomorrow of a handicap derby to Cleveland, the first of its kind in aviation history.

They will compete for a bronze trophy, and for most of the distance will be on their honor not to open their motors to more than 50 revolutions above the par cruising speed established by the handicappers.

Mrs. B. Allison Gillies, socially prominent, will compete in a Waco plane, and Miss Jessamine Goddard has forsaken her Junior League activities to enter with her monocoupe. Other entrants include: Miss Laura Morgan, Miss Mirrila Davis, Lawrence Turnure, prominent banker; D. Vernon Shaw-Kennedy, broker; W. E. D. Stokes, jr., John La Salle, Worcester, Mass.; Granville E. Smith, Hartford; Robert Buck, Roy Rainey and John S. Reeves, president of the United States Amateur Pilots Association. The take-off will be at 1:30 p. m.

Mather Field Pilot Hurt In Crash Near Langley

Langley Field, Va., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Lieut. R. P. Harris, jr., of Mather Field, Calif., was injured today in the crash of his plane in the salt marshes near Plum Tree Island. He was participating in machine gun and bombing matches here.

Harris was extricated immediately from the wrecked machine and rushed by speed boat to the Langley Field post hospital for examination.

Belgian Held as Spy Is Sentenced in Italy

Rome, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Leo J. Moulin, young Belgian professor, who was arrested here several months ago, today was sentenced to two years imprisonment and deportation at the end of his term, upon his conviction on a charge of conspiracy against the Fascist state.

During the trial Moulin admitted that he had brought a trunk with a false bottom into Italy and kept in it certain documents he had collected for friends outside the country. He said that he did not know his activities would be offensive to the Fascist government.

Constabulary Rushed To Anti-Chinese Riots

Manila, Sept. 2.—Three squads of constabulary reserves were rushed from Mannlia today to help suppress anti-Chinese riots at Gapan and other towns in Neuva Ecima Province. No fatalities were reported.

The riots were the outgrowth of the alleged disappearance of a Chinese warehouse owner and several hundred thousand pesos' worth of rice belonging to the people.

WELCH WINS FIGHT TO RECOVER INFANT

Venezuela Rules 3-Year-Old Must Be Returned to Him After Long Wrangle.

(Associated Press.)

A two-year fight over the custody of James E. Welch's baby girl ended yesterday with announcement that Venezuela had ordered the child turned over to him.

Welch said he would go to Venezuela to get the girl, Irma, aged 3, if the Venezuelan government would grant him safe conduct. Otherwise, he said, he would empower a legal representative to bring her to the United States.

There still remains to be decided Welch's claim against the Venezuelan government for damages as a result of 43 days' confinement at the instance of the baby's grandmother.

Welch went to Venezuela in 1922 as an oil company employe. In October, 1928, Irma was born to his common-law wife, Anita Salazar. Welch said the mother later abandoned the child, and that on February 25, 1929, he took the girl from the town of Bolivar.

Baby in Care of Friend.

The baby's grandmother accused him of a criminal offense as a result and he was held for 43 days before being freed. The baby was placed in the care of a friend of Welch's, and he came to the United States. Since November, 1929, he has been in Washington demanding custody of the child.

The State Department notified him yesterday of the Venezuelan decision that he could have the baby.

Mr. Welch said his case for damages against Venezuela may hinge upon what he charges was a forged document giving power of attorney to a Venezuelan lawyer who made certain agreements for him. State Department officials admitted they were investigating this charge, but declined to comment on its bearing upon Mr. Welch's claim in the event it was found to be a forgery.

The State Department said Welch was sent notice through an attorney named Rendon in July, 1929, that the case had been settled in Welch's favor and that the infant would be returned to him. At that time, officials said, a court order would have been necessary directing Domingo Savelli, in whose custody the child was left, to turn the girl over to Welch and the department said a petition for such an order was only a formality. Welch, however, left Caracas and came to the United States without returning to Bolivar for the baby

Sees Order as Surrender.

Welch's explanation yesterday was that Rendon was acting under power of attorney granted through a forged document and that if Welch had formally petitioned for the child he would have recognized jurisdiction of the Venezuelan courts over his child, whereas actually he did not recognize that jurisdiction.

He said yesterday the order from the Venezuelan government directing that his child be turned over to him was made without his having petitioned the court for the child and was a capitulation by the Venezuelan government.

Welch was informed of the Venezuelan order through a letter to his attorney from Acting Secretary Castle of the State Department. The letter said Savelli had informed Minister Summerlin that the Venezuelan minister of the interior had ordered the child released and relayed the suggestion Savelli be authorized to act as Welch's representative. Savelli was quoted as saying a delay in this "might cause further complications."

Man Entombed 8 Hours In Well Removed, Dead

Lancaster, Pa., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Digging down through 30 feet of rock and earth, rescuers early today extricated the body of William Bowers, entombed eight hours near the bottom of a well in Rowenna, near here. He had died shortly before. Bowers, a plumber, was installing a new pump in the century-old well when the sides caved in upon him.

Workers, headed by Allen Gainer, a life-long friend of the man, were in communication with Bowers after they had dug two hours. He kept calling for them to "hurry." His last words that filtered up through the mass of large stones which had faced the well were "Hurry; I'm getting cold."

UDET 'STEALS SHOW' AT AIRPLANE RACES

German War Ace Electrifies Spectators by His Antics; Rain Blocks Program.

Cleveland, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Maj. Ernest Udet, one of America's most feared war-time enemies, has come close to "stealing the show" at the 1931 National air races here.

On the ground, Maj. Udet, short and stocky and neatly dressed, looks and acts like any conservative business man. But in the air he makes the crowd gasp as he slips his scarlet ship, which he himself designed, through stunts that no one but a champion dare-devil would attempt.

Udet and the rest of the more than 400 civilian and service pilots were held on the ground today by a steady rain that forced postponement of the program. On other days, however, Udet performs loops, rolls and banks so close to the ground that the least mistake in judgment or air bump would send him crashing in an instant. His most spectacular stunt is to take off and fly across the field with one wing almost touching the ground. He closes his exhibitions by stopping his motor at a thousand feet, making three loops and landing with a "dead stick"—an idle propellor.

During the war Udet was officially listed as shooting down 62 allied planes. One of the pilots he shot down behind the German lines was Common Pleas Judge Wanamaker, now of Akron, Ohio. The German ace has the number tag of the Akron jurist's plane to present to him if he appears at the races this week, Judge Wanamaker inscribed the tag at the time he was captured, when Udet landed and gave him first aid.

There will be a double program of races tomorrow to make up for the postponement of today's events, among them a number of straight-away speed dashes.

If the Los Angeles to Cleveland Bendix Derby gets under way tomorrow after four days of delay on account of bad weather, the arrival of these racers will be one of the highlights.

13 Republicans File For Congress Seat

Candidates Seek Michigan House Place Vacated by Vincent Death.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Thirteen Republican candidates will compete to succeed the late Representative Bird J. Vincent of the Eighth District. The time limit for filing nominating petitions expired last night.

The list included present and past members of the Legislature and former State officials. In addition two candidates had qualified for the Democratic primary and the "workers" party put forward a candidate. Of th Republicans seven were from Saginaw County, as were both Democrats and the Worker. Among the republican aspirants is Joseph J. Fordney, of Hemlock, son of former Congressman Joseph W. Fordney.

AVIATION ORGANIZED FOR UNIFORM LAWS

Delegates From 16 States Form Association to Aid Nation's Flying.

Cleveland, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—The initial step toward developing uniformity in aviation in the 48 States was marked today by formation of a national association of State aviation officials. Delegates from 16 States to a conference called by Gov. George White of Ohio laid the ground work for coordinated State effort.

Planning to include the whole Nation in their setup, the association expects to foster the growth of aviation in the States along a general pattern of practices and regulations and in coordination with the Federal program of the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce.

To carry on the executive work of the association, map its program, and extend its representation to the whole Nation, the following officers were elected:

Frank M. McKee, Columbus, director of aeronautics for Ohio, president; Reed G. Landis, Chicago, chairman of the Illinois Aeronautics Commission, vice president; H. C. Bennett, New York City, secretary, and George B. Logan, St. Louis, chairman of the air law committee of the American Bar Association, legal counsel.

A board of directors will be appointed by President McKee to include seven members picked to represent geographical areas of the country. After the first board is set up its members will be elective.

Stokes and Thill Score Second Highest Count in Small-Bore Match.

Camp Perry, Ohio, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Scoring 199 points out of possible 200, Harold D. Allyn, of Springfield, Mass., today won the Wimbledon small-bore match at the national rifle meet here.

Allyn's target outranked that of R. Bradley O'Neil, Steubenville, Ohio, who also had a 199. The match was 20 shots at 200 yards.

Three men who tied at 195 were ranked as follows: Walter R. Stokes, Washington; Fred O. Kuhn, Stratford, Conn., and Sergt. Alex J. Thill, Washington. Four tied at 194: Marlin R. Kenimerer, Allentown, Pa.; H. H. Jacobs, Dayton, Ohio; Sherwood B. Moore, Orange N. J., and John J. Vitrano, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Texas team of Virgil A. Moore, Dallas, and Gene Farren, Houston, won the short-range two-man team match with each man firing 20 shots from 50 yards and 20 from 100 yards. Moore scored 397 and Farren 395, and their aggregate excelled three other 792's. V. F. Hamer, Primghar, Iowa, and Thurman Randle, of Fort Worth, Tex., who won the match last year, were placed third on their 792, behind Lawrence A. Wilkins, Norwood, Ohio, and Eric Johnson, New Haven, Conn. The fourth tying team was W. R. Stokes and Theodore L. Harrell, both of Washington.

In the individual civilian club members' match with service rifle, fired in a steady all-afternoon rain, P. E Warren, of Colorado, won when his 96 out of a possible 100 outranked that of Matt Fritz, New Mexico, and V. Miller, Columbus, Ohio. This was fired 10 shots slow fire standing and 10 rapid fire kneeling or sitting-from-standing, at 200 yards.

Twelve men tied with 49 out of possible 50 in the Scott Trophy match, 10 shots at rapid fire prone-from-standing, at 300 yards. The shoot-off will be held later in the week. Competitors numbered 1,190.

Nearly 1,000 shooters vying in the Marine Corps Cup match completed the first stage of 10 shots at 600 yards, but finish of the 1,000-yard stage was put over because of the rain, and will be finished after the Wimbledon Cup match tomorrow afternoon.

Fliers From Nicaragua Stop at Quantico Field

Three Marine Corps aviators assigned to Nicaragua stopped over last night at Brown Field, Marine Barracks, Quantico, en route to Philadelphia, where they will leave their Fokker transport plane for overhauling.

The officers, Maj. James T. Moore, Lieut. Herbert T. Becker and Lieut. Frank G. Dailey, will take off from Quantico for Philadelphia at 9 o'clock this morning. They will return immediately to Nicaragua in another plane.

Rum Plane Seized; Tear Bombs Help

U. S. Border Patrolmen Arrest Three Men From Canada.

Lockport, N. Y., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—United States border patrolmen today, after throwing two or three tear gas bombs, captured an airplane which landed in a field here with a cargo of contraband liquor from Canada. Three men were arrested. One was said to be the pilot. The other two comprised the crew.

Fred A. Bradley, customs collector, said two of his men first seized a liquor-running automobile and two men took the men to jail and drove to the Becker Flying Field. As they drove onto the field an airplane landed alongside the car and the pilot tossed out a sack of ale.

The two patrolmen drew out their gas guns and made known their identity. In order that the pilot should not be able to take off again the agents fired two or three tear gas bombs. An inspection showed the plane to contain 30 cases of Canadian ale and 3 cases of whisky.

BUY WHAT YOU NEED.

"Lack of confidence" has become the common diagnosis of the depression in its present stages. Money is piling up in savings banks, while the greatest bargains offered to the American people in a decade go begging. The public is on tension and refuses to relax. This attitude of mind is probably more responsible than anything else for the continued inactivity of the business world.

Industrial leaders have been roundly criticized for not forestalling the depression and for not bringing it to an abrupt end. But it is apparent that the solution is not wholly in their hands. So long as the people refuse to buy the articles which they need and can afford, increased production could only complicate the situation. So long as the public psychology is gloomy normal business activity and normal employment are out of the question.

The Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank, of New York, sent out advice to its depositors last week to spend their surplus cash for commodities they need while prices are low. Of course, the bank urged that a reserve fund be maintained for emergencies that may come upon any family at any time. Beyond that, depositors were told, it is good business to invest in articles that have long been needed. Not for years has the public been offered such bargains as are available today. Savings banks are cutting down on their interest allowances while merchants are adding to the attractiveness of their merchandise and prices.

This sound advice ought to go out from every bank in the country. The return of prosperity is delayed because billions of dollars are tied up in savings institutions. Why do not bankers get together and promote judicious spending for actual necessities. Let the people be given assurance that they can save money by buying now before higher prices return. If this campaign were supplemented by a movement in industry to guarantee jobs to all employes now on the pay rolls, buying power would soon return to approximately its normal strength.

Workingmen who are drawing the same wages as before the depression have a much greater purchasing power now. The great majority of the American people have not felt the effects of the depression except in the form of lower prices. In recent months they have been saving their surplus and going without many things they need. Most of them have a sufficient reserve fund to insure them against the vicissitudes of the future. Good business policy demands that they take advantage of low prices to buy commodities for their own sustenance and comfort.

Those who hold jobs will be called upon to donate for relief of the unemployed. If the employed were using their purchasing power in a normal way the unemployed would be provided with jobs instead of unearned food and shelter.

The people ought not to wait for the captains of industry and finance to supply a remedy for the depression when they have the most powerful stimulus for business within their own grasp. Every one must do his bit as every one did during the war. A general surge of buying of needed commodities would put the depression to rout in short order. It is time for financial advisers to spread this sound advice, and for the people to employ their money where it will bring them the greatest return. By hoarding it in banks they prolong the depression and prevent the unemployed from getting work.

UNJUSTIFIABLE DEMANDS.

War veterans have been advised from many quarters to forego further demands for benefits out of the Federal Treasury while tax receipts are low and the demands for relief growing out of the depression are heavy. Until recently there were indications that the veterans organizations would be satisfied with the bonus granted to former service men by the last Congress, but two large gatherings in session this week indicate that they have now abandoned all restraint and are out for all they can get.

Speaking before the Veterans of Foreign Wars in their national convention at Kansas City, Gen. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, stressed his opinion that remunerative employment rather than further monetary aid from the Government is the greatest need of veterans. More than 300,000 veterans are in receipt of compensation aggregating over $13,000,000 per month, while disability allowances, in addition to hospital and domiciliary care, cost an additional $5,000,000 monthly. The total expenditure in behalf of veterans now amounts to approximately $900,000,000 a year.

Gen. Hines said he considered it far more in keeping with American traditions to give veterans opportunity to earn their own way than to provide some form of gratuitous benefits. The Veterans' Administration is working with the Labor Department to provide employment for former service men.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Jahncke asked former service men to make no further demands upon the Treasury while the Government is confronted with a large deficit.

The reply to these appeals was prompt and unequivocal. Commander Wollman told the delegates that the Veterans of Foreign Wars were committed to a program calling for enactment of legislation by the next Congress to permit full payment of adjusted compensation certificates, on which most veterans already have borrowed 50 per cent; equal recognition for the widows and orphans of World War veterans with those of previous wars and assistance for dependent mothers and fathers of those who died as a result of war service.

The American Legion of California in State convention, if it follows the lead of District Commander B. W. Gearhart, will join a Washington post in demanding a Federal loan of billions upon condition that out of it the remainder of the bonus be doled out to veterans. It is very evident that the campaign to impress Congress is already under way and that the next session will witness an unprecedented veterans' raid on the Treasury. Such demands are indefensible at this time. Only a small percentage of veterans are in need of special consideration and they are being generously provided for. The able-bodied should not ask the Treasury to finance them.

MEXICO'S EXPERIMENTS.

Mexico is suffering from one of her periodical attacks of experimental legislation forced upon the nation by officials and complacent legislators who have neither the training nor experience to foresee the consequence of hastily improvised laws. President Ortiz Rubio appeared before the opening of Congress on Tuesday to unsettle business and financial conditions still further with the announcement that additional sweeping changes are contemplated.

The president made it clear that his administration contemplates the inauguration of a "frankly and highly protectionist policy" that will be accompanied by measures designed to intensify national industrial production. It is a laudable ambition to desire to see his country industrially independent of foreign imports, but such miracles are not accomplished suddenly by peoples inexperienced in mechanical engineering and industrial pursuits, as Russia is learning, even with all the resources and power at its command.

With the menace of additional laws and the demoralization already precipitated by the enactments of the last few weeks, Mexico certainly will not attract foreign capital for new factories. Those already existing are faced with the probable necessity of closing because radical laws have unsettled currency values, caused confiscation of contracts, removed all foreign banking credit and loan facilities, imposed impossible hardships upon employers in their relations with labor, and exacted new taxes, not only for this year, but applicable to gross receipts for last year as well.

Aaron Saenz, secretary of industry, commerce and labor, points out another vital cause of Mexico's plight—the ruin of her oil industry. This is charged to Luis N. Morones, head of the Mexican Confederation of Labor, who held under President Calles the same cabinet position that Saenz does now. The arbitrary application of the law on the part of Morones, it is claimed, "provoked, through the exodus of petroleum companies from Mexico, the ruin of this national industry and provided one of the causes of the prevailing economic depression in the country."

The experience of the oil interests in Mexico with arbitrary laws and high taxes is not such as to encourage President Ortiz Rubio's new program. The damage caused by the policy affecting the oil companies is permanent, for instead of Mexico securing the benefit of further development of her fields, British and American capital turned to Venezuela and Colombia. Mexico is within her sovereign rights in initiating legislation that disrupts her economic and financial systems, but she can not expect such action to attract foreign investment for her industrial program or even to enlist the active cooperation of capital already in the country.

DEFYING THE LAW.

New York is face to face with the most serious problem in law enforcement that has developed in modern times. Gangsters are preying upon innocent citizens and engaging in open battles with police in crowded streets where many lives are endangered. In the words of Gov. Roosevelt's appeal to the Legislature for a remedy, "gangdom has challenged the strength of the law."

The same problem has been encountered in many other cities. Organized gangs of criminals are not reached by the law. It is common knowledge that they instigate crime ruthlessly and that they live on the rich profits of banditry and racketeering. But in most cases they are immune to the punishments prescribed by law for the enemies of society. The established methods of combating crime have failed utterly to bring them to justice.

In most jurisdictions gang leaders can be arrested on suspicion of having committed a felony. But if the necessary evidence is not produced within a brief period they must be released. They may be taken into custody on charges of vagrancy, but most racketeers can easily prove that they are not vagrants, but, on the contrary, have large incomes. Hence, they are able to flout the law, and police must go on fighting lesser criminals without being able to remove the primary source of organized lawlessness.

On recommendations from Acting Mayor McKee and Police Commissioner Mulrooney, of New York City, Gov. Roosevelt has asked the Legislature to set up new and more effective weapons against gangdom. Private possession of machine guns should be outlawed. More rigid restrictions should be established for the issuance of permits to carry pistols, and all applicants for such permits should be fingerprinted. Additional penalties should be provided for criminals who carry out their depredations in armored cars.

These proposals to strengthen the law are unquestionably a step in the right direction, but they do not solve the problem of how gang leaders can be put behind prison bars. Acting Mayor McKee suggests that the police be authorized to arrest and imprison all persons living habitually idle and bearing an evil reputation, or engaged in some illegal occupation, or consorting with thieves and criminals, or frequenting illegal resorts. Certainly this would give the police the power they need, but it would open the door to such widespread abuse that the remedy might be worse than the evil. It is not to be supposed that the Legislature will risk any such sacrifice of individual rights.

The question of how to control organized lawlessness remains, therefore, as baffling as before. It will be interesting to see what action the New York Legislature may take, but there is no practicable solution in sight.

CLOCKMAKERS AND CLOCKS

From the London Times.

A minor American humorist wrote a cheery little tale about a man who took a fancy to clocks, bought more and more clocks until his room was full of them, and then went mad through trying to make them all keep time together. To a less inconvenient degree many people have at one time or another been mad about clocks. The approaching 300th birthday of the Company of Clockmakers, which received its charter from King Charles on August 22, 1631, will turn their thoughts to their past and present loves among clocks and watches. The paternal watch, large, gold, which used to fly open when fiercely blown upon; the "One Day Bee," or other such rackety little foreign friends of school days; the bracket clock in the hall, with its silvery tinkle of chimes; the great old grandfather with a moon like a Dutch doll at the top of his face, which ticked so solemnly and struck so awfully and yet comfortably in the rare wakeful night hours—any one of these, or a dozen others, may have set alight a fancy or a passion that will last till the church clock strikes the last of a man's hours.

They get the best out of clocks and watches who know all about their insides as well as their outsides; know exactly what is meant by pinions, escapements, pallets, trains and the rest, and how the movement of a timepiece has changed in the last 600 years. But those who have no mechanical taste or skill may always say what those who know no astronomy say—that ignorance increases the mystery, and that it is enough for them to admire in reverence the works, while they concentrate on the beauty of the dials, the hands, the corner ornaments, the case, all the lovely work in metals and in woods, in gilding and in painting, in enamel and in jewelry with which clocks and watches can delight the eye.

Seeing how common and how cheap are watches and clocks today, it is hard to realize how shortly before the Company of Clockmakers had its charter did men cease to be content with the sundial, the hour-glass and the water clock. It is only natural, perhaps, that the art of the clockmakers should have developed easily and quickly in England—a country where sundials were all but useless, and water clocks too shrewd a reminder of the weather. It seems not to be believed now that St. Paul's Cathedral had a clock in the thirteenth century, and St. Albans Abbey a clock in the reign of King Edward II, but it is held very probable that the Dover Castle clock of 1390-1400, now in the Victoria and Albert Museum, is one of the earliest clocks still in existence. As time went on London clocks, like London guns, became the best in the world, with material and workmanship better than any provincial or foreign competitor could compass. Great names among the English clockmakers came into fame: David Ramsey and Edward East, Thomas Tompion and George Graham, his assistant, who are buried together in Westminster Abbey; Daniel Quare, Thomas Earnshaw, John Harrison, who made the first good marine chronometer, and Thomas Mudge, who invented the lever escapement. And now the variety of clocks and watches, in size, in shape, in material, and in everything, is a constant marvel. From the clock of the Houses of Parliament (commonly miscalled Big Ben) to a lady's wrist watch scarcely to be seen by the naked eye, there are all sizes. When the clockmakers got their charter, a big "lantern" clock wanted winding every twelve hours; and even in the eighteenth century no minute hand could be trusted (though the then much more important dial of days of the month went very well). Today a watch the size of a postage stamp will go for eight days, and a thing scarcely thicker than a half-crown will hold works that put to shame the honest contents of the "egg" or the "turnip" of our forefathers. And, indeed, it is kind of the clockmakers to charm our senses and to amuse our minds with their arts. It is thus that they divert attention from the true meaning of that figure of time with his scythe which is one of the supporters of their shield.

A Sorry Spectacle.

POST HASTE.

The more we see of public statements the more firmly convinced we are that all officials should be equipped not only with mufflers, but Maxim silencers.

Some States and some individuals want relief funds collected pro rata, like taxes, but distributed like senators, two for each, regardless.

Of course, we are sorry about the French market slump, but they have been pretty cocky about their unique position in a troubled world.

Complaint that nothing is done for the Virgin Islands is refuted by the War Department's grant of a dozen pairs of homing pigeons to establish interisland communication. Obviously, in time of stress, they would be more nourishing than a wireless system.

Better stop measuring the oyster crop in bushels or it will run into disastrous overproduction like the other shell games.

"Cotton is King: or, Slavery in the Light of Political Economy" was written in 1855. It should be rewritten today as, "Cotton is Slavery; Diversification is Economic Freedom."

At a recent session of the Mexican Chamber of Deputies members on the floor fired 60 shots at each other, resulting in one fatality, so at the fall opening on Tuesday all persons upon arrival at the chamber were searched for arms "except members of congress, diplomats and high officials." No infringement allowed on congressional impunity.

Are we thorough and efficient? Well, just mention anything wrong and see if it escapes investigation by judicial, executive and congressional committees and at least one commission.

Stock market prices with rare exceptions have remained on an even level for a month. It is encouraging to know there are so few holes in the rock bottom.

The racketeers are the best eliminators of each other yet devised. Instead of interfering so much the police should install a Feud Fomenting Department. PAUL HUDSON.

USES FOR COTTON.

Once upon a time, when the engineers charged with building a lighthouse on the British coast were at their wits' ends to provide a stable foundation in shifting sand, a wrecked ship came ashore, covering the beach with vast quantities of baled cotton. They seized the opportunity, according to the Springfield Republican, and the lighthouse built on a cotton foundation stood for a century or so. Surely it should be possible to turn to account even a bumper crop of a stuff capable of such undreamed-of uses.

If the weavers, spinners and dressmakers can not take care of the surplus, perhaps engineers of one kind or another might. There have been roads on Cape Cod that rested on nothing more substantial than old fish nets. Almost any use except the manufacture of gunpowder is preferable to the waste of deliberate destruction.

Does a Man Plant an Orchard and Then Give No Thought to the Fruit It Bears?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHEN trials and troubles multiply and existence seems to have neither plan nor purpose, you may find new hope and courage without other guide than your own common sense.

Observe the motion of things and consider the laws of motion.

There are two kinds of matter—two kinds of bodies. Both of them, in a natural state, are at rest. They move only when energy is applied to them.

One, which has life, is capable of spontaneous movement. It moves itself as its will directs.

The other, having no life, is moved only by a force outside itself—as a ball is thrown, a wheel turned, a weight lifted.

These are obvious truths, made manifest by your senses, supported by your common sense.

If, then, the earth moves and yet has no life to make it capable of spontaneous movement, is it not clear that a power greater than itself causes it to move?

And if a power greater than earth set the planets and stars in their place and devised the law of attraction that holds them to their courses, together with the multitude of reciprocating laws that govern the infinite details of earth's economy, does not the continued operation of these laws afford sufficient evidence that the power by which they were devised still exists?

And if that power exists today, undiminished and unchanged, has it lost interest in its laws or the creatures they govern?

Your common sense will give the answer.

If a man of great ability builds up a transportation system of railroads and steamships, does he then leave it to manage itself?

Doesn't he keep himself informed of every detail, directing every activity and development, watching all things with jealous care to preserve and improve his creation?

How could he do less?

He will delegate authority and select able lieutenants to do his will, but he will not stand at any man's elbow to enforce his commands. Each workman, from the highest to the lowest, will have his share of responsibility, and the work he does will reveal the measure of his loyalty and his understanding.

And whether the work is good or bad—whether the men are guided by a spirit of cheerful cooperation or by sullen resentment—the builder of the system never will forget their existence or lose interest in what they do.

Isn't that true? And if He notes the sparrow's fall, are you not more valuable than many sparrows?

PRO AND CON

Burdens of the Presidency.

New York Times.

The pressure put upon the Presidency in normal times is heavy, but it is redoubled in a period like the present. Every man with a grievance, or request, or a freakish political or social scheme, desires to run with it at once to the White House. One has only to glance at the daily lists of Mr. Hoover's callers to see what a variety and urgency of problems are continually being forced upon his attention. Besides the men with whom he makes appointments for the sake of consultation, there are the throngs of congressmen and of groups from every State in the Union besieging the doors of his office. It all shows how the people of the United States are disposed to place upon the shoulders of their President a burden of work fairly to be called—as even that man of dynamic energy, President Roosevelt, once called it—"infamous."

A part of the infamy consists in asking for the impossible. Because the American President has a very great responsibility, it is too hastily assumed that he has unlimited power. Because he feels it his duty to listen patiently to complaints, people go away thinking that he ought at once to furnish the remedy. It is even argued that, without Congress "on his hands" just now, Mr. Hoover ought to be doing everything that is needful. But the American President is not a dictator. Some of the necessary limitations of the functions and ability of any American President ought to be kept in mind by those who keep on clamoring over what they call Mr. Hoover's do-nothing policy. He is, in fact, doing all that he can—and angels could do no more.

Pinchot's Hat in Ring.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

In going out to Missouri to tell the farmers there just what they want to be told, to espouse their claims for special benefits from the Federal Treasury and to indorse the legislative nostrums for farm relief to which the Republican administration is firmly opposed, Gov. Pinchot is frankly playing his role of a candidate for the presidential nomination. Since his sole support can come from the Republican insurgents, he resolved to open his active campaign west of the Mississippi, where they flourish in profusion. And yesterday, with his indorsement of the debenture and equalization fee, his criticism of the railroads for asking higher freight rates and his disparagement of the protective tariff as injurious to the farmers, he went over to the insurgents and the farm relief quacks bag and baggage.

The Unemployment Cure.

Atlanta Constitution.

The only sovereign and satisfactory cure for unemployment is employment. Hence the rightness of the proposals by publicists, economists and labor actuaries that public funds be employed to produce employment rather than in schemes of dole handouts and unemployment insurance. Wherever those palliatives have been employed they have served to make unemployment popular, reduced the ambition and spirit of workers, and imposed enormous and intolerable taxes upon property and the earnings of the employed.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Subscriber Recalls How Western Town Substituted Work for Charity With Excellent Results.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial of August 28, on "One Town's Example," ought to be reprinted about once a week for a long while. It gives far-reaching suggestions which ought to be followed generally.

The writer remembers vividly reading a few years ago an incident in the history of a Western town. This growing young town had in the midst of one of its prominent streets an ugly hill.

The city council discussed this hill occasionally with an increasing conviction that it must be removed, but it could never see any way to finance the operation. One ingenious member did a little investigating and evolved a practical plan. Finding that the town spent about $1,500 a year to relieve cases of destitution, he induced the council to set aside this amount for removal of the hill.

When there came an applicant for financial aid he was set to work digging and carting this soil to areas of lower level. Each worker was paid 80 cents a day, which at that time and place was sufficient to feed a man. He could remain on the job as long as he wished, or until he found a better one.

In about fifteen years the site of the hill was a beauty spot, thousands of men had been helped to independence, and it had not cost the city quite $1,500 a year. Such are the fruits of mutual help when earnestly supported.

Married Women Whose Husbands Are Employed Should Give Up Jobs to Heads of Families.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Any one with an unbiased mind and not prompted by selfish motives should agree that in times like these, when hundreds of thousands of heads of families are unemployed, their children and wives suffering, every married woman whose husband is employed at a decent wage should voluntarily resign her position or be asked to do so. These positions should be filled by deserving heads of families.

There is no excuse, with an estimated 7,000,000 people out of work, for two or more salaries flowing into one household. There are many cases here in Washington where the father, mother and one or more children are employed, while other families are deprived of the necessities of life and, in many instances, are actually starving. They are entitled to the necessities of life just the same as any one else.

Statue of the Late President Taft in Connecticut Avenue Park Is Suggested.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Let me suggest to the honorable Commissioners the desirability of removing the small park in the center of Connecticut avenue at the southern approach to the William Howard Taft bridge. Because of the heavy traffic no side parks should be built at this spot. The trees in this park could be transplanted at the other end of the bridge.

Let me also suggest that the tiny park just south of the one in question be saved, and a statue of our late beloved President William Howard Taft be erected there, facing the bridge, where he loved so much to take his evening walk as the sun went down.

Reader Suggests That Success of Police With Minor Crimes Is Due to Third Degree.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your paper is to be congratulated for exposing the brutal methods employed by the police department in extracting confessions from suspected prisoners.

Perhaps the reason for the success of the police in "breaking" minor crimes and their consistent lack of success in the solving of sensational murders is that the police can not produce a desudation in the latter cases due to the great publicity attached to them, while very little attention is paid to the former.

TEACHING SPORTSMANSHIP.

Would there were a way to teach
Courage to the growing boy.
All so pitiful seems speech
In his hour of shattered joy
When his cherished hope seems gone;
Vain it is to whisper low:
"Come, be brave and carry on,
Soon the pain of this will go."

Musing thus I fancied then
Something in my study stirred
And a voice said: "Why must men
Lean upon the spoken word?
Courage isn't taught by speech
Or by books upon a shelf,
If it's bravery you'd teach
Let him find it in yourself

"Oft you whimper and complain,
Oft you let your temper fly.
He has heard you fret in pain.
Often when he's near you sigh.
Petty losses knock you low,
Disappointment droops your lip;
Better courage you must show
If you'd teach him sportsmanship.

"Let him see you play the man,
Let him see you stand to care;
That's more apt to teach him than
All your phrases, fine and fair.
Set him an example here
Of the manly thing to do,
And in times of stress and fear
He'll be just as brave as you."

SOVIETS LEAD TRADE TO NEW LOW IN JULY

Both Imports and Exports Continue Far Below 1930 Figures.

(Associated Press.)

Russian purchases in America, which jumped 50 per cent in June, fell off again in July. The total for the latter month, $5,502,378, was less than half the June figure.

The Commerce Department, announcing July foreign trade statistics by grand divisions and countries, yesterday made public the figures without comment.

June shipments to the Soviet consisted largely of machine tools, agricultural implements and power house units needed in the industrialization of the country. During July this type of shipment was small.

Russia took $12,618,056 worth of American goods in June, showing an increase for the first time in many months. Its business in that month a year ago was $8,805,642.

Total exports for July were $180,669,501, as compared with $266,761,372 in July, 1930, and imports were $174,474,422 against $220,558,356. Exports for the seven months ended July 31 were $1,496,894,242 against $2,342,478,965, while imports were $1,281,832,368 against $1,956,543,106.

Far East Buying Grows.

Far Eastern countries, including British India, China, Japan and the British city of Hongkong, increased their purchases in this country materially, the Far Eastern division of the department attributing the rise to the low price of American cotton. Switzerland also increased its purchases.

American buyers increased their purchases in Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Greece, Irish Free State, Sweden, Switzerland, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Brazil, British South Africa and Egypt.

The United Kingdom came within $113,000 of taking first place from Canada as the leading American market. The British purchased $32,564,029 worth of American goods, compared with $40,794,423 in July of last year, while Canada showed $32,676,645, compared with $54,993,077. Germany, which during July was in the midst of its near collapse, dropped its purchases to $8,286,252, as compared with $10,818,619 in June and $14,093,365 in July, 1930.

Trade Is Seen Menaced.

Moscow, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Citing the activities of anti-Soviet leaders, particularly those in America, Pravda today editorially says, "They forget that any struggle against trade with Soviet Russia deals a blow to their own pockets."

The Communist party organ singled out a new United States customs regulation, effective the first of next year, dealing with the importation of products of forced labor, as directed against Soviet Russia. "The United States Government," it says, "continuously forms a barrier to the development of Soviet trade."

Noting a decided tendency toward strengthening trade relations with Soviet Russia in other parts of the world, the editorial says that Soviet imports are inextricably related to exports and the quantity of one depends on the quantity of the other.

Fire Burns 20,000 Gallons of Fuel

Oil Ignited by Acetylene Torch Used in Melting Rivets of Old Tank.

Fire that destroyed 20,000 gallons of oil in a discarded tank at the foot of Portland street southeast, site of the old Government steel plant, blazed spectacularly for 40 minutes yesterday and temporarily halted clearing operations for the addition to Bolling Field.

According to Jack Wall, head of the Dupont Junk Co., 2006 L street northwest, which had contracted to clear the site, the oil was ignited by an acetylene torch wielded by one of the workmen, V. Owens.

Owens, with other workmen, had been engaged in melting rivets on the tank, 50 feet in height, and salvaging the plates for the junk company. Sides of the tank became red hot from the blaze, forcing firemen responding in the fireboat to keep their distance. An abandoned pumping station nearby was ignited, but firemen extinguished the flames.

(Associated Press.)

Seven emigrants left the United States in July for every three immigrants admitted.

The Labor Department said yesterday the total admissions of immigrant aliens in the month was 3,174, while departures totaled 7,428.

In June 3,534 immigrants were admitted and 5,893 departed. In July last year 13,323 aliens were admitted. Deportations last July totaled 1,681, against 1,440 in July, 1930. Immigrant women outnumbered men almost two to one.

Italy Expands Program Of Works for Jobless

Rome, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Additional plans for unemployment relief through public works this winter, announced today by the government, will bring appropriations to approximately $200,000,000, providing employment for nearly 300,000 men.

Today's announcement added nearly $50,000,000 for improvements to employ 48,000.

Leiters Select Chicago for Bow of Niece

Miss Audrey Campbell Will Be Introduced Next Winter.

News that Miss Audrey Campbell, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter, of Washington, will make her bow to Chicago society this winter under the wing of her uncle and aunt gives further impetus to the rumor that Mr. and Mrs. Leiter will spend little time at their spacious home on Dupont Circle this season.

The Leiters introduced Miss Campbell to their friends in Washington in the spring at a dinner dance at Grasslands, just before they went to Lake Forest, Ill., to occupy their house there for the summer. Now it appears that they have decided to give their young niece, and daughter by adoption, a real "whirl," and will introduce her to Chicago society, and perhaps New York, later in the year.

Young "Tommy" Leiter and his cousin, Mr. Colin Campbell, brother of Miss Audrey Campbell, have gone into Mr. Joseph Leiter's business in Chicago, another tie which will serve to bind the Leiter family to the metropolis for the winter. Tommy entered the business world with much enthusiasm. His grandmother, the late Mrs. Leiter, left an additional legacy, to be held in trust for the first of her grandsons to engage in business in Chicago.

The absence of Mr. and Mrs. Leiter will change somewhat the atmosphere of the famous Dancing Class, which has been sponsored by the latter for many years and met, until a few years ago, at the Leiter house on Dupont Circle. Although plans for the meeting of the class will not be announced until later in the season, in the event of Mrs. Leiter's absence from Washington, arrangements will doubtless be carried on by the two other women of the committee, Mrs. John F. Wilkins and Mrs. Henry Benning Spencer.

Dinner at Manila Given to Hurleys.

The Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick Hurley were entertained at dinner Tuesday evening by the Governor of the Philippines, Mr. Dwight F. Davis, and his daughter, Miss Cynthia Davis, with whom they are stopping while in Manila. Secretary and Mrs. Hurley are expected back in Washington some time next month.

The Minister of Austria and Mme. Prochnik and their family have returned to their home on Massachusetts avenue after spending some time at Rehoboth Beach, where they leased a cottage.

The Secretary of the Legation of Czechoslovakia and Mme. Broz have returned to Washington from Williamstown, Mass., where they attended the Institute of Politics.

Capt. and Mrs. Hayne Ellis have gone to Newport for a few weeks' vacation. Lieut. Ellis came to Washington a few weeks ago for station. Miss Martha Lamar Ellis will leave shortly for Rochester, N. Y., with her aunt, Mrs. Loula Long Combs, of Kansas City, to appear in the annual Rochester exposition horse show.

Capt. Patrick Macnamara, Naval Attache of the British Embassy, and Mrs. Macnamara have returned to Washington and are at their apartment at Wardman Park Hotel.

Senor Guillermo E. Gonzalez, the Counselor of the Costa Rican Legation and Charge d'Affaires during the absence of the Minister, with Mrs. Gonzalez, has moved to Wardman Park Hotel.

Col. and Mrs. Morris Ernest Locke have returned from Europe, accompanied by their daughter, Miss Mary Preston Gibson, who will make her bow to Washington society this winter. They have joined their son, Mr. James McMillan Gibson at their cottage in York Harbor, Maine, where they will spend several weeks.

Maj. and Mrs. Frank Kennedy and their daughter, Miss Betty Kennedy, have left Washington for Maj. Kennedy's new post at Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Simpson, of Washington, are spending a short time in Atlantic City.

Maj. Thomas J. Frailey is in Chicago, where he is attending the thirty-third annual convention of his fraternity.

Dr. Freeman Plans Stay In Colorado

With Other Episcopalians Will Attend Denver Convention.

Heading a distinguished group of clergy attending the general triennial convention of the Episcopal Church to be held in Denver, opening September 17, the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, will leave shortly for the West. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Freeman.

Bishop and Mrs. Freeman have been established at their summer home in Sorrento, Me., for several months, the former making occasional visits to Washington throughout the season. Others who are to attend the convention are the Rev. Ze Barney Phillips, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, and Mrs. Phillips; the Rev. Dr. Robert Johnston, rector of St. Johns, and Mrs. Johnston, and the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. George Fiske Dudley.

Dr. and Mrs. Phillips, who have been at their summer home at Yarmouthport, Mass., will be accompanied to Denver by their daughter, Miss Sally Hews Phillips. Dr. and Mrs. Johnston spent the summer at Chester, Nova Scotia, but of late Dr. Johnston has been on a hurried trip abroad, going to Paris especially to officiate at the marriage Tuesday of Miss Caroline Pryor Baker and Rudolph Jean Bicker-Caarten.

Mrs. James E. Watson, wife of Senator Watson, has with her at their home in Connecticut avenue their son, Mr. Joseph Cannon Watson. Mrs. Watson will join Senator Watson in their Indiana home later.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore S. Repplier, of New York, and their young son, are guests of Mrs. Repplier's mother, Mrs. Martha Macatee at her home in Chevy Chase.

Miss Louise Varnon, of Selma, Ala., has arrived in Washington for a visit with Judge and Mrs. Gus A. Schuldt. Miss Varnon plans to continue her studies in music while in Washington, going abroad in the early spring.

Alpha Zeta Betas Have Convention.

The Alpha Gamma Chapter of the Alpha Zeta Beta Sorority held its first business meeting of the season Tuesday evening at the Hay-Adams House. Miss Corinne Watson presided, while Miss Kathryn Baker and Miss Kathryn Pangle acted as hostesses. Plans were outlined for the fall and winter activities of the sorority. Officers were elected for the ensuing year, as follows: President, Miss Corinne Watson; vice president, Miss Anna Tapley; treasurer, Miss Margaret Lindsay; recording secretary, Miss Martha Hevener; corresponding secretary, Miss Mildred Winter; marshal, Miss Stuart Gordon, and Ophelea editor, Miss Margaret Greene.

Those present included Miss Kathryn Baker, Miss Sybil Bowyer, Miss Kitty Chance, Miss Helen Cox, Miss Stuart Gordon, Miss Betty Green, Miss Margaret Greene, Miss Lila Mae Hall, Miss Martha Hevener, Miss Margaret Kelley, Miss Margaret Lindsay, Miss Margaret MacPherson, Miss Helen Orr, Miss Kathryn Pangle, Miss Anna Tapley, Miss Corinne Watson and Miss Mildred Winter.

The Mayor and Mrs. A. A. Martel, of Marlboro, Mass., are at the Powhatan.

Mrs. Robert Henderson, accompanied by her son, Robert Henderson, Jr., of Pittsburgh, is at the Dodge.

Mrs. W. D. Beall and her daughter, Marbury, who are spending the summer at Charmian, Pa., are in town for a few days. They are accompanied by Miss Kitty Abercrombie, of Baltimore.

What Today Means to You

"VIRGO."

IF September 3 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:50 a. m. to noon, 3:40 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 8:10 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:15 a. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:30 p. m.

The astrological influences on September 3 will be of a stimulating nature, and a useful day, in more ways than one, is predicted. There is a slight chance of gain through speculation, although big stakes should not be risked. Those leading an active life will feel full of energy.

Children born on this September 3 will be versatile, fruitful of resources, self-reliant and redoubtable. They will not be favorites of fortune, but will win much through their own efforts. They will have ability in speech and convincing ways. They will be capable of powerful attachments to friends.

You are a most sympathetic and understanding being, and you possess a selfless love for humanity. You do not brood over your own ills, but you have an amazing insight into the sufferings and misery of others. You are a diffuser of an optimistic atmosphere, and people generally feel better for having talked to you or having been with you. Without being a "Pollyanna," you are able to give out a healthy, helpful philosophy of life.

You are able to keep a tight hold on yourself when things go awry, and you have cultivated a calmness and a smile which act as a preventive to ill health and ill humor. In your work you are systematic and thorough, but you have neither the time nor the inclination to worry over petty details. You are too well balanced to ever become a slave to any phase of life, although you are capable of having very keen interests. You are fond of outdoor sport and pleasures and a back-to-nature living. Your tastes are simple and you do not need to live in elegance to be happy.

You will find much of the happiness that is in the world, through such simple things of life as constancy of affection and the joys of home and children.

Successful people born September 3: Hannah F. Gould, poet.
Pat O'Malley, film artist.
Garner Colby, philanthropist.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

IT never rains but it pours. In addition to Washington eventually getting the full-time radio programs of WABC, WEAF and WJZ, as foretold by The Post earlier in the week, there is a possibility that when Station WMAL gives up the basic Columbia network it may broadcast the programs of the Dixie network in the Capital.

This is a Columbia chain composed of Southern units, the key station of which is WBT, at Charlotte, N. C.

The Canadian National Exhibition will pay tribute to the radio industry in a special concert by Canadian radio favorites to be broadcast from the exhibition's music building, Toronto, over a WJZ network, tonight, 10:30 o'clock. CFCA, CKGW, CKNC and CKCL will contribute the services of some of their leading studio stars.

"The Jungle Man" will tell the first of a series of stories for children this afternoon (WRC, 3:45 o'clock).

Ceremonies of 150 years ago, when Spanish grandees and settlers founded the City of Los Angeles, will be heard over a coast-to-coast NBC-WJZ network tmoorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The broadcast marks the opening of a ten-day fiesta celebrating the sesquicentennial of the Spanish village that grew into the fifth city of the continent. It will include mission music by a male chorus, the historical ceremony and instrumental tunes of a Spanish street dance. Next Tuesday night the famous Mexico City Police Band will be heard from California in connection with the celebration.

KATE SMITH, Washington songbird, who came into national fame through her singing of "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain," seems now headed for big money. Up to this time she has been heard in a Columbia sustaining program, for which she no doubt received a nominal figure.

She has signed up with a large cigar company at a reported figure of $3,000 a week for the first year, the contract running for two years with the company having an option for a third. Miss Smith will broadcast five times weekly in fifteen-minute periods, and will still be heard over Columbia, but not at the same time as at present.

An idea of the commercial application to television is revealed in the announcement that "the first $1,000,000" television broadcast will be staged at W2XAB, Columbia Station in New York, next Tuesday night at 9 o'clock, when rare and historical gems from a Fifth avenue jeweler's vaults worth more than that amount will be displayed before the photo-electric eye.

Natalie Towers, the television girl, will wear the gems and show them off to the radio audience.

IF programs continue shortening themselves, radio will find itself almost as much of a bother as the old scratchy phonograph that had to have its record changed every five minutes, Evans E. Plummer, the Chicago radio writer, predicts.

"Once the hour program was a standard air unit. Then half hours began creeping in with the increasing cost of time. Now quarter hours seem to be predominating," Mr. Plummer continues.

"The trouble with the 15-minute program is that it whets one's desire to hear more, if it is worthy of being broadcast at all, and then hurriedly signs off. The short periods are enough, sometimes too much, for the nightly serial comic skits and talks, but for one in which music is heavily involved, give me at least a half hour."

FROM time to time, leading broadcasters, seeking to keep peace with the newspapers, deny that they are attempting to invade the spot news field. Their contention has been that they are quite content to dominate the world of entertainment and to leave the immediate news happenings to the newspapers to report.

This, however, is in sharp contrast to the attitude taken by Los Angeles radio stations, which attempted to install microphones in the courtroom where David Clark, former district attorney, is being tried for the sensational slaying of Herbert Spencer.

Judge Murray barred michrophones from the courtroom and based his ruling on the belief that the judge and jury had first command of the attention of witnesses and that a microphone would undoubtedly prove a distracting influence with the realization that thousands were listening in.

A series of programs is being made into electrical transcriptions—plays depicting scenes from the life of Washington, music of the colonial period, patriotic addresses made by the noted speakers of the country—so that the smaller stations, having no contact with the big chains, may have an equal opportunity to serve their communities with George Washington bicentennial celebration features

FROM the Nation's Capital:

"Norah, why haven't you brushed down that cobweb?"

Dare Interprets the Mode

Black velvet, fine tucking, directoire sleeves and removable gauntlets of gold lame (lah-may) give charm to this Sunday night frock. (A Dah-ray design.)

BUT there's one phase of fashions, my deahs, look at it any way you will, that has determinedly and successfully avoided the encroachments of the Second Empire idea. And that is the sports phase!

It's understandable, too. Sport things have to be free and comfortable and minus frills and fripperies, which, after all, are what characterize the new romantic era in clothes. Not that sports clothes are unattractive—far from it! But they gain their charm along very different lines from the rest of our wardrobe. Knitted material could be used very effectively in the new way if beauty were the consideration, but as usefulness counts as well, the couturieres haven't attempted any Second Empire tricks, because the Empress, obviously, was not athletic.

Sports clothes for autumn are just about always made of knit material. The jackets usually are straight line, and the skirts pleated for necessary fullness, or trouser-skirts. 'N' if you like to be masculinely clad for sports, the knitted materials you'll buy are the plain, close-knit heavy ones, in plain dark colors, or with tiny white stripes, while your more feminine sister will make her clothes of the same pattern out in lacy, open, perforated knitted fabrics, and in bright colors.

• • • •

The Empress and Her Reincarnated Hats.

"Your Majesty, why is it that all women who know your beauty in the type of hat you've made peculiarly your own, don't buy that kind to the exclusion of all others?"

"I think they believe it necessary to have a face just like mine, and dare not buy a hat because it might be unbecoming. They don't realize that there is a version to flatter every single type of face in the hats so sweepingly named for me!"

• • • •

And there, just around the corner, are our new, indoor Sunday nights! 'N' I looked into my closet the other day and saw with dismay that my perfectly good Sunday night frocks that I'd worn this summer weren't a bit good for this autumn, what with romantic atmospheres and historical periods creeping into just everything. But, sh-h-h-h-h, I wasn't very dismayed, for after all, here was another chance to design something else lovely—so I did, and sketched the result for you! It's of black chiffon velvet, this Sunday night frock, cut with a little bolero effect and adorable directoire sleeves, with cuffs and vestee of finely hand-tucked ecru net. 'N' because sometimes I wanted 'em and sometimes I didn't, the lower sleeves, or mits, of pale gold lame (lah-may) are removable!

• • • •

Directoire sleeves are very smart and very lovely these days, my deahs, if you know enough to handle them with restraint.

• • • •

And the necklace to accompany the Sunday night frock most perfectly is the Albanian Dancing Girl one of carved gold plaques and musical, clashing golden bells.

• • • •

You won't have that "little shadow that goes in and out with you" any more, if you hurry and send your stamped, self-addressed envelope right off to the Dare department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet telling about the slip that's really shadowproof, and not the teeniest bit bulky! And there are three more chic surprise tricks that I won't even hint about in this—wel-l-l-l-l, call it slip until you find out differently!

• • • •

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me how to get rid of ants. Also tell me what to do for a fern that is covered with brown spots. MRS. NELLIE G.

If you care to send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, I shall be glad to send you the name of a proprietary preparation which will quickly rid your premises of ants. Your fern is covered with scale. The only way to destroy these insects is to go over each frond with a small brush and literally scrub them off. They are hard to dislodge, so some of the worst infested fronds may have to be removed. If, when you write, you will also ask for a circular on ferns which we have prepared for readers of this column, I shall be glad to send it to you.

Please tell how long sweet peas bloom. What is the best spray for them? How can I get double hollyhocks? I purchased double seeds and have single flowers. Also how shall I inclose sample leaves for identification? When shall I plant lupine seed? MRS. CHARLES B.

Sweet peas sown in March should start to flower nine weeks after planting and should continue to bloom for ten weeks. Of course, you must, to get this result, keep the dead blossoms removed. If they are permitted to remain on the plants until they form seed the plant will cease flowering. Sweet peas should be mulched in warm weather. They must be watered every day. Florists depend entirely on the forceful spray from the garden hose to keep down red spider, which is about the only enemy of the sweet pea. It is also well to give sweet peas some liquid manure or bonemeal when the buds show color. Wrap leaves for identification in waxed paper. Sow lupine seed at any time. Sow Chater's double hollyhock seed.

My dahlias and hollyhocks are covered with caterpillars. What shall I do to get rid of them? MRS. W. E. M.

Use arsenate of lead spray or dust. If you care to send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope I shall send you the formula for these insecticides.

Please tell me when to remove the stalks from madonna lilies. Also, must I wait until all stalks on delphiniums are dead before removing them, or is it better to remove them as they fade? ALICE C. H.

Do not disturb the stalks of madonna lilies until they are yellow at least three-fourths of the distance between the flowers and roots. Remove the dead blossoms from delphiniums as they fade.

Please tell me the formula for the dust for black spot and mildew. JOHN H. R.

The formula for Massey dust, the control for black spot and midlew, is as follows: Nine parts dusting sulphur and one part lead arsenate. We have prepared a circular on midlew which we will be glad to send to you if you will mail us a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Please sell me the name of the shrub from which the incloaed leaf was taken. EMMA H.

Am sorry, but I do not know this shrub.

My ivy is not doing well. The flowers of my begonias fall off, as do the leaves. My Christmas cactus is not healthy. I give my plants good care. I keep them in a southern location and give them fertilizer once a month. They are all in pots on a window ledge. N. B. F.

Your ivy will do better in a northern window. When the flowers and leaves fall from a begonia it is usually due to too much or too little sun, too much or too little water or too little fresh air. Try watering these plants once a day. Begonias do best in an eastern window, though they will flower in a southern one. Plants do not require fertilizer once a month. As a rule, they only require food once a year, though, of couse, it depends on the condition of your soil.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

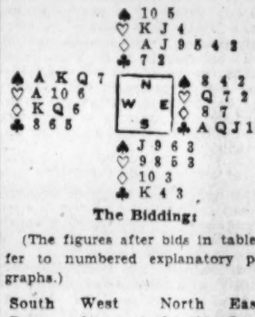
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

TRADING SUBSTANCE FOR SHADOW

THERE is an old story that tells of a dog crossing a stream with his dinner in his mouth. Glacing down at the waters he saw the reflection of the meat he was carrying and it semed so much larger and juicier than the portion he held that he dropped his dinner in an effort to get its shadow from the water.

Many Bridge players are like that. In reaching after the shadow of things that can never materialize, they lose sight of the substance that is within their grasp. Seeking immaterial tricks has cost many a game of Contract. The effort to get 2 tricks in an adverse suit when the 1 trick taken at the right time is all that is necessary, and the sacrifice of the "shadow" trick means only insurance that the necessary tricks will be counted, is all to general in Bridge circles. Take the hand below:

East and West vulnerable. North and South not vulnerable.



The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass

1—Even vulnerable, North would be justified in overcalling with two diamonds. He has a fair six-card suit and more than two honor-tricks in the hand. If the bid serves no other purpose, North hopes it will prove an effective barrier to a possible notrump game declartion by the adversaries.

2—East has a strong five-card suit which can not fail to be of benefit to the partnership. While his hand is very weak otherwise, it is too strong in playing tricks not to warrant an overcall. The fact that he also has negative support (three small cards) for his partner's Opening bid is further justification, if it were needed for his bid.

3—With his partner's bid and possible double stoppers in the diamond suit, as well as a safe stopper in the only unbid suit, West feels fully justified in going after game.

In the play, North's choice of an Opening lead is not an easy one. With such a holding, my own preference would be for a lead of one of the short suits if they had not been bid, but the lead of the spade up to the declared strength has nothing to recommend it and the lead of the club through East's bid would seem to be playing Declarer's game. Under the circumstances, North chose rightly his fourth best diamond and when the Dummy was exposed on the table, West realized that its only value was in the tricks procurable in the club suit, aside from the potential value of the heart Queen if the opponents led that suit. South played the Ten and West here had to make the decision upon which rested either success or failure. Most players would unhesitatingly play a diamond honor and then trust to luck that South did not again secure the lead in time to lead through the now defenseless diamond suit. Of course, such play is bad. It is worse than bad; it is silly. The proper play and the only one by which the contract can be won, as the cards are distributed, is to permit the diamond Ten to hold the trick. West can count on 1 sure diamond trick, 3 spades, 1 heart and probably either 4 or 5 clubs, depending upon the location of the club King. If the diamond suit is not established before the club King is driven out of the hand of the adversary holding it. A "shadow" trick, which will probably never materialize, is certainly a small price to pay for safety.

In the actual play of this hand in a Duplicate game, only one player with West's cards realized the necessity of the hold-up. He permitted South's diamond Ten to win, and South, while realizing the probable futility of his course, had no choice but a continuance of his partner's suit. North could now see the situation was hopeless. He can establish the diamond, it is true, but the heart King affords little promise of entry early enough to prevent the making of game. The bidding clearly places the Ace of hearts in the West hand. North won the diamond return and cleared the suit. West then led a club, taking the finesse. South won, but his return of any card at this time was immaterial. West made 4 club tricks, 1 diamond, 1 heart and 3 spades for game. A game would not have been made had he attempted to make 2 tricks in his opponents' suit.

The moral of all this is the same as that taught to the dog in the tale which begins this article.

TODAY'S POINTER.

When the opponent on the left of the player who has made a Takeout Double intervenes with a bid, the partner of the Declarer is released from the obligation to respond. Should he now make a bid it would show about the same strength required for a Jump Takeout of a Double, or not less than 1-½ honor tricks and a biddable suit.

Wives of Tomorrow

INFIDELITY.

DEAR MISS McDONALD:

Please help me. I am married, have an excellent position, no children. My husband travels almost all of the time. Recently while visiting a town I met my husband with another woman coming out of a hotel. He admitted he had been unfaithful and begged forgiveness. He also admits he can not stay at home all of the time as he is very restless and of a roaming disposition. I have always loved him, but I can not make up my mind to take him back.

Should I forgive and forget or by doing so will that make him respect me less? Would he forgive if things had been different and I had been found out? Please give me your opinion. Are men supposed to be weaker than women regarding morals? Although I am bitterly hurt, when I look around I see a great many men doing the same thing. Is there no loyalty among them?

Sincerely yours, ANNA.

Fidelity and loyalty are not exclusively feminine. Women merely incline toward the esthetic, feel more deeply the significance of marriage, sense more definitely the spiritual values in the relation. It is less duty than inclination that makes woman as a rule true to her marriage vows. Even opportunity is a factor if we are to be quite fair in our analysis. It would be hard to say just what might be the outcome or the circumstances if woman were subject to the same opportunities as man and as free from the unhappy consequences. The majority might still be true to the highest standards of living. Certainly hundreds of women surrounded with opportunities still remain unshakable. But the fact that woman is more sheltered as a class than man must be taken into account in any reckoning of the relative honor of the two.

In your case it is surely your duty to give the man a chance to prove his penitence. What his reaction might be were your places reversed has no bearing upon the issue. Your duty is your duty. True, the law holds that his act entitles you to freedom. But there are aspects to the marriage relation that simply can not be encompassed by the law. Place yourself above petty considerations and do as your woman's heart dictates. Men may not be weaker morally than women, but their temptations are about 1,000,000 per cent more severe. So err on the side of mercy, at least this once.

(Associated Press.)

Prospective Muscle Shoals bidders yesterday were granted an additional two months for preparing their proposals.

The joint Alabama-Tennessee-Federal Muscle Shoals Commission adjourned its two days of sessions after setting November 1 as the new limit within which bids may be submitted.

The members agreed to meet at Muscle Shoals October 1 and made tentative arrangements to discuss farming problems related to the project with the Nation's major farm organizations meanwhile.

Dr. Perry E. Howard, of the Department of Agriculture's fixed nitrogen research laboratory, explained various phases of fertilizer production to the commission at its final session. He expressed the opinion that the plant was too antiquated to produce nitrogen efficiently. He predicted changes shortly in the method of production of phosphate and indicated he considered the principal value of the plant was that of producing power.

V. F. W. VOTE TO ASK FOR REST OF BONUS

Delegate From Washington Attacks Pacifists as Hurting Youths.

Kansas City, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Turning down compromise proposals, the Veterans of Foreign Wars today voted that resolutions be drafted calling for immediate payment of the remainder of Federal adjusted compensation and the refunding of interest on part payments already advanced.

The delegates voted down a proposal submitted by the resolutions committee that the interest rates on advances be reduced from the present 4½ per cent to "simple interest," or about 3 per cent.

On the opening day of business sessions of the encampment, Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, and Ernest Lee Jahncke, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, urged that former service men cease demands for additional Federal appropriations.

Married Women Employes.

The Federal Government already has distributed nearly $1,000,000,000 in advance payments on compensation. To pay the remainder would mean an additional approximately $1,500,000,000.

The delegates also approved another resolution urging that all Federal married women employes who have no dependents and whose husbands are alive and capable of earning a living, be dismissed from the civil service.

The resolutions committee refused to approve a resolution demanding that President Hoover enforce the Sherman antitrust laws, but the veterans overrode the committee and passed the resolution.

Organizations, "religious or otherwise," advocating abolishment of the pledge to bear arms in defense of the United States, required of those seeking naturalization, were condemned in another resolution.

Attack On Pacifists.

Reilly, whose father was killed in action at Peking in 1900, declared the purpose of the pacifists and the internationalists is to make the youth of America grow up with contempt, or at least a lack of appreciation, for the principles of Americanism.

Most of the State groups have been holding caucuses daily, but only three men have been indorsed for the post of junior vice commander, the office around which the most spirited balloting is expected to center.

Those named are Brig. Gen. Reilly, James E. Van Zandt, Altoona, Ga., national chief of staff, and Henry L. Cohen, Illinois, past State commander. Traditions of the organizations decree that the junior and senior vice commanders move to the next highest post on the list.

225 Barrels Daily Allowed Oil Wells

Texas Governor, However, to Ignore Order of State Commission.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—An order to allow each well in the east Texas oil field to produce 225 barrels of oil a day was signed by the State Railroad Commission late today.

Gov. Ross S. Sterling, who has invoked martial law to enforce an oil shutdown pending adoption of a proration plan, yesterday disapproved the terms of today's order.

"That order won't go into effect until I put it in," the governor told a group of operators who gathered in his office late today. The governor has declined to say whether he will modify or lift martial law in connection with the signing of the commission's plan.

Will Hays Heads Movie Unemployment Group

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Will H. Hays was made chairman today of a Nation-wide committee of motion picture producers, theater operators and others of the industry for unemployment relief.

The committee formed at a meeting in the Hays' organization offices, will undertake to coordinate the industry's resources, it was announced, in conjunction with the relief program initiated by President Hoover.

Possible Skull Fracture Suffered in Auto Crash

Joseph A. Eckloof, 52 years old, of 4 I street northwest, suffered a possible fracture of the skull yesterday when his car was in collision with another driven by Charles E. Ross, of Chevy Chase, Md., at Connecticut avenue and L street northwest.

Eckloof was removed to Emergency Hospital, where his condition was said to be serious. His car was virtually demolished in the crash, while Ross, who was driving east on L street, reported his automobile undamaged, police said.

George W. Storer, 56 years old, a painter, of 707 Seventeenth street northeast, died last night in Emergency Hospital from injuries received last Monday when he fell from a ladder while painting a house at 4515 New Hampshire avenue northwest.

Following the accident, Mr. Storer was taken to the hospital, where it was found he had suffered a broken back, several fractured ribs and a broken leg. It is expected the coroner will issue a certificate of accidental death.

NEW AWARD SOUGHT ON CLARK MEMORIAL

Fess to Be Asked to Insure Use of U. S. Granite, Says Watson.

Indianapolis, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, chairman of the Federal George Rogers Clark Memorial Commission, will be asked to call a meeting at once to consider reawarding the contract for construction of the memorial, Senator James E. Watson said today.

Informed the United States Labor Department had decided the granite provided for in the contract awarded the W. R. Heath Co., of Greencastle, was to come from Canadian quarries of the Stanstead Co., Senator Watson said he was of the opinion "the people of Indiana want to be assured that American stone, quarried by American workmen, would be used to signalize Gen. Clark's achievements."

D. Frank Ciubertson, of Vincennes, member of the commission, answered the Labor Department's report with a statement saying the contract included "a clause stipulating that American granite, quarried by American workmen, should be used."

(Associated Press.)

Senator Fess said yesterday the Clark Memorial would be built of granite but that if the firm which has been awarded the granite contract produced its stone in Canada and shipped the product on Canadian railroads this contract would be voided.

Senator Watson Tuesday made public a report he had received from the Department of Labor stating that the Stanstead Granite Co., has been quarrying its product in Canada for the last four years and shipping all its products on Canadian railroads.

"If that be true," said Senator Fess, "then this company can not supply the granite, for our contract specifically stated that the granite must be American granite and shipped on American railroads.

"But I will say limestone is not going to be used on this memorial. We are going to use granite."

There are limestone quarries in Indiana within a few miles of Vincennes.

MRS. RACHEL A. SILLY DIES

Well-Known Philadelphia Woman Was in Her Eighty-Fourth Year.

Mrs. Rachel A. Silly, well known Philadelphian, died here yesterday at the home of her son, Charles A. Stevens, 1340 Jefferson street northwest, in her eighty-fourth year.

Mrs. Silly for many years was active in social and church work in Philadelphia, and had been a member of the Broad Street Baptist Church practically all her life. She was born in Philadelphia and had been a lifelong resident there except for frequent visits to her son here in Washington.

Her son, Mr. Stevens, who is eastern manager of the Pettibone Bros. Manufacturing Co., is her only survivor. Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at W. W. Chambers' funeral home, 1400 Chapin street. Interment will be in Northwood Cemetery, Philadelphia, Pa.

10-STORY BUILDING GRANTED NEW LOAN

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Refinancing of the Washington Building, ten-story store and office structure at Fifteenth and G streets and New York avenue northwest, by the New York Life Insurance Co. to the extent of $2,500,000 was announced yesterday. The loan is for a period of ten years at 5½ per cent. Randall H. Hagner & Co. are local loan correspondents for the New York Life Insurance Co.

The Washington Building, situated on what has frequently been referred to as a "world corner," was erected in 1925-26 by the Washington Central Trust Co., of Boston. The architects were Coolidge, Shepley, Bulfinch & Abbott, of Boston, and James Stewart & Co. were the builders. The late A. C. Hagar promoted the project.

The building, when completed, and ground, was appraised at $6,000,000. In 1929 it was purchased by the Washington Building Realty Corporation. Weaver Bros., Inc., is its managing agents.

Capital Sales Status.

Washington and surrounding territory is grouped with New York, Chicago and Boston as one of the Nation's equal sales zones, in a newly completed sales survey based on an analysis of nineteen business factors obtained by marketing experts whose findings are supported by United States Government reports, chambers of commerce statistics and other trade indices.

This city is called one of America's markets of first importance in the survey, which was prepared by F. K. Anderson and L. J. McCarthy, director and associate director of the marketing division of the International Magazine Co. The business factors which were studied in its compilation include population, bank deposits, personal income returns and volume of business.

Appointment of Elmer Louis Kayser, B. A., M. A., as instructor of the new "English in Business" course of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, was announced yesterday. Mr. Kayser is director of the division of university and extension students of George Washington University.

Educated in Capital.

He was educated in the public schools of Washington, Western High School, George Washington, Johns Hopkins and Columbia Universities. He has been a member of the faculty of George Washington University since 1917 and at present is associate professor of history. He was secretary of the university from 1918 to 1929 and director of its summer sessions from 1925 to 1929. He is a member of Theta Upsilon Omega, Omicron Delta Kappa, Phi Delta Gamma and Pyramid fraternities, the National Press Club of Washington, American Historical Society, Association of University Professors and American Oriental Society.

The course in "English in Business" is designed to be something more than the usual stereotyped course in English composition. It is concerned with the larger problems of communication, both written and oral, between the business man, his public and his associates.

Course Is Adaptable.

In view of the fact that enrollments in this class must necessarily represent various grades of proficiency and academic training, it was necessary to so design the course that it would become more or less an individual one seeking to meet the need of each student by personal consultation and supplementing the more formal lecture work. Practical work will be emphasized to give each student frequent opportunity to express himself and likewise to afford abundant material for individual criticism.

The National Coal Association, from incomplete car-loading reports from the railroads, estimates bituminous coal production in the United States for the week ended August 29 as slightly over 7,400,000 net tons. The Bureau of Mines' estimate of production for the week ended August 15 was 6,989,000 net tons, and for the week ended August 22, 7,116,000.

ECONOMY BECOMES MENACE IN BRITAIN

Fear Felt Stringent Saving May Handicap Efforts to Aid Business.

London, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Britain has become so violently "economy-minded" during the national financial crisis that some economic experts are beginning to fear the country may suffer damage from the paradox of too much thrift.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bull were slow in discovering the family exchequer was in a bad way, but once they did realize the extent of their predicament they started a savings campaign which quickly assumed surprising proportions. Everything not of prime necessity is being looked at askance.

The jokes about the closeness of the Aberdeen Scotsman would apply equally to the Englishman or Welshman of today. The pendulum has swung from extravagance to near-penuriousness, and economists believe this may be bad. Their point is that the already heavy unemployment will be increased and industry will be hurt if everybody ceases spending and there is a suspension of building operations and other improvements.

Economy Bodies Formed.

Throughout the country economy committees are being formed to slash expenditures. Building, road repair and other things are being put off unless absolutely necessary.

For example, the London county council, with the idea of giving the country an inspiring lead, has announced that proposals involving expenditure are being suspended whenever possible. The council has been spending yearly about $200,000,000, the greater part of which provided employment for Londoners.

From all over the country come similar reports. This city won't build the projected new town hall and that one is holding its park scheme in abeyance. Big centers, such as Plymouth, Nottingham, Portsmouth, Bristol and Southampton, are acquiring a mania for thrift.

But it isn't alone the government and municipalities which have been converted to extreme economy. The idea has got a vigorous hold on individuals from Lands End to John O'Groats.

Newspaper Takes Issue.

The Daily Express today took issue with the Bishop of Chelmsford, who has written a letter to be read in the churches of his district. Calling for economy, the bishop assured his people that "luxuries do not make any contribution to happiness, but plenty of hard work and thrifty living do."

The Express says: "We do not want the gospel of content preached in this country." It advocates a drive for prosperity which would give the working man money to spend on luxuries.

NEW BUDGET READY, PARLIAMENT CALLED

House shall meet Tuesday, September 8."

Announcement that the cabinet had completed its plans came as a surprise, as only a few days ago it was believed the multitudinous details involved would make necessary a delay in the opening of Parliament.

The cabinet members have been working day and night and apparently are in unanimous accord.

Instructions have been issued to administration draftsmen for the preparation of legislative measures, and these will await Parliament Tuesday. The economy side of the emergency scheme was completed yesterday and when the cabinet adjourned tonight the members were practically ready to meet the House.

Ordinarily, challenging the House on a vote of confidence at the outset of the session would be regarded as somewhat dubious, but the government, after counting noses, feels certain it will have a majority of about 50.

REAR ADMIRAL MOORE DIES

Retired Naval Officer, 84, Succumbs After Brief Illness.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Rear Admiral Edwin King Moore, United States Navy, retired, died today at Galem Hall after a brief illness. He was 84 years old. Although he had been ailing for some time, he did not become seriously ill until a day or two ago.

Bullets Fly, None Is Hurt at Mine

Morgantown, W. Va., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Shots fired today from a hillside above the Connellsville By-Product Coal Co., operating on a nonunion basis, were answered with machine gun bullets fired by company guards.

State police said bullets were fired from a hill across a road from the mine tipple. The mine guards swept the spot from which they believed the bullets came with their machine gun fire, but no one was injured. The State police said they found no trace of anyone on the hill.

The mine, closed by a strike of its employes, resumed operations August 24. Members of the United Mine Workers of America have continued to picket it.

WORLD'S TRADE ILLS LAID TO PSYCHOLOGY

European Union Body Asks Politicians to Spread Confidence as Cure.

Geneva, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—The economic coordinating committee of the European Union commission declared tonight the psychological factor dominated the economic crisis throughout the world, and that no single remedy is likely to bring relief from the prevailing difficulty.

The committee's declaration was made in a statement adopting recommendations which will be submitted to the commission in plenary session tomorrow.

In proposing a number of measures for improving the present condition of international commerce, industry and finance, the committee called on the politicians to spread through the world, by all possible means, "a general feeling of confidence."

"It would seem to be necessary," the group of statesmen and economists agreed, "to discard every preconceived opinion, to be guided by experience and to seek remedies wherever there seems to be a chance of finding them."

The nonaggression pact proposed by Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, will be referred without indorsement to the parent body "for very careful study."

The recommendations, for the most part, call for further study of the problem and of remedial measures by committees of exports or by the commission itself.

The committee's conclusions were regarded tonight by international observers here as largely academic, and the committee itself admitted it was unable to offer any single cure-all for the prevailing difficulties in finance, commerce and industry. In summarizing its report, the committee said it was inspired by certain major guiding principles, and "the first of these is that the psychological factor dominates the economic crisis affecting most nations today, and it is for the politicians, above all, to influence men's minds by spreading through the world a general feeling of confidence."

Long Illness Fatal To Mary Crowley

Funeral Will Be Conducted Saturday Morning at St. Matthews.

Mrs. Mary A. Crowley, a lifelong resident of Washington, died yesterday at her home, 1456 Rhode Island avenue northwest, following a long illness.

Mrs. Crowley was born in Cabin John, Md., and came to this city in her infancy. For many years she operated a restaurant on Pennsylvania avenue northwest, with her husband, D. J. Crowley. She is also survived by two sons, Edward J. and Frank X. Crowley.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning, at 10 o'clock, in St. Matthews Catholic Church. Requiem mass will be celebrated by the Rev. Father Cotter Fitzgerald, a nephew, assisted by the Rev. B. Prosie, the Rev. Ignasius Fealy and the Rev. Leo Fealy.

CLUBS OF CATHOLICS MUST BAR POLITICS

Pope Regains Control Over Youths, Who Now Face Duce's Limitations.

Rome, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—The controversy between the Pope and Premier Mussolini, which started with violence three months ago and became a war of words heard round the world, was settled today.

Under the terms of the accord made public by the government, the Pope regains his hold on the 500,000 Catholic youths whose 15,000 clubs the premier ordered closed and dissolved.

Signor Mussolini sets a strict limitation of the clubs to religious activity, as the concordat between the government and the Vatican provides, and strengthens the restrictions on their activities by defining them.

There are three main points to the settlement: (1) The Catholic Action Organization must remain out of politics, have purely religious aims and adopt the Italian flag as its banner; (2) Catholic action must abstain from any trades union activity; (3) the Catholic Action youth clubs are limited to educational and recreational meetings with religious purposes, athletics are barred.

Elaboration of Article.

The agreement is an elaboration of article 43 of the concordat which authorizes the existence of the Catholic Action organizations "outside of any political party and under the direct control of the hierarchy of the church with the sole object of propagating and realizing Catholic principles."

Aside from the moral obligation to abstain from politics, the agreement stipulates that the directors of Catholic Action must be appointed by the bishops and must be persons never affiliated with anti-Fascist parties. This is considered a strong guarantee since the bishops must be acceptable to the government and must take an oath of loyalty to the king.

Professional groups within the clubs are forbidden to concern themselves with professional and trade interests.

Declaration Withdrawn.

The Fascist Party, during the heat of the controversy, declared that memberships in both Fascist and Catholic organizations were "incompatible," and this declaration now is withdrawn.

The papal organ, Osservatore Romano, accepts the accord as satisfactory. Italian newspapers take the same view but regard the expanded restrictions of the concordat as having been necessary.

The trouble between the Church and State started three months ago with violent newspaper charges that Catholic Action was political and anti-Fascist.

Italian papers declared the organization had become the rallying ground of elements hostile to Premier Mussolini and Fascism. This was as vigorously denied.

Signor Mussolini, without directly touching Catholic Action, closed its 15,000 youth clubs by police action under the 1926 law which requires all youth clubs to be affiliated with Fascism.

The closed clubs now may reopen under a new name, "Youth Associations of Italian Catholic Action." Their quarters, except those in Rome, have been quietly returned to them during the past ten days. The Rome clubs will be returned shortly.

The Pope, when the controversy started, immediately put the clubs under the bishops, a move which, it is said, should have been made before. This system of organization now is required.

R. W. Alderman Succumbs at 61

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2:30 p. m. at the Tabler Funeral Home, 928 M street northwest, for Capt. Ralph Whitehead Alderman, expert rifleman, World War veteran and former employe of the Government Printing Office. Capt. Alderman died Monday night at Walter Reed Hospital following a brief illness.

Capt. Alderman was a monotype operator at the Government Printing Office, having been there 32 years. A native of Hammondsport, N. Y., he joined the National Guard in 1900, shortly after moving to Washington. In 1913 he was commissioned a captain and he entered the Federal Army in 1916. He was a member of the Palma international rifle team in 1912, and was on the Dewar international trophy team three years. During the war he served as rifle instructor in the Army.

Capt. Alderman was a charter member of George Washington Post No. 1 of the American Legion and a member of the Society of Veteran Officers of the Third District of Columbia Infantry, the Military Service Legion, and the Columbia Typographical Union. He is survived by one son, Lieut. Craig Alderman, U. S. A., who is stationed at Fort Camp Benning, Ga. Capt. Alderman lived at 664 Maryland avenue northeast.

ARLINGTON TO SAVE ON SEWERAGE PLANT

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Arlington County's opportunity to save more than one-third the cost in the installation of a modern sewerage disposal plant was revealed yesterday with the announcement made by the officials of the Federal Sanitation Co., which has obtained the exclusive right to install what is known as the Laughlin system. The local company has the exclusive right of installation in the States of Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia.

The officers are: Hugh L. Kirby, president; John H. Kresge, first vice president; A. W. Stump, secretary-treasurer; Roland L. Johnston, second vice president; and Dr. J. N. Roberts, assistant treasurer.

Arrangements are now being made for the conference of the officials of the company with the members of the committee from the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, which with the aid of Allen J. Saville, consulting engineer of Richmond, are now making a study with the view of presenting a comprehensive plan to the officials of the county.

Mrs. Florence E. Cannon, president of the Arlington Citizens Association, was the forty-fifth person to file yesterday for membership on the county board of five which on and after January 1, 1932, will replace the present three members of the county board of supervisors.

Mrs. Cannon, in announcing her candidacy, declared that she believed it impossible for a candidate for this office to announce a platform composed of separate planks. The platform of a candidate, she said, should be a solidly-built intention to give the taxpayers the best of everything that is humanly and politically possible for their money, and that future conditions alone regulate what those things will be.

Since coming to Arlington County more than ten years ago, Mrs. Cannon has taken an active interest in all civic development and has taken an active part in political affairs. She was the first president of the Arlington County Welfare League, is a member of the executive committee of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County, the Arlington County Bicentennial Council and the Creative Arts Club of Arlington County.

Others who filed for the county board yesterday are George D. Ricker, G. Frank Allwine, C. B. Rosenberger and Joseph Malloy.

Today at 4:30 o'clock will be the last opportunity persons will have to announce as candidates for any of the county offices.

With the closing of the county clerk's office yesterday the records show that a total of 86 persons have filed for nine county offices, one of which, the county board, will require five persons. The other offices to be filled are Commonwealth's attorney, sheriff, treasurer, commissioner of revenue and constable.

Investigation shows that should there be no more candidates in the race the ticket will be 4 inches wide and 40 inches long.

As there are still others who will file today, indications are that the total will exceed 90 candidates, a condition unheard of in any past county election in Arlington County. A complete list of all candidates will be published Friday.

Indorsement was given by the Arlington County Civic Federation at its meeting held last night in the Lyon Park Community House to the recommendations of the executive committee, that a committee be appointed to conduct a campaign of education on the matter of marking the ballot in the coming November election, and to see that adequate facilities are provided for reception of the vote at the eleven voting precincts.

This action was taken when fear was expressed by many delegates that congestion would result at the polls and all who desire to vote may not be able to do so due to the great number of candidates and the length of the ballot.

The committee as named by President Harry A. Fellows consist of L. C. McNemar, chairman; G. O. Basham, Frank G. Campbell, Robert N. Anderson and Hugh McGrath.

President Fellows announced that the executive committee will hold its September meeting the evening of the 17th at the home of John C. Gall.

Officer Is Rebuked For Shackling Girl

Clara Arnold Is Freed in Hyattsville of Charge She Fought Arrest.

Clara Arnold, young, short and slim, was yesterday freed in Hyattsville police court on charges that she resisted arrest by County Policeman Arthur Brown, one of the largest men on the force. Judge J. Chew Sheriff also criticized the policeman for putting handcuffs on the girl while taking her to the jail at Marlboro on a charge of driving a car with improper license plates.

Brown testified that he and another policeman followed the car driven by the girl to her mother's home near Mitchellville, Md., and there arrested her. She refused to go to the jail with them and "put up a right stiff fight," Brown said.

The girl, who lives at 1012 Fourteenth street northwest, said that she was driving her brother's auto. She was fined $10 on the license charge, but Judge Sheriff also criticized Brown for not placing the charge against her brother, owner of the car.

Arlington G.O.P. Names Fisher Finance Head

The finance committee of the Arlington County Republican party, meeting last night at headquarters in the Spaulding Building, Clarendon, perfected its organization with the election of Brig. Gen. H. C. Fisher as chairman. Other officers are: Stanley H. Williamson, manager; Robert B. Bennett, assistant manager; Paul W. Proctor, treasurer; Mrs. L. C. McNemar, secretary, and Mrs. Hazel G. Smith, assistant secretary.

Plans were outlined for a systematic campaign to secure funds adequate to meet the needs of the aggressive campaign which is now on and will continue until November 3, the day of the election for county officers.

U. S. BUYS PROPERTY NEAR MOUNT VERNON

The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors yesterday voted to sell to the Federal Government a small tract of land at the entrance of the Mount Vernon estate for $2,000. This section of land was needed by the Government for the site of the concession stands and comfort station, as a portion of the program for construction of the George Washington Memorial highway and entrance to Mount Vernon.

A petition was received from the Lee District Improvement Association asking that the board institute condemnation proceedings have appraisers appointed to condemn a right of way for the new Pohick Station road on the south side of the Richmond-Fredericksburg and Potomac Railway beginning at the south end of the bridge over the railroad tracks at Pohick crossing. The association agreed to pay necessary costs and the appraised value of the right of way, so that it would become the property of the county without cost to the taxpayers. It was stated that five curves would be eliminated by this action. County Engineer Larkin was instructed to make a survey of the proposed route.

The board refused to accede to the request of H. L. Shockey, of Five Oaks, that the county stop selling gravel taken from the county quarry or gravel pits.

Because of the lack of road funds, the board instructed the county engineer to work out a schedule which would give the county road force part time employment until more funds are available. This was done in an attempt to evade more unemployment in the county and not to disrupt the organized force, or cause the county to have to borrow money.

Mrs. Russell A. Flynn, of Herndon, has been elected chairman of the Fairfax County Red Cross Nursing Committee to assist Mrs. Herbert L. Seamans, county nurse. Mrs. Lynn succeeds Mrs. M. M. Barnard, whose resignation was accepted. Mrs. John Warnock Echols, of Vienna, has been named chairman to arrange for the Red Cross exhibit booth at the county fair next week.

The report of the county treasurer, Mrs. E. D. Vosbury, showed that during the eight months of 1931 the Fairfax County Chapter, exclusive of the several branches, has received and disbursed $3,935.40. Of this sum $2,237.99 was sent to the National Red Cross for drought relief, $596.50 to the National Red Cross for membership dues, $199.98 expended in Fairfax County for salary of the county nurse, $86.26 for county relief, hospital bills, medicine and miscellaneous expenses and $233.55 turned back to the branches. Of the $281.12 balance on hand in the treasury, $143.95 is held in trust for Mount Vernon, Lee and Centerville District which have no organized branches.

Belated Discovery Made Of Aged Woman's Hurts

Treated last Saturday at Emergency Hospital for injuries received when she fell on the sidewalk near Eighteenth street and Columbia road northwest, Mrs. Caroline Marsh, 81 years old, of 2375 Champlain street northwest, was yesterday found to have a broken left wrist and leg, also sustained in the accident.

It was not until she returned home after receiving treatment at the hospital for a slight laceration on the head, that Mrs. Marsh complained of pains in her arm and leg. A physician was summoned yesterday, and an examination disclosed the additional injuries received in the fall.

Road Body Approves Plans of Montgomery to Add Mile Into County.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Extension of Massachusetts avenue for a distance of one mile into Maryland and construction of an underpass under the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will be included in this year's construction program as requested by the Montgomery County (Md.) commissioners, the Maryland State Roads Commission announced at its meeting in Baltimore yesterday.

The commission took under advisement a request of the Montgomery commissioners for improvement of Wisconsin avenue from the District line to Old Georgetown road. A survey party and an engineering party in charge of Assistant Chief Engineer Robert N. Reindollar will make a study of the situation and report to the commission, according to Maj. E. Brooke Lee, member of the roads commission.

The county commissioners are planning to pay for the Massachusetts avenue extension out of the general road fund for the western suburban district, Maj. Lee explained, but the State commission is asked to share in the cost of improving Wisconsin avenue and feels that it should make a thorough survey before coming to a decision on the project, he added.

Massachusetts avenue will be extended to River road and to the Cabin John section in the following year, according to the plans of the county commissioners, but it was felt necessary to construct the mile of paving to the underpass site so that this work could be carried on through the winter.

Wisconsin avenue is to be widened, trolley poles removed to the curbs and sidewalks and gutters are to be constructed, partly with county funds and partly with State funds if the plans of the county commissioners are approved by the roads commission.

Gas Company Fails To Submit Claims

Bills Are Expected to Be Delivered Today to Utilities Body.

Officials of the Washington Gas Light Co. failed to submit to the Public Utilities Commission yesterday the itemized accounts which they desire approved despite the order preventing any unauthorized payments to the Central Public Service Corporation or its subsidiaries. The bills will be delivered today, it was said.

Meanwhile, members of the commission and William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, studied the proposal submitted Tuesday to withdraw the Central Public Service Corporation management of the local gas companies.

Accounts which the gas company officials have asked to be approved include the bill of the Washington Gas Light Co. for natural gas during July. The gas company representatives also are asking that the order barring payments to Central Public Service be rescinded.

Pair Held on Count Of Miscegenation

Indianhead Youth Is Accused of Marrying Colored Woman.

Two young residents of Indianhead, Md., were returned to Rockville, Md., yesterday by Montgomery County police to face charges of violating Maryland's miscegenation law. The two were married January 22 at Rockville, Md., police say.

The husband, William R. Buchanan, 19 years old, is charged with "marrying a Negro woman," and the wife, formerly Gladys Weeks, 22 years old, was charged with "marrying a white man," in warrants sworn to before Justice of the Peace John Jones, of Rockville, by Mrs. Lillie R. Buchanan, of Richmond, Va., mother of the husband.

The couple was arrested by Charles County authorities and turned over to Montgomery County police. The wife has been released on $500 bond and the husband was still in the county jail last night. The wife brought their one-month-old baby to jail with her.

Boy Killed by Truck On Mount Vernon Road

John Gray, colored, about 12 years old, was struck by a truck belonging to contractors on the Mount Vernon boulevard, near the south end of Washington street, Alexandria, yesterday afternoon, and received injuries from which he died shortly after being taken to the Alexandria Hospital.

Coroner T. Marshall Jones will have the truck driver and other witnesses summoned to an inquest to be held later.

Woman Files for Virginia Senate.

Mrs. Julia Morgan Jones, of 306 Raymond avenue, Alexandria, yesterday filed with the clerk of the court her declaration of candidacy for the State Senate on the Socialist ticket, subject to the general election in November.

Alexandria Fire Damages King Street Store $5,000

907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Fire was discovered shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday morning at Weil Brothers meat store, 521 King street, caused a loss of $5,000. Damage to the building was estimated at $1,000 and to stock and fixtures, $4,000. The Ridgely & Jones clothing store next door was damaged slightly by water and smoke.

Occupants of an apartment on the second floor of the building reported the fire and Engine Companies 1 and 4 responded. Breaking down the door, they encountered smoke and flames in the rear of the store. The blaze was under control in less than an hour. Water reached the second floor apartment, occupied by Mrs. Annie Wilders and Mrs. Willie Smith, and they were compelled to leave.

A second alarm was turned in shortly after the firemen had left, and it was found that an iron pipe had become so hot it set fire to shingles on the rear roof of the building.

Loss is covered by insurance.

Farmer Kills Self by Gas From Closed Car's Exhaust

Improvising his own lethal chamber, Fletcher Mullinix, 28-year-old farmer near Clarksburg, Md., last night asphyxiated himself in the garage of his home. He was discovered by his young wife when she started to search for him after he failed to appear for dinner.

The young farmer attached a hose to the exhaust outlet on his automobile and ran the other end of the hose into the car. He then closed all of the windows and climbed into the driver's seat and started the motor. The carbon monoxide fumes are believed to have caused his death in a short time. He had been missed for several hours when discovered. The motor of the car had stalled.

The wife called Dr. George M. Boyer, of Damascus, Md., the family physician, who pronounced him dead and issued a certificate of death by suicide. Mr. Mullinix is believed to have been sad because of financial troubles.

The body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Roy Barber at Laytonsville, Md.

Dr. Boyer called Sergt. Roy Bodmer and Policeman Paul Watkins, of the Montgomery County Police Headquarters at Rockville.

Mr. Mullinix, who was a member of an old Howard County, Md., family, had left his home in Mullinix Mills, Md., about four years ago and moved to Frederick, Md. About a year ago he purchased a farm near Clarksburg. He was the son of the late James Mullinix and a grandson of the late John J. Mullinix, a prominent business man of Howard County a generation ago.

Besides his widow he is survived by his mother and four brothers, all of near Mullinix Mills, Md.

3 Driving Charges In Crash Dismissed

$10,000 Damage Suit in Same Wreck Yet to Be Tried in Hyattsville.

Although three charges of reckless driving, arising out of the same accident on the Defense highway last April, were dismissed in Hyattsville police court yesterday, a $10,000 damage suit resulting from the accident remains to be tried.

The suit was filed by T. E. Diggs, colored, of Lanham, against James Geoghegan, of Washington, and asks $10,000 for personal injuries Diggs is said to have suffered. Diggs received a fractured pelvis and other hurts. After the accident drivers of the three cars involved each swore out warrants against the other two. Judge J. Chew Sheriff declared that the accident was apparently unavoidable, although the testimony was conflicting.

Police Aspirants Undergo Tests

The halls of Central High School were crowded when nearly 1,000 men were examined yesterday morning as to their fitness to hold positions on the Metropolitan and Park Police forces.

The examination which was conducted by civil service examiners, and consisted of two parts, was only a prelude to the rigorous physical examination which must be undergone by those who make a rating of 70 per cent or higher on the mental examination.

Only residents of the District of Columbia were eligible for appointment to the Metropolitan Police force. Park policemen may be appointed from Maryland and Virginia with the understanding that they must serve the territory in which they reside. An age limit of 22 to 33 years was prescribed, which may be waived in the case of former service men of nearby Maryland and Virginia provided that they have not reached the retirement age. Applicants were required to measure at least 68 inches in height and weight proportionately, but not less than 145 pounds.

Fall From Swing Breaks Arm.

Former Senator King To Address Kiwanians

Former State Senator Floyd W. King, of the Virginia Public Service Co., will be the speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Alexandria Kiwanis Club at 12:30 o'clock today in the George Mason Hotel. George E. Warfield and John G. Graham are in charge of the program.

A proposed change in the by-laws of the club will be considered at this meeting.

Fairfax Rejects Survey Contract

Supervisors Again Balk at Regulation Form of Commission.

The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors at its regular monthly meeting yesterday refused again to sign the regulation form of contract submitted to it by the National Park and Planning Commission relative to the traffic survey in the metropolitan area surrounding Washington.

At its meeting last month the supervisors agreed to take part in the survey which is to be made in Washington, Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties, Md., Arlington and Fairfax Counties, Va., and Alexandria, Va., but it was stated at that time they would not sign the regulation contract and the Commonwealth's attorney, Wilson M. Farr, was instructed to prepare a special contract.

Typhoid Epidemic Nipped by Doctor

An incipient typhoid epidemic in Washington Grove, Md., has been nipped in the bud by prompt action on the part of the Montgomery County health officer, Dr. William T. Pratt. The doctor isolated the carrier who was polluting the milk supply of a nearby dairy farm the day after he received the first report of typhoid prevalence.

Eight persons have been stricken with the disease, all of whom were customers of the afternoon delivery of the dairy, for which the carrier assisted in the milking. The carrier had nothing to do with the milk for the morning delivery and none of the persons taking this delivery have been affected. The carrier has been barred from any future handling of foodstuffs of any kind by the health department.

Dr. Pratt said last night that he has given antityphoid vaccine treatment to all persons whom he knows have been exposed, but that there is a question whether the treatment was given in time. It will not be known definitely for two or three weeks whether the treatment was time ly, he said. In the meantime, the only thing the health department can do is to watch carefully for any further outbreak.

YOU would scorn hard manual labor at such a wage, yet you are performing just such a task right in your own home and, worse than that, making your wife fulfill it, too. Shoveling coal and ashes, running up and down stairs, cleaning up basement-generated soot and grime is hard labor. And for a few cents a day more than your present heat costs, you could do away with it all, and enjoy clean, comfortable, effortless automatic gas heat. "A few cents" is literally true—the average extra cost of gas through the year, for a six-room row house, is only about ten cents a day.

Complete Automatic Gas Heating Plants as Low as $330 Installed

This is the Bryant Automatic Gas system, acknowledged to be the most modern and efficient type of heating system made. For use in your present furnace, there is the Janitrol Conversion Burner for as little as

$185 Installed

Only a small down payment is needed, there are no financing charges, and you have

2 Years to Pay

Call your heating contractor or gas company NOW, and be ready for the first cold snap.

The low rate for house heating puts Automatic Gas Heat within the reach of almost anyone. In the District the rate works out at around 75 cents a thousand cubic feet. Let us give you a reliable estimate of yearly cost for your particular house.

Gas Is the Only Completely Automatic Fuel

Because of the tremendous popularity of automatic heat which gas made possible, sponsors of other fuels have tried to devise automatic systems. But the joys of trouble-free heating can be yours only with a COMPLETELY automatic system and for that you must have gas.

A gas boiler or furnace not only regulates and fires itself but in addition orders and delivers its own fuel without a thought on your part. It is automatic in operation—it has no complicated machinery. It is automatically clean—ALL the fuel is used to produce heat, and no unburned soot or vapors are left to dirty your home.

With all this which can be yours for about ten cents a day through the year, can you afford the time, the annoyance, the dirt, the danger to health which the day-laborer type of heating plant causes? Call your heating contractor or gas company for a cost estimate—let the most efficient heating system in the world do your work for you, and keep you really comfortable this winter.

DRY AGENT REBUKED IN GIRL DECOY CASE

(Associated Press.)

A severe reprimand was administered yesterday to Ralph Dell, dry agent, whose young girl companion was arrested for intoxication after gathering evidence in four Buffalo speakeasies.

Dell was summoned to the Capital by Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock and was closeted with him for nearly two hours. He recited the details of the arrest of Ruth Callahan, 18 years old, and of the charge now pending against him in a Buffalo court of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

"Dell has had as severe a reprimand as I know how to give," Woodcock said immediately afterward. "There will be no repetition of such an incident. It did not seem fair to dismiss a man with a record such as his under the circumstances."

Takes Some Blame Himself.

Woodcock said part of the blame should rest on Dell's superiors in Buffalo for allowing such practices, but added that they had not disobey orders, since none was given directly until last week.

"In fact some measure of blame should rest with me," he said, "for not anticipating such a situation and issuing an order against the use of women as informers as has been done.

"I abhor this whole incident. It is terrible that any one should conceive that this was the way to enforce prohibition. I did not know such practices were being employed."

At the same time he announced Dell would stay in the service because of his excellent Army record during the World War and because of his record as a dry agent. Woodcock said another Buffalo agent, Arthur Peach, would be dismissed "for the good of the service." Peach has been suspended on a charge of drunkenness.

Girl Volunteered Aid.

A thorough investigation of Dell's case, Woodcock said, showed that Ruth Callahan, sometimes known as "Ruth Jackson," came to the Federal prohibition offices in Buffalo and offered "to aid in enforcing the prohibition law" because her brother had "died of alcoholism."

Dell, he said, did not meet the girl until later.

"They went to four different places and bought intoxicating liquor, some of which was saved as evidence," he said. "Dell reported he did not drink any. The girl, however, was reported as drinking in the last two places visited."

Woodcock said the arrest of the girl followed a collision involving Dell's automobile. The agent was not arrested, he said, nor was there any evidence to show that he was intoxicated. The Federal dry chief added that the case appeared to offer an opportunity to "save a man who has infinite possibilities for good."

Spain's Police Hunt Directorate Group

Committee Expecting to Stipulate Prosecution of Alfonso.

Madrid, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Ports and frontier towns were watched tonight by police searching for members of the powerful group which formed the directorate under Gen. Primo de Rivera.

Gen. Antonio Mayendia was arrested today, making a total of twelve former ministers, admirals and generals in confinement.

The arrests were ordered by the parliamentary committee investigating "responsibilities" for all past governments, including the monarchy. It is understood that the committee expects to stipulate prosecution of former King Alfonso. It is conceded there would be difficulty in extraditing Alfonso, but some members of the committee are determined to make him an outlaw from Spain.

Bank of United States Victims to Get Dividend

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Supreme Court Justice John F. Carew signed an order today authorizing State Banking Superintendent Joseph A. Broderick to pay an initial 30 per cent dividend to Bank of United States depositors.

$600 Theft Charged To Man by Companion

Charged with theft of $600, Albert Beach, 24 years old, of 3240 M street northwest, was arrested yesterday by Policeman H. H. Britton and locked up at the Seventh Precinct station.

The arrest followed a report by Samuel A. Topley, of Cherrydale, Md., that between $600 and $700 was stolen from him between Sunday night and Monday morning, while he was in company of three other men. Two of the men were arrested and booked on open charges Monday night.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

"ONCE IN A LIFETIME," the pointed and pungent satire on the fabrication of the talking picture and the people engaged in it, will terminate its New York engagement on Saturday night of this week, September 5, with its 401st performance, and, after a two weeks' layoff, begin its road tour in Newark, N. J., Monday, September 21.

Although tentative bookings had been arranged for the fortnights' interval now left open, they were canceled by Sam H. Harris, the producer, when he learned that the members of the company would prefer a brief respite between the New York run and the road to the two weeks' additional work. As "Once in a Lifetime" was the only play of the 1930-31 season that ran through the hot summer, the personnel of the large cast felt that a short rest would be of benefit to them, and naturally redound to the profit of their road audiences.

This is an important consideration to local theatergoers, since "Once in a Lifetime" is booked as the inaugural attraction of the 1931-32 season at the Shubert-Belasco Theater the week of September 27, following its first road engagement in Newark.

It proceeds then, leisurely, via Pittsburgh and Cleveland, to its Midwest opening in the Selwyn Theater, Chicago, on October 18.

With the closing of "Once in a Lifetime" in New York, by the way, Sam H. Harris is opening a new play, called "Just to Remind You," by Owen Davis, which will be taken directly into the Broadhurst Theater in New York after a week's preliminary tryout.

In addition to this, he is scheduled to do two musical shows in the near future, Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, authors of "Once in a Lifetime," are now at work on these in collaboration with Laurence Stallings and Irving Berlin.

Speaking of imminent openings, Mr. Jimmy Lake, the Adonis of the Arenas, is proclaiming from the housetops that the Gayety Theater, over which he presides with characteristic aplomb and a considerable dash of elan, will inaugurate its new season of revamped burlesque on next Sabbath afternoon with an initial matinee performance by Sam Raynor and his "Gang," declared to be one of the ace outfits of the Columbia "wheel." If Mr. Lake can make this season match last, he will have something to brag about, no fooling.

Labor Day, one of the year's greatest harvest times for showmen, as a matter of fact, is spurring the entire amusement world to an awakened interest in its ticket wickets and how to coax the public to them. Even Glen Echo Park, whose season is waning, is in the van of those making an energetic drive for big holiday business—with every prospect of getting it, weather conditions being favorable.

Special provision has been made by the management for the accommodation of record-breaking crowds over the impending week-end—especially since the Crystal Pool, without the added impetus of the holiday, has something more than tripled normal attendance at the park.

Only those who have availed themselves of its facilities are aware of the completeness of this natatorium's equipment, even down to the pneumatic hair and bathing-suit driers, the comb-vending machines and the other thoughtful appurtenances that add so much to a bather's comfort and convenience. My own observation has been that the pool itself is as clean and as uniformly kept spic and span as any bath in a private home. It is impossible to get in or out of it without a high-pressure shower hitting you from 49 different directions all at once—a little bewildering at first, but a fine idea.

Such lively interest has already manifested itself in the Labor Day week's engagement of "Huckleberry Finn" at the Fox, begining tomorrow, that General Manager Harry W. Crull has anounced special daily schedules with five de luxe performances each for both Saturday of this week and Monday's holiday. On these days, doors will be thrown open to the public at 10 a. m., with the first performance beginning at 10:15.

On Sunday, four de luxe performances will be offered, doors opening at 1:30 p. m., and the first program getting under way at 2.

It is my impression that an even more drastic departure from customary time schedules is planned for the holiday week-end at the Earle, where it is expected that Joe E. Brown, appearing in person locally for the first time since his visit years ago in his first successful stage vehicle, "Listen, Lester," will pack them in from early morn 'til late at night. The details of this arrangement, however, have not as yet come to hand.

The inauguration of the new week, incidentally, will mark the first time since early summer that the operation of the complete roster of first-run picture houses in the downtown area will have afforded film fanatics an opportunity to attend a different screen entertainment every night in the week, if they so desire.

All seven will be in operation, somewhat as follows and to wit: Metropolitan, Phillips Holmes and Sylvia Sidney in "An American Tragedy;" Rialto, Mae Clarke and Kent Douglas in "Waterloo Bridge;" Fox, Junior Durkin, Jackie Coogan, Mitzi Green and Jackie Searl in "Huckleberry Finn," and Fanchon & Marco's "Olympic Games" Idea; Palace, Claudette Colbert and Monroe Owsley in "Secrets of a Secretary," and Loew's "Variety Revue;" RKO-Keith's, Ina Claire and Robert Ames in "Rebound;" Earle, Charles "Chic" Sale and Walter Huston in "The Star Witness," and Joe E. Brown, appearing in person as headliner of the vaudeville bill; Columbia, Joan Crawford, Monroe Owsley and Pauline Frederick in "This Modern Age."

Just to keep the record straight, it might be mentioned that the Fox and RKO-Keith's open their new bills tomorrow morning, the Rialto celebrates its reopening with a first performance tomorrow night at 8, with the others—including the refurbished Metropolitan — breaking out their new entertainments on Saturday morning, as usual.

Funny it hasn't occured to somebody before that all this police brutality business is probably just a dodge to scare the public into buying more tickets for that baseball game with the firemen!

And don't you pay any attention to me, Sergeant—this is just a lot of good-natured clowning!

WIDOW IN VIRGINIA FREED OF SLAYING

Amelia Courthouse, Va., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Mrs. Jeston Allen Jones, whose son had accused her from the witness stand of conspiring with a Negro farmhand to kill her husband, was acquitted of a murder charge by a jury today.

It took the jury, which had been listening to the case for a week, just 33 minutes to reach a verdict. Mrs. Jones, mother of eight children, heard it read without showing a trace of emotion.

In closing arguments defense counsel emphasized a theory that the husband, J. Will Jones, shot himself during the night of January 8 and was not murdered.

Robert Jones, the son who testified, accused his mother of plotting the murder of his father with Richard Lee, the farm hand, who is now serving 20 years for the crime.

He also testified his mother sought to have him kill his father. Testifying in her own defense, the widow denied her son's testimony, and likewise denied that Lee was offered $25 from insurance money if he killed Jones.

Three daughters and two sons of the accused took the stand in the defense of their mother, including Oscar Jones, jointly indicted with his mother, who waived immunity to testify. The witnesses said Robert had made demands for money, offering to stay out of the case if it was received.

Upon a motion by the prosecuting attorney, Keith Taylor, the indictment against Oscar was dismissed by Judge Edwin P. Cox, immediately after the verdict.

3 Pittsburgh Firms Given Tax Refunds

Largest of 5 Repayments Is $148,433 to Famous Players-Lasky.

(Associated Press.)

Refunds for over assessment of income taxes announced yesterday by the Internal Revenue Bureau included $148,433 to the Famous Players-Lasky, New York, and $27,605 to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., Pittsburgh, Pa. The refunds were made because of allowances for additional deduction for depreciation, increase in invested capital and other reasons.

The Famous Players-Lasky Corporation overassessment was for 1918, 1919 and 1920, while the Pittsburgh company overassessments were for 1917 to 1925. In the Pittsburgh company's case the bureau withheld $135,000 for future adjustments, while in the Famous Players-Lasky case $22,318 was held for the same purpose.

Jobless Halt Road Work In Dispute Over Wages

Kansas City, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Approximately 300 unemployed, whose spokesmen said they intended closing down all road jobs in Jackson County, where contractors pay less than 40 cents an hour or employ outside labor, halted two operations today.

Thirty men under the direction of M. B. Ackley, subcontractor for the C. H. Atkinson Construction Co., of Watertown, S. Dak., were halted when the unemployed drove wagons and teams to the contractor's stables. The unemployed also halted operations on a large culvert.

WOODLAND BEACH GROWS IN FAVOR

Summer Resort Now Mecca of Cottagers; Building Is Increasing.

The popularity of Woodland Beach, The Washington Post's summer home development on South River in Maryland, is growing constantly with every indication that by the time next summer rolls around the beach will be the mecca for hundreds of Capital residents daily.

Already a good portion of the lots for summer cottages there have been sold with many persons having already built on their property, or at least having had plans drawn for a summer home. The spot, which last spring was almost a natural wilderness, is now a thriving community of cottagers.

Why has Woodland Beach become so popular? First, because it has all the advantages which any summer resort should offer. Second, it is close enough to Washington to enable property owners to enjoy its benefit overnight and for week-ends as well as during vacation periods. In the third place the price of property there is right.

That probably appeals to most persons seeking a permanent place in which to avoid the handicaps of hot weather in the city. Lots at Woodland Beach cost only $93. Of this amount only $9 in cash, together with the price of a subscription to The Post, need be paid when making a selection. The remainder may then be paid in monthly installments of $3.50.

When summer enjoyment for several years may be assured at such low cost, it is small wonder that hundreds of Washingtonians have bought at the beach. Why not join this happy throng and make pleasure during the summer a permanent institution for you and your family?

800 Return to Work When Plant Reopens

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Between 800 and 900 men will return to work at the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Co. here, officials of the company said today. The company reopened its iron foundry and enamel department today.

The men who will return to work had been idle during August while the department was closed. Officials said no new men will be employed, but the department probably will operate with a full force until next August.

Philadelphia Bank Ends Withdrawal by Closing

Philadelphia, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—The Parkway Trust Co., with offices at Fifteenth and Race street, closed its doors today. The bank's capital in its last report was given as $250,000 and its surplus as $150,000.

Deposits amounted to $1,393,000. A statement issued by the bank said that the institution was closed because of gradual seepage of deposits.

Gen. Crowder's Health Suffers Breakdown

Colorado Springs, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Maj. Gen. Enoch Crowder, retired Army officer and diplomat, is confined to his room at a hotel here by a general breakdown in health. Friends did not regard his condition as critical.

During the World War, Gen. Crowder supervised the selective draft system. On his retirement in 1923 after a brilliant Army career, he became Ambassador to Cuba, serving until 1927. From 1906 to 1908 he was Secretary of State and Justice in Cuba under Governor General Leonard Wood, and in 1919 aided in the revision of the Cuban election laws.

Warrant Accuses Son of Bank Head

Harrison, Ark., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—A warrant for the arrest of W. A. Hudspeth, son of A. T. Hudspeth, whose nine banks in this section closed yesterday after receipt of a letter from him saying he was going to Canada, was issued today by Prosecuting Attorney Jack Holt. The younger Hudspeth, vice president of the Peoples Savings Bank here, was charged with acceptance of deposits knowing the bank to be insolvent.

Holt said tonight he would ask the Searcy and Boone County grand juries to investigate the taking of money from the First State Bank at Marshall, and the forcible detention of officials of the Citizens Bank here yesterday.

"The men who took their deposits out of the First State Bank are as guilty of bank robbery just as though they did not have money there," Holt said. A number of persons forced their way into a directors' meeting after the Marshall bank had closed and demanded their deposits.

Lawyer and 2 Collegians Expelled From Florida

Palm Beach, Fla., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—A lawyer and two well dressed college youths were among the passengers on Florida's "Hobo Express," which made its initial run of the season northward today.

The express, a small fleet of trucks operated by sheriffs of Florida east coast counties, runs annually to keep persons without visible means of support from complicating the winter unemployment situation. It was never run so early before. From Miami northbound, each county transports such undesirables to the northern county line and discharges them. They are picked up at once by the sheriff of that county and hurried to the next county line.

Commissioner of Customs Attacks Liner Rum Search

Eble Advises Dunning, of Savannah, That Opening of Luggage While Passengers Were Absent Was Unauthorized and Contrary to Procedure.

(United Press.)

Customs officers in charge of the recent raid on the Grace liner, Santa Inez, at Savannah, Ga., were sharply rebuked yesterday by their chief, Commissioner of Customs F. X. A. Eble.

Upon M. O. Dunning, collector of the Georgia port, fell the chief portion of official blame for the illegal examination of passengers' staterooms and luggage. Eble advised Dunning that the actions of his agents were unauthorized and contrary to customs procedure.

Eble's action follows formal protests filed with the Treasury and State Departments by the passengers of the liner which had docked at the Southern port for a day on her way to New York.

The raid, allegedly in search of smuggled liquor, was conducted in the absence of the passengers, among whom was the former Bolivian foreign minister, Ezequiel R. Calderon.

The passengers in their protest claimed that the customs agents had upset their staterooms in their absence, and had explored luggage in the search for liquor. Only two small bottles were found.

Commissioner Eble informed Dunning that he should have instructed his men that they could not violate customs regulations by opening the luggage of passengers without the owners being present.

Eble said also that no customs agent has the right to enter the stateroom of a passenger unless invited to do so, or on a well-founded suspicion that the passenger is attempting to smuggle narcotics.

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

Rehoboth Beach, Del. Sept. 2, 1931.

THIS guy Tom Mills who coaches the Georgetown football team is a convincing fellow. It started off like a casual conversation, but by the time the end of the boardwalk had been reached this correspondent had been roped in in a pep talk and was of a mind to bring down with a flying tackle the next vacationer who didn't have on a Blue and Gray uniform. This guy Mills could make the Sphinx break down and tell all and win a citation from the Wickersham Commission for the absence of third-degree methods.

Listen to Mills warming to his subject:

"Yeah, I got a great bunch of boys here. They're loyal and they'll give me all they's got. That's the kind of a team I want. If they're willing to work, I'm not afraid to say we're going to have a great season. That's what counts with me, loyalty. And character. And heart. That's what I want, heart. Give me the football team with a heart and I'll give you a great football team.

"They didn't do us any favors up on the Hill by arranging that tough schedule for me. They gave me a lot of teams that other colleges are steering clear of. Good, tough teams that are liable to knock you off and little credit if you do beat them. But I'm not afraid of that. If these boys of mine go to work the way I think they will, I won't have any alibis.

Emotion Begets Emotion

"I wasn't sounding off just for the benefit of the Movietone cameras the other day. What I told those boys I meant. They know it, too. Emotion begets emotion. You've got to appeal to their courage, and their character and their pride. That's the way to get the most out of them.

"A coach has got to be a psychologist to get the most out of his boys. I like these pep talks before a game and between the halves. But you've got to be careful or you're going to strike the wrong chord and that will do you more harm than good. You can't tell the boys the same thing every time. You've got to fit your talk to the circumstances.

"I've heard a lot of pep talks and most of it is a lot of blatant oratory boiled down to a tongue-lashing. That might work sometimes but it won't work all the time. You can't fool these boys. They know when you're right and when you're wrong. You've got to play square with 'em and they resent a coach's grandstand play.

Careful With Ridicule

"Ridicule is all right, but you've got to be careful how you use it. A bunch of fellows who have had some tough breaks out there and come in at the half a touchdown or so behind are in no position to be ridiculed. That's the wrong chord. They're just waiting to be patted on the back and told they can win that ball game if they go back and work.

"Very few athletes give 100 per cent all the time. There's bound to be a let down. That's when you've got to appeal to their emotion. And you've got to mean it and feel it yourself. Emotion recognizes emotion and will respond to it. I appeal to their courage, their pride and their character and it works if you've got a bunch of loyal boys.

"You've seen cases where good, loyal boys haven't been giving 100 per cent. So have I. Those boys need to be talked to, that's all. They need to have their spirit brought to the surface. That's what a pep talk does. Suppose somebody said something mean to your mother? Your efficiency would be increased a couple of hundred per cent, wouldn't it? I've seen cases where boys and teams in that spirit were unbeatable.

Sluggish Team Problem

"It's easy enough to talk to a team that is three or four touchdowns ahead. All you've got to do is guard against overconfidence. But the team that is sluggish is the team that is your hardest problem. That's the kind of team that needs to be aroused. Here's where I say ridicule would work. You've got to appeal to a sluggish team's pride. You've got to question their courage. You've got to whip them into a pitch where they're ashamed of themselves. If you succeed, you've got an unbeatable ball team out there on the field in the second half.

"I've got to watch myself, too. The minute I show a let-down, I might just as well quit. If they think I'm not taking this work seriously, my job will be impossible. For three months I've got to be the symbol of high spirit. Those boys watch me and I can't afford to be discouraged. For the next three months I've got to maintain a victory complex. That's my biggest job.

"They had a lot of fun out there before those movie cameras the other day. That was O. K. but I don't care about this preseason publicity. The Sunday morning publicity is the only kind that counts with me."

Bernard Beats Doeg At International Nets

Germantown Cricket Club, Pa., Sept. 2 (U.P.).—French players captured most of the honors in today's play of the International Round Robin Tennis Tournament here.

Marcel Bernard, young French player, defeated John Doeg, of Newark, N. J., United States champion, 6—2, 6—4. The French doubles team of Jacques Brugnon and Christian Boussus defeated George Lott and Doeg, 9—7, 6—3. The lone French defeat came when Frederick J. Perry, of Great Britain, won over Andre Merlin, of France, 6—1, 7—5.

Manush and Bluege Hit Homers

By BILL DOOLEY
(Baseball Writer, Philadelphia Record).

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 2.—The old buck private from the Philippines, Alvin Crowder, pitched the Washington Nationals to a clean sweep of the two-game series with the monarchical Athletics by defeating them in the final joust this afternoon. Crowder, who allowed only six hits and shut the foemen out until the ninth, won by a score of 5 to 2.

Figger-sharps among the local experts marked the series down as the first the Athletics lost at home this season. This may be right or wrong, but in winning today the Nats did succeed in breaking Pitcher Mahaffey's record of not losing at Shibe Park this year.

Mahaffey Beaten for Third Time.

The pop-eyed Mahaffey, victor in fifteen games and loser of only two until he ran afoul of the Johnsons this afternoon, was pecked at for a lone run in the second inning and gave up a second when Ossie Bluege dropped a home run into the upper left field stands in the fourth.

But his undoing happened in the fifth stanza, when a single by Buddy Myer was followed by three successive passes. The third of these, to Cronin, forced in Myer and Mahaffey wild-pitched the second run homeward.

The fifth and final Nat tally was a solo effort by Heinie Manush, who blasted one of Relief Pitcher George Earnshaw's offerings over the right-field ramparts in the seventh inning. Incidentally, this was the only hit Earnshaw surrendered in four innings.

While the supporting cast was thus providing a lead of 5 to 0, Crowder was goose-egging the Mackmen with three hits—all singles—for eight innings, the last five of which were hitless.

Half of the Mackian hits off the old soldier were made in the ninth inning, when, growing slightly reckless, the champions scored two runs. Cochrane banged one of the tallies over the rubber with a double to right center and Moore propelled Mickey home with the second by singling to center.

But then and there Crowder applied the brakes, causing Jimmy Foxx to hit into a force play at second to end the game.

Good Talent Scattered Among The Fans.

There was some pretty good talent watching the Nationals and A's from the stands. They were members of the Philadelphia Nationals spending a bus driver's holiday. Either one of the clubs on the field would have welcomed the privilege of taking one of these fellows out of his seat and placing him in right field. We mean Chuck Klein, by all means the greatest ball player in the National League. Others of the Phils among the onlookers were "Fidgety Phil" Collins, star pitcher; Dick Bartell, a counterpart of Joe Cronin; Pinkey Whitney, Les Mallon, Jumbo Elliott and Buzz Arlett.

Bing Miller, who played through his first seven big league seasons before he made his first muff of a fly ball, allowed Buddy Myer's high one to bounce out of his hands for a two-base error in the opening inning.

Previous to this afternoon, the New York Yankees were the only team in the league to beat Roy Mahaffey this year. The Yanks had given the Southerner both his defeats, though the freckled hurler also holds three decisions over Ruth & Co.

Young splashed down the home stretch about a mile ahead of his nearest rival, Bill Goll, of New York, taking the lead after six miles of swimming through cold water, the Toronto youth, who had been a leading contender for the marathon race crown ever since his Catalina victory, never was threatened. He increased his lead all through the last half of the struggle.

The water, which was about 58 degrees at the start, forced most of the starting field of 180 out early in the race. Only seven were left when Young neared the finish line. Mendel Burditt, of Toronto, dropped out 3 miles from the line when he was swimming 2 miles behind Young. Dan Dembicki, of east Windsor, Ont.,

YANK RALLY WINS OVER RED SOX

Ruth Hits No. 38 as Boston Bows by 7 to 6.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—The Yankees spotted the Boston Red Sox to a five-run lead today and then came from behind to win, 7 to 6, in the final meeting of the year between the two clubs.

Ivy Paul Andrews did a great job of relief work for the winners after the Sox had knocked Gordon Rhodes from the box, allowing but two hits in the last six and two-thirds innings. Andrews also made a hit and scored two runs.

Babe Ruth hit his thirty-eighth home run in the first inning, leaving him two behind his teammate, Lou Gehrig, in their race for season honors. Earl Combs contributed two timely triples, one of which drove in the winning run.

Fighting John Morrissey, In Portrait, Still Reigns Over Saratoga Clubhouse

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

A VISIT to the tarnished halls of revelry and chance comprising the old Saratoga clubhouse and some speculations on the character of John Morrissey, who built the place, have brought me several letters and old newspaper clippings regarding this prize fighter, who presently went to the United States Congress and in his later years became the head man of the greatest gambling house ever conducted in this country.

He was also the founder of the Saratoga race track and a one-man jockey club, with absolute power to rule people off the turf. As a one-man police force, he stood at the gates and personally enforced his own writs on banishment.

John Morrissey also appears to have held a monopoly on the betting at his track. His old portable iron safe still stands in a corner of one of the private gambling rooms of the clubhouse, and a pious old lady who pointed it out told me that Morrissey used to freight this safe from the gambling house to the horse track every morning of the racing season and freight it back again in the evening.

Two big Negro house boys would run an iron pipe through the handles and heave it into his buggy, and Morrissey would ride with his money through the leafy streets of Saratoga to and from the track. Judging from the descriptions of the man, I doubt that he employed any armed guards to protect the loot. He was crowded with self-confidence and was an able, free-style fighter who was licked now and again, but never for lack of fighting enthusiasm.

The old Saratoga clubhouse passed into other hands when Morrissey died and was last conducted as a gambling house by Dick Canfield, of comparatively recent memory. Canfield, or his estate, eventually conveyed the house and grounds to the municipality of Saratoga, and, under municipal auspices, always slack and unintelligent, the old gambling house has become a sort of historical attic or catchall in which the most casual junk is preserved in dusty glass cases along with objects of real historical curiosity.

There, nowadays, identified by flyblown, descriptive cards, authentic fragments of Revolutionary cannonballs from the battlefields around Saratoga rest under the same glass with the sloughed skins of Adirondack copperheads; the epulets of Revolutionary generals and garments of Colonial homespun vie for interest with the old birds' nests and photographs of local two-headed calves.

Morrissey was not heavyweight champion of the world, for the prize fight business had not yet progressed to that extent, but he was the heavyweight champion of the United States. His portrait, still hanging in the desolate halls where persons of opposite minds and morals now come to exult, indicates that he was a man who would have gone pretty far in any day, but I do not place much credence in a portrait. A man doesn't buy a portrait unless he likes it, and he doesn't like it unless it gives him something better than an even break.

One of my letters comes from H Palmer, of Carey, Ill. It says:

"I am writing you at the postoffice desk at Carey, Ill., so please excuse bad pen, as the pig said when he broke out.

"I found the inclosed clipping in my old scrap book, vintage of 1884 or thereabout. I think it might interest you to know how Morrissey's club-

Steele Downs De Laun on Wet Mat

Zaharias Uses Flying Tackles to Beat Steinborn.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

A PROVIDENTIAL rain saved about half of Washington's rassle fans from spending an evening and a buck or so at the ball park last night—an evening of palpably insincere performing, as melancholy as the steady drizzle, as ragged as a preliminary boy's tights, as bleak as the empty grand stands, and as entrancing as the ankle-deep mud in the infield.

The weather man did his best to save the situation and the transparent pocketbooks of the gullibles. Barrels of water fell on the ring and ringside two hours before the start of the first exhibition, but after keeping up the good work for about an hour and a half, the spigot turned off. No sooner had the last drop of water hit the middle of the ring, and had sent a feeble flock of rings to the far corner of the puddle, than Matchmaker Joe Turner drove a giant moving van up to the stadium, and amidst horse cries of "Whoole-whoole," and the brandishing of an elephant pick, drove the wrestlers into their undressing rooms.

4,000 Fans On Hand.

Four thousand fans saw the five waltzes. The first bout was delayed 15 minutes until attendants had wrung some of the moisture from the mat.

Ray Steele used a sickle on De Laun, chronic claimant of the French-Canadian championship, and finished him in 27½ minutes with three socks on the jaw, an airplane spin, a bonebend or two, and a body slam which squooshed water all over the ringside gawpers.

Steele was his tremendously strong self throughout, although there were times when the No. 2 ranking Curley cranium crusher looked bad against the straight wrestling of his opponent. De Laun surprised by putting up a really respectable battle for the most of the bout.

George Zaharias, the 230-pound, handsome-enough Greek, commenced his long process of being "built up" last night when he was sic'd on Milo Steinborn, a bad boy. Zaharias' face shone with the dignity of a martyr as he stopped terrific punches on the hands and mighty kicks that missed him by a comfortable yard or so.

Zaharias Given Ovation.

Zaharias, who used to be the villian hereabouts strode from the ring to find an ovation forcing its way into his mangled ears, the first cheer he has gained in Washington. He downed Steinborn with six flying tackles which carried the 220-pound German off his feet, and deposited him finally in a badly tangled mass in the middle of the ring. It took sixteen minutes.

Doc Wilson and John Maxos tussled to a listless draw. Chief White Feather clamped an adhesive chin lock on Tom Draak after 26½ minutes and forced the Hollander to give up. In the other bout wrestling history was made, for old Tiger Nelson, the meanest man in the world, finally won a match. The ruined young man was Babe Caddock, who succumbed in fourteen minutes.

The decision of the management to go through with last night's bouts came as a surprise to many. It was announced unofficially early in the evening that the rain had caused a postponement until tonight. Officials at the park last night stated that inability to secure the same card for tonight was the reason for going through with the bouts, despite inclement weather.

Congressional Beats Manor Golf Women

The women's team of the Congressional Country Club yesterday continued its unbroken string of victories, scoring its eighth triumph in a clean sweep in the match played against the women's team of the Manor Club.

Miss Virginia Williams and Mrs. J. P. Dowdall, Congressional, won three points from Mrs. H. B. Hird and Mrs. J. T. Powell, Manor. Mrs. J. O. Rhyne and Mrs. Henry J. Richardson, Congressional, also scored three points against Mrs. Howard Simonds and Mrs. Colhoun, Manor. In the last foursome, Mrs. H. H. Moffitt and Mrs. R. T. Jones, Congressional, scored three points against Mrs. Mack Myer and Mrs. L. C. Pray, Manor.

Deck-Seidel Retain League Doubles Title

Pat Deck and Bill Seidel upset the dope all over the Henry Park courts yesterday afternoon when they defended their doubles championship of the Capital City Tennis League by defeating Anthony Latona and Frank Shore, seeded No. 1, in the final round, 7—5, 6—3, 7—5.

It was a sweet victory for Deck and Seidel, whose chances before the match were felt to be impossible. Seidel displaced all previous good playing records on his part by turning in a brilliant exhibition of driving to puncture the net attack of the two juniors. He was a marvel of steadiness in returning service, taking the hefty deliveries of Shore and Latona on the rise and stroking the ball back hard and low, either down the lone or acutely across the court.

Deck lent an able hand. What Seidel started with his driving, Deck frequently finished with overhead smashes which knew no rejoinder. Against that brand of play Latona and Shore gave ground, slowly but surely.

By ALAN GOULD

BEVERLY COUNTRY CLUB, Chicago, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Shaken at the outset by a series of high explosive upsets and then swept by a cloudburst of rain, the first two rounds of the match play for the amateur golf championship of the United States ended today with a dramatic flourish.

In the wide open scramble for the title relinquished by Bobby Jones, six of eight "seeded" competitors were abruptly eliminated from the picture, all but two of the tournament newcomers turned back and the last foreign contender, Ross Somerville, of Canada, put out of the running.

Francis Ouimet Doing Comeback.

The youths that have been riding high so far gave way to one of the old masters, Francis Ouimet, of Boston. The "boy wonder" of nearly two decades ago, champion in 1914, Ouimet turned in a sensational comeback as he led eight survivors of the qualifying field of 32 through two triumphs and into the quarter-final round of the championship.

Ouimet, with some of the most brilliant golf of the day, disposed of Johnny Shields, of Seattle, 4 and 3, in the first round and then trounced Frank Connolly, of Mount Clemens, Mich., 5 and 4, to move forward as the outstanding contender left in the championship chase.

The veteran Bostonian and Maurice J. McCarthy, jr., the black-haired New York scrapper, were the only survivors of the "seeded" octet. McCarthy had to stage the most sensational comeback of the day to escape elimination in the first round. He won the last five straight holes, covering the inward route in 34, one under par, to overcome Russell Martin, Chicago, 1 up, and then pounded out an easy second round victory over Emmett Spicer, jr., Memphis, 5 and 3, while the thunder rolled in the afternoon.

Five Seeded Starters Eliminated.

Meanwhile favorites tumbled into defeat all over the battle ground of Beverly. Five of the "seeded" starters were beaten in the first round, including George Voigt, of New York; Johnny Lehman, of Chicago; Johnny Goodman, of Omaha; Charles Seaver, of Los Angeles, and Gene Homans, of Englewood, N. J. The sixth and last to fall was George T. Dunlap, jr., New York, who bowed to the sharp-shooting Jack Westland, Chicago, 3 and 2, in the second round.

Goodman was a victim of the most spectacular youngster of the tournament, 19-year-old Billy Howell, of Richmond, the Virginia State champion. Howell, with a display of golf worthy of the most seasoned campaigner, vanquished Goodman, 2 and 1, and then took the measure of Owen Covey, Salt Lake City, 4 and 2.

Voigt fell before the superlative golf of Dick Martin, of Chicago, the Big Ten titleholder, 2 and 1. After this splurge, Martin came close to ending his day with another upset. Three down and three to go, he squared his second round match with Lester Bolstad, St. Paul, at the eighteenth hole while the cloudburst was at its height, but lost at the nineteenth in the only extra-hole battle of the day.

Seaver Put Out of Event By Yates.

Seaver's defeat was not so startling, for he lost a ding dong tussle with one of the medalist trio, Arthur (Ducky) Yates, of Rochester, N. Y. It went to the eighteenth before Yates won, 1 up, from the Stanford University freshman, and "Ducky" maintained his pace by overwhelming young Carey Bellew, jr., Kansas City, 6 and 4, in the second round.

Lehman, who shared the qualifying honors with Seaver and Yates, lost to the surprising Paul Jackson,

PRIMLIN WINNER IN SPRINT FEATURE RACE AT MARLBORO

Second Place To Danish Prince

MARLBORO RACE TRACK, Md., Sept. 2—Vice President Charles Curtis, long a lover of the thoroughbreds, took advantage of perfect racing weather today to come over from Washington and he was treated to a thrilling race in the 6½ furlongs of the third, looked upon as the day's feature, when Mrs. E. I. Shewbridge's Primlin, favorite, came from behind in the stretch to win.

Primlin, a 3-year-old chestnut daughter of Dunlin and Primrock, broke alertly, but was wisely taken in hand when Danish Prince and Mullah went out to make a runaway of the race during the first half. Going down the back lane, Primlin was let down and she soon raced to Danish Prince who was setting the pace and after a short brush with the leader, went on to an easy victory.

Danish Prince Used Up Setting Pace.

Danish Prince was used up making the pace, but still had enough left to save the place from Mullah. The latter would have been closer but for having his saddle slip just as he made his bid on the back stretch.

The day's sport opened with Rivet, owned by Sylvester W. Labrot, of Annapolis, winning from seven other 2-year-olds. This miss came from far back in the stretch and looks as if she may go on to better things.

Owner Labrot also started Tangler in the second but he showed nothing, the winner turning up in Mina F, one that J. C. Cremen, of Baltimore, purchased earlier in the week from the estate of the late John Patrick McGovern.

Franklin Baker, jr.'s, Justa Movie found a track to his liking in the 6½ furlongs of the fourth and led home Sandy San with Meran third.

W. C. Westmoreland's Partnership, who ran two disgraceful races last week at Cumberland, won a lucky race today when she accounted for the mile and one-sixteenth of the fifth. After seven-eighth of the race had been run Frances Cooper was leading, but her saddle slipped and her rider was lucky to remain upright. This enabled Partnership to take command and she held on long enough to save the purse from Mary Lewis, with Frances Cooper heading the remainder of the field.

Squabbler First Home By 10 Lengths.

The easiest score of the meeting was registered in the sixth when Mrs. R. Jackson's Squabbler led his field home by ten lengths in advance of Tenant after they had traveled a mile and one-sixteenth in 1:53 4-5. Third money went to Forest Lore.

GEORGE YOUNG WINS $10,000 SWIM RACE

Young finished the 15-mile grind for the $10,000 first prize at approximately 6:13 p. m. (E. S. T.), taking eight hours and eight minutes—rather slow time—to cover the distance. The finish came in a heavy rain, but a crowd estimated at 100,000 was on hand to see Toronto's favorite turn in his first victory in many attempts.

As Young finished, six others remained in the water. Goll was second; Alfred Sully, of Toronto, third; Ernst Vierkotter, Toronto, fourth; Warren Anderson, Sidney, N. S., fifth; Herman Dankief, Detroit, sixth, and James Walsh, North Bend, Ohio, seventh and last. Only the first six finishers share in the $15,000 prize money. Vierkotter, in fourth place, still had more than 2 miles to go.

YANKS BUY PITCHER.

New York, N. Y., Sept. 2 (U.P.).—Purchase of Hormidas Aube, a right-hand pitcher, who has been owned by the Albany club, was announced today by the New York Yankees. Payment will be made in cash and players. Aube will report to the Yankees at Washington on Friday.

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Lincoln Fields Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

LINCOLN FIELDS RACE TRACK, Chicago, Ill., Sept. 2.—The program at Lincoln Fields will be contested over a muddy course tomorrow. The Old Elm Country Club Purse, an allowance affair, which attracted a list of eleven 3-year-olds and upward, will head the card. This event carries a purse of $1,400 and will be decided over the seven-furlong distance. The Geneva, an allowance race for juveniles, will support the main feature. The latter received only five candidates for the six-furlong sprint.

DOUBLE HEART, from the stable of Mrs. F. A. Carreaud, has demonstrated his ability to carry his speed over a muddy track and with an impost of 111 pounds should carry off the honors in the headliner. The son of High Time will have CHEERS, another speedy mudder, as a running mate. CAMP PRINCE scored impressively in his last over a fast strip, but in this field is given the place call. MARTHA JONES has shown improvement in recent efforts and should offer stern opposition.

In the supporting event, third on the card, BLACKSTRAP, a winner at this track over a heavy strip, is favored to lead his four opponents to the wire. ZEAN raced well in his Kentucky campaign and may prove dangerous under the conditions. COLD CHECK is the show selection, with CEE TEE and SUNIDAY completing the field.

FIRST RACE—SUSU was shut off in his last start, but with better handling will prove dangerous. LOVE OFFERING, from the Greentree Stable, will force the pace as far as he goes, with TONIGHT favored to gain the minor award.

SECOND RACE — DICK MORRIS raced far below his best form last outing and is capable of a better showing. He figures to annex the purse. BARON KING weakened last start, but should last to gain the place, with OUTER HARBOR third.

SIXTH RACE — TRANSGRESSION, on his recent splendid effort, should battle it out with WISE LEE. The latter will favor the track conditions and figures to force the pace. PLAY BIRD has shown several smart efforts recently and should share in the purse.

SEVENTH RACE—WINNIE JO, from the Mrs. A. Smith Stable, may carry off the honors in the final event. The daughter of Johren is bred for mud and should experience little difficulty from this field. SHOW DOWN is the contender. In his last the Swikard 4-year-old faltered after setting the pace to the stretch and should hold on long enough to account for the place. THEORIST JANE appears best of the others for the show award.

WEATHER, CLOUDY. TRACK, MUDDY.

FIRST RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200. Special weights. The Hydrange Purse. For maiden 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:16. Off at 2:18½. Winner, Greentree Stable's dk. b. f. (2), by Dis Donc—Sunday Best. Trained by E. Haughton. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48, 1:16 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BONNET, $22.40, $10.50, $5.82; PUPPET, $14.78, $5.18; PRECEDE, $4.22.

BONNET, away fast and well ridden, was under steadying restraint while alternating with PUPPET in the early lead, came away fast after reaching stretch and won with speed to spare. PUPPET began rapidly, forced the pace under energetic riding and began weakening after holding the lead briefly, but outstayed PRECEDE. Latter raced forwardly and may benefit. BRUSH DOWN broke very slowly and closed some ground on the inside in the stretch. BRIGHT BEAUTY, in close quarters at far turn, failed to respond when urged. DAWN MIST was always far back.

SECOND RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:47. Off at 2:50. Winner, J. R. McFadden's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BILL LOONEY, $7.88, $5.06, $3.38; BROOMSHOT, $17.78, $7.62; ESSIE, $5.66.

BILL LOONEY, suited by the going and quick to begin, was rated along under steadying restraint to the final five-sixteenths, where he responded strongly and was wearing down BROOMSHOT to win easily. Latter had speed, saved ground at the turn and while no match for the winner, held on well and was best of the others. ESSIE raced forwardly and continued steadily under weak riding in the stretch. GRAND PRINCE began well, saved ground and could not improve his position when urged hard. HOW TIZ quit. CRAZY COOT, taken back at the start, was outrun. HAMILTON had early speed.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $1,300; claiming. The Wolf Lake Purse. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:17. Off at 3:18. Winner, A. Sabbath's b. f. (2), by Dis Donc—Gloft. Trained by J. Lowenstein. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23, 0:47, 1:15.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—I SAY, $7.12, $4.04, $2.74; SWITCH, $4.08, $2.78; MISS TULSA, $2.62.

I SAY, well in hand the first three-eighths, began moving up slowly at stretch turn, came to the outside in the stretch and, disposing of MISS TULSA, withstood SWITCH for a handy win. Latter, never far back, lost much ground entering stretch and, racing wide around the turn, closed fast. MISS TULSA had speed under energetic riding and weakened in the final drive. CHEPERA was allowed to swerve badly almost throughout.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,600. The South Shore Country Club Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:45. Off at 3:48. Winner, W. C. and E. W. Reichert's ch. g. (6), by Porte Drapeau—Sleepster. Trained by W. Reichert. Value to winner, $1,150; second, $250; third, $130; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23, 0:47 1-5, 1:13, 1:26 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MY DANDY, $4.30, $2.46, $2.10; MALOLO, $3.04, $2.24; SATIN SPAR, $2.22.

MY DANDY, away fast and suited by the going, cut out the early pace under strong restraint, drew away fast after reaching the final three-sixteenths and won well in hand. MALOLO, away slowly and rushed into a contending position, held on fairly well under pressure for an eighth in the stretch, then weakened. SATIN SPAR raced wide and his effort may benefit him. LADY GIBSON had no mishaps. ALL UPSET was done early.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. The Dyer Purse. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:15. Off at 4:15½. Winner, J. Lowe's blk. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—TRY IT, $8.58, $5.86, $3.18; IN HASTE, $10.98, $4.58; SEGURO, $2.76.

TRY IT, allowed to drop out of it and far back the first half mile, improved his position rapidly while racing unnecessarily wide thereafter and, standing the drive gamely, wore down IN HASTE. Latter had good speed, saved ground and was weakly ridden when tiring in final eighth. SEGURO, slightly forced back at the first turn, failed to respond to pressure in his even effort, but outstayed others. SUN MASK had early speed. LADY EBONY closed well.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:44. Off at 4:45. Winner, C. E. Davison's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BETON, $7.98, $4.28, $2.74; SPANFLOW, $6.50, $3.28; RIFF RAFF, $2.40.

BETON, taken to the front, retained early command under steadying restraint, gamely withstood RIFF RAFF'S challenge and, increasing his advantage quickly after a mile, was not threatened by SPANFLOW. Latter, raced along under smug restraint for three-quarters, closed gamely, disposing of RIFF RAFF in final fifty yards. Latter taken back repeatedly during first three-eighths, weakened after making a bid on the outside entering the stretch. SEARINGTON was outrun. CAIUS was poorly ridden and, dropping back at second turn, was eased in stretch.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:14½. Off at 5:15. Winner, J. W. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROY, $11.40, $8.24, $6.84; AUSTERLITZ, $42.26, $22.50; ELLEN N, $7.58.

ROY racing kindly and suited by the going, kept up in very close quarters at the first turn, was rated along under slight restraint to final five-sixteenths, then responded strongly and, racing into the lead, won easily. AUSTERLITZ obtained a decided advantage at the start, had speed and weakened in final drive, but outstayed ELLEN N. Latter lost some ground and hung after moving up boldly at strech turn. GOLD MINT raced forwardly from start and weakened in drive.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—RIVET, $4.50, $2.80, $2.40; FIPE, $3.10, $2.80; MAJESTIE, $6.60.

RIVET, off slowly, was cut off at the first and second turns, but recovered quickly and closed very fast in the stretch to win going away. FIPE, used up setting the pace, could not withstand the winner's rush. MAJESTINE showed early speed, but was shut off at the far turn, came fast in the stretch. INNISFAIL quit to a walk after flashing early speed.

SECOND RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:43. Off at 2:48. Winner, J. C. Cremen's ch. f. (3), by Lucky Hour—Dream Girl. Trained by J. G. Watson. Value to winner, $350; second, $100; third, $50. Time, 0:24, 0:49 1-5, 1:08 1-5.

ROGER PEACOCK EASILY WINS DISTRICT JUNIOR GOLF TITLE

Argyle Youth 13 Strokes In Van

John Holzberg Third; Peacock Has 74 in First Round.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

THE District junior golf championship tournament, played yesterday on the course of the Manor Club, was a walkover for Roger Peacock, of the Argyle Club, whose score of 74—79—163 led the field by thirteen strokes. The silver runner-up medal was awarded to J. Monro Hunter, Jr., Indian Spring, whose score was 79—87—166, while the bronze medal for third position was won by John P. Holzberg, Columbia, with 83—85—168.

Competition was 36 holes, medal play. At the end of the morning round Peacock's card of 74 was five strokes ahead of his nearest competitor, Hunter, and when he stood on the tenth tee of the final round he was thirteen strokes ahead, a lead which insured him the title of junior champion, so that he was not disturbed even when he three-putted three greens.

Peacock Has 3 Birdies In First Round.

Peacock's creditable card of 74 in the forenoon was materially aided by three birdies in succession, a 2 on the eighth, a 4 on the ninth and a 3 on the tenth. In fact, Peacock so far outclassed the other players that the only interest was in the runner-up outcome, the final score showing a difference of only two strokes in Hunter's favor.

The ages of the contestants yesterday varied from 12 to nearly 21. The youngest member of the party was Bobby Brownell, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Brownell, who is just 12 years old, and who received the hearty congratulations of his mother when he turned in 95 for his morning round. Kenneth Anderson and William Detweiler have reached the mature age of 13 years, and the latter was happy when he played the afternoon round in 83. Nearly all the youngsters were fondly greeted by their mothers, who had gathered on the lawn to witness the final strokes on the thirty-sixth green.

The cards of the three leaders and the other scores were:

NATS AGAIN BEAT MACKMEN, 5 TO 2

another trial today but Mickey Cochrane's throws were catching 'em. Kuhel, who stole second and third in the first game of the series, was heaved out attempting a pilfer of third in the fourth. Cronin was caught going down to second in the seventh.

The Nats' home runs were well balanced, so to speak. Ossie Bluege dropped his into the left field stands and Heinie Manush clubbed the other over the right field fence.

Old man Father Time does not seem to collect his toll from the rubber legs of Sammy Rice. In the sixth inning, the veteran made a hair-raising catch of Earnshaw's booming liner near the scoreboard.

Manager Walter Johnson herded his charges back to the home hearth at 6:30 this evening. The solons will be idle tomorrow but open a series with the Yankees on Friday. A double-header with the young men of Manhattan is scheduled for Saturday.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

CAPT. A. H. HARDY, one-time friend and pupil of Buffalo Bill, set a marksmanship record in Lincoln, Nebr., 1907, that still stands and should stand for a long time to come. For 16 hours and 20 minutes Hardy fired a .22 caliber rifle at 2¼-inch wooden balls thrown into the air at a 25-foot rise. Out of 13,066 of the tiny balls thrown skyward, not less than 13,066 of them were broken. Using a 7-pound rifle, Hardy lifted 91,462 pounds during the 16 hours.

Capt. Hardy is also an expert with a pistol, being able to hit a moving target with one hand while drilling holes through a stationary one with the other. Another feat that he often performs at his home in Beverly Hills, Calif., is that of hitting objects behind him by using a watch as a mirror. He can just as easily shoot through the hole of a small washer or break tiny marbles thrown into the air.

When first introduced into the State of Washington, bullfrogs were classified as fish in order to protect them by game laws, and could be caught only with rod and reel. When this failed, because of law-defying nimrods with shotguns, they were classified as "song birds." Now, in order to aid frog farmers, they are listed as fur-bearing animals.

* * * *

Scientists are still trying to explain the mystery of tiny, hard pebbles that fell in widely separated areas during an Ohio hailstorm. One thing that makes the phenomenon all the more puzzling is the fact that they are so hard they can be used for cutting glass.

Browns and Tigers Split; Goslin Hits Hard

St. Louis, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Led by Kress, who slammed out three doubles, the St. Louis Browns took the second game of today's double-header from Detroit 5—4 after losing the opener to the Tigers, 7—3.

"Goose" Goslin shared hitting honors with Kress, hitting his twenty-second home run in the first game besides two doubles and getting a double and single in the second.

The series went to the Tigers, two games to one.

ELDBROOKE, COMMERCE TO MEET

Clash on Ellipse Today in Week-Day Title Series.

STUNNED by its surprising setback at the hands of Constructioneers in the opening game of the week-day series championship play, Commerce, Departmental League standard-bearer, will be out to redeem itself when it engages the Eldbrooke M. E. nine, Georgetown Church League champion, in the second game of the series today at 5:15 p. m. on the South Ellipse diamond.

Commerce stands head and shoulder above the Churchmen on paper, but whether the actual difference between the two will be as great on the playing field remains to be seen. The Departmental League champs have an all-star line-up, and, with Leon Riley in the box, the team should win handily.

Eldbrooke, hailing from a weak circuit, is a notoriously weak hitting team, as its average of .295 for the season will testify. By connecting when hits meant runs, however, the Georgetowners may keep abreast their opponents.

COLORED TEAMS TIE.

The second game of the series between Public Parks and Buildings and Postoffice for the championship of the Colored Departmental League resulted in a 6-6 tie, the contest being called because of darkness. The teams will resume play today with Barns on the mound for Postoffice and Wheeler hurling for P. B. and P. P.

ONLY 2 FAVORITES WIN IN AMATEUR

of Kansas City, after apparently having the situation well in hand. Jackson took three of the last four holes to beat Lehman, 1 up, and then showed it was no fluke by downing the veteran Fred Wright, of Boston, by the same margin in the afternoon. Jackson won this match at the eighteenth while a combination of hail and rain beat down, scoring a seven to Wright's eight as both battled the elements to a finish.

It was no great surprise, either, when Homans fell before Ross (Sandy) Somerville, the Old Dominion star, who, however, quickly came a cropper himself in the second round, yielding to the brilliant golf of young Fay Coleman, of Los Angeles, who won by 4 and 3 to carry on the last hope of the Far West for a champion.

Moreland's Defeat Rated Surprise.

Although he was not among the "seeded" performers, Gus Moreland, 20-year-old Texas champion, who finished high among the qualifiers, met with a surprising first round defeat at the hands of Frank Connolly, the Michigan "dark horse," who subsequently fell before Ouimet. Connolly's margin over the Texan was 2 and 1 and due to as fine a brand of golf as the first round witnessed. He failed entirely to sustain his pace against Ouimet.

Jack Westland, Chicago district champion, accounted for the scalp of the sixth "seeded" victim, George T. Dunlop, jr., the national intercollegiate champion, after taking the measure of another collegiate product, Samuel M. Parks, jr., of Pittsburgh, 4 and 2. These two victories marked Westland as one of the outstanding contenders, with the complete backing of the Chicago contingent, of which he is the lone survivor.

The list includes two players experiencing the thrills of their first national championship—Howell and Jackson—who alone sustained the fighting spirit that brought thirteen newcomers altogether into the qualifying fold. Howell is the youngest, 19, Ouimet the oldest, 38, and it will be a dramatic touch if these two meet in the semifinals.

Yates, the 268-pound slugger, has never before advanced so far as the quarter-finals, although he gained a reputation in 1928 by beating George Von Elm in the first round. Westland and Bolstad, too, are newcomers to the select company of the "last eight," McCarthy and Coleman have won their spurs and represent the best of the younger crop on opposite sides of the country.

South, East, Middle West and Far West all are still in the chase for the classic prize of American amateur golf, where anything can happen before the new king is crowned this Saturday.

Three Capital City League Races May End This Week

WITH only three championships remaining to be decided, Sunday's games may bring to a close the 1931 Capital City League season, one of the most successful in recent years. The three games bring together the Miller-Roamers and Olmsted Grillmen in the senior series, Wonder Bread and Spengler Post, midget contenders, and Wonder Boys and Washington Orioles in the insect class. The latter contest will be staged Saturday at Camp Meigs, while the others will be played on the Ellipse Sunday.

Following last week's easy victory over the Roamers, Manager "Snitz" Nau is more confident than ever that his Grill team will end the series this Sunday. "Snitz" was just a bit wary of the first game, not knowing how strong his opponents were, nor how his team would fare against the pitching of Physioc, the Furniture Dealer's ace. The first game eased his mind, however, and the Grillmen will enter the second fray determined to capture the title that was denied them last season. Dick Lanahan will twirl the second tilt, with Physioc opposing him.

The outcome of the Wonder Bread-Spengler fray is doubtful. Everything imaginable in baseball happens in their games and the coming combat should be no exception to the rule. Running true to form Spengler won out in the ninth inning of the first game after the Breadmen had apparently copped the victory with a single tally in the eighth inning. "Brick" Hayes probably will be Manager Hayre's mound choice, with Dick Nichols hurling for the Wonders.

Reds Turn on Cubs And Win Twin Bill

Cincinnati, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—The National League cellar occupants gave the faltering Cubs two lacings today by 7 to 4 and 8 to 4 and dropped the Chicago outfit closer to fourth place. The one bright spot in the visitors' play was the hitting of Billy Herman, recruit second baseman, who got four hits.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

WHAT TO DO IN SOME EMERGENCIES.

LAST Sunday the writer witnessed a fist fight in which a drunken man was knocked down. To call the combat a "fist fight" is a misnomer, because the man knocked down was maudlin drunk, scarcely able to stand, and was not able to raise his hands in self-defense. He was standing on a corner cursing everybody and everything.

A nearby newsboy considered it was a good chance to show the people what a manly, courageous fellow he was. He stepped up to the man, cracked him on the chin and laid him flat on his back on the stone pavement. His head hit the stone with a whack that would have caused a skull fracture in a man with bones of less than average thickness. To preach a sermon on the folly of getting maudlin drunk in hot weather is not the purpose of this article, nor does it have to do with psychology of a coward who hits a helpless man. It has to do with first-aid to the injured.

The sound of the man's skull hitting the pavement attracted the attention of people some distance away. A kind man, and a woman with the same type of impulse, raised the head and shoulders of the injured man a foot or so, and the man propped him up against his knees. The injured man was as limp as a rag, and the helpers made a poor job of their Good Samaritan act.

They did just exactly the wrong thing. Just that sort of kindness may cost a life. The proper first-aid treatment was to leave the man lying flat, with his head protected against direct sunlight. If anything was to be done, having him whiff some smelling salts or ammonia would not have done any harm, in all probability, and might have done some good. There was no objection to washing the face with cold water.

Lifting the man's head did no good. He was unconscious and therefore did not know he was lying on stone. If his skull was fractured hauling his head and shoulders up put him in the risk of serious hemorrhage or other serious effects. Even if his skull was not fractured lifting his head was liable to do harm by putting undue strain on his heart. Lying flat, limpid, and being unconscious everything was right to spare his vital forces just as much as they could be spared.

If we assume that the injury was of the slightest, and the man was unconscious because he fainted from shock, the indications would still be to let him lie quietly. It is probably not even good policy to bring back to consciousness a person who has fainted if his pulse is steady but weak. However, to use a little smelling salts and to fan or wash the face does but little harm, and usually does none.

HONEY AND HEART.

Mrs. J. M. G. writes: Would eating honey have any beneficial effect on one who has heart disease?

REPLY.

Honey is a very good form of sugar, but it has no beneficial effects in heart trouble, or any other disease for that matter.

CAUSES OF BOILS.

K. M. I. writes:

1. What causes boils and carbuncles?
2. Are they caused by poor blood, rundown condition, too rich a diet, or too much candy?
3. What is the treatment for them?
4. Are they contagious?

REPLY.

1. Infection of the skin, usually with a staphylococcus. Among the contributing causes are: Irritation of the skin, occupational exposures, diabetes.
2. Poor blood, whatever that is, is not the cause. The same answer as to rundown condition. Diet is not an important factor. Too much starch and sugar in the diet may contribute.
3. In the main, the treatment is local. It consists in keeping the skin very clean; avoiding occupational causes, insofar as that is possible; applying staphylococcus phage; attention to contributing causes, as treating diabetes, or changing diet.
4. Not in a proper sense. There are certain related skin conditions that are contagious.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

The applied front of the bodice uses the reverse side of the crepé and falls in soft cascading effect at either side, minimizing its width. The hips are smoothly fitted. The circular skirt gores the front in panel styling which is decidedly length giving

Style No. 723 may be had in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch material, with ⅝ yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Price of pattern, 15 cents. Address Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-ninth street, New York City.

STOCK PRICES DROP UNDER SELLING RUSH

Autumn Trade Statistics Fail to Aid Share Markets; Rails Slump.

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Mid-week trade statistics failed to suggest the imminence of an autumnal recovery today, and the security markets, in common with commodities, sold off.

Omission of the Lehigh Valley dividend and the disappointingly small increase in loadings of revenue freight brought out fresh selling of the railroad stocks, which, as a group, averaged into new low ground. Steels and chemicals softened.

Little enthusiasm was shown for either the utilities, oils or motors and amusements issues, which have been receiving some speculative attention on the theory that a pickup in theater patronage was due, felt the weight of selling that was imposed on the whole market. Trading increased over yesterday's diminutive volume, the turnover being 962,095 shares. The standard statistics composite price of 90 stocks closed 2 points lower at 108.5.

Absence of support in the railroad group reflected concern over decisions that may be taken at dividend meetings scheduled for this month and next. New York Central and Pennsylvania are being mentioned in brokerage house gossip as among the roads likely to make further cuts.

Issues Make New Lows.

Both issues made new lows for recent years, Pennsylvania reflecting in part the weakness of Lehigh which it controls through stock ownership. Lehigh's loss was 8 points. Norfolk & Western was down 6½, Atchison 5¼, and an assortment of other carriers were depressed 2 to nearly 4.

In comparison with the rails, losses of the industrial and power and light stocks were moderate. United States Steel, Union Carbide, American Can, American Telephone, Bethlehem, Westinghouse, Loew's, Du Pont, Air Reduction and Consolidated Gas dropped 1 to 2. J. I. Case, whose directors meet for dividend action tomorrow, declined 5, Columbian Carbon 4, and Allied Chemical nearly 3.

The market was dull and meaningless during the first hour, but toward noon, when the steel reviews had been digested and the Lehigh dividend passed, bear traders became more active. There was a period of marked dullness in the afternoon, followed by a resumption of the decline toward the close. Final prices were near the day's lows.

Steel Still Depressed.

Except for buying of structural materials, the steel industry continues deep in the trough of the depression. August pig iron production was 12 per cent less than the July output and at the lowest daily average in 10 years.

Possibility of wage cuts this fall, unless business improves, was mentioned by the trade summaries, which did not appear particularly impressed by the immediate outlook.

"Iron Age," in fact, said the approach of autumn found hopes for seasonal recovery waning, since "in neither production nor demand are current tendencies of such a character as to point to an impending expansion of activity.

In the aggregate the investment market was spotty, signifying that confidence is still easily disturbed.

Electric Power Declines.

Electric power production, which would be moving upward, showed a larger decline last week from a year ago than had been registered in the previous week. Parts of the country are more than holding their own with 1930, but slackness in other sections is keeping the total down.

Money has made not even a gesture of firmness with the turn of the month, and there is no expectation that conditions in the credit market will change much over the next few weeks or even months.

Foreign exchanges were mostly dull. The Canadian dollar lost nearly a tenth of a cent, but European rates made narrow changes. Sterling was about steady.

Bearish crop estimates from private sources contributed to the heaviness of grain prices. Wheat was down ¾ to 1¼ at the close, influenced in part by reports of Farm Board offerings as well as the unofficial winter wheat forecasts. Corn lost ⅜ to a cent. Cotton dropped 59 to 70 cents a bale net.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Bullish estimates on the probable size of the 1931 spring wheat and corn crops failed to arouse buying enthusiasm and prices on the Board of Trade dropped precipitately today. The December, March and May deliveries of wheat registered new low prices for the crop. Private estimates of the probable spring wheat yield indicated a crop of from 110,000,000 to 120,000,000 bushels, with estimating reported difficult owing to heavy abandonment and pasturing of a large percentage of the crop. Corn sold down with wheat.

Wheat closed weak at near bottom quotations for the day, 4@6⅛ cents below yesterday's finish; corn, ⅝@1 lower; oats, unchanged to a shade easier, and provisions mixed, ranging from a 5-cent decline to-an equal advance.

Further liquidation by wheat holders was in evidence, with indications of selling by houses connected with the Farm Board. Some of the selling was attributed to hedging from Canada. Foreign markets were listless.

Receipts were much smaller, primary points having less than half as much as a year ago. One crop authority estimated that 175,000,000 bushels of wheat would be fed to live stock this year. Easiness of the stock market was a weakening factor. Foreign news was mixed, rains reported again in northern Europe, but foreign demand was dull.

Corn prices held fairly well up to midday, but sold off sharply following the drop in wheat. The average of the private estimates forecast a crop of 2,733,000,000 bushels as compared to the official August estimate of 2,880,000,000. Kansas advices said the crop had deteriorated during August and the Western one-third of the corn belt now promised but an ordinary crop at the best.

The cash crop estimate was 1,137,000,000 bushels, compared with the Government figures for August of 1,170,000,000. Oats were firm early, but closed steady. Provisions were fairly steady.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—September (bids), 44⅛; December, 48@48¼, 49@49⅛; May, 52⅞@53. 54@54¼. Corn—September, 42@42⅛, 44⅛@44¼; December, 37⅞, 39⅛; May, 42⅜, 44.

RAILWAY BONDS SAG IN GENERAL DECLINE

Foreign Issues Close With Some Gains; Utilities Hold Firm.

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—A general decline in railroad issues, particularly speculative obligations, featured the bond market today. Other corporate bonds were barely steady, and the foreign group closed with irregular gains.

The omission of the common dividend by the Lehigh Valley preceded the downturn in rail bonds, which was simultaneous with the slump in carrier stocks. Net losses of 1 point or more occurred in such active bonds as Chicago Great Western 4s of 1959, St. Paul 5s of 2000, Rock Island 4s of 1934, and 4½s of 1960, Erie Refunding 5s of 1967 and of 1975, and the general lien 4s, Great Northern 5½s of 1952, and Missouri Pacific General 4s, and the series F, H, and I 5s.

The rails were the most active group of the whole list and during the early trading they kept pretty close to yesterday's final prices.

Liberty and ited Treasury bonds closed easy after holding firm in the Treasury 4s of 1944-1954, was quiet.

Price movements were not so wide among foreign obligations as they are frequently. Most Argentine issues closed fractionally lower and several bonds of Antioquia lost 1 point or more. Aside from these losses there were no downward group movements.

Net changes among Brazilian Loans were divided about evenly between gains and declines. Dillon, Read & Co., as fiscal agents, announced that they have funds available to meet interest payments due October 1 and October 15 on the 6½ per cent Brazilian Dollar bonds of 1926 and 1927, due in 1957. Australian obligations were generally higher.

Public utility and industrial loans kept pretty close to yesterday's final prices. The turnover in most of both groups was moderate. Chile copper 5s reached a new low at 71. Warner Brothers Pictures 6s and General Theaters Equipment 6s dropped sharply also.

25 Years Ago Today

SEPTEMBER 3, 1906.

A total of 1,179 guns on 45 U. S. naval boats thundered a mighty salute to President Roosevelt on Long Island Sound, when he reviewed the fleet from the deck of the Mayflower.

Five records were broken in the Middle States regatta held on the Potomac River, when oarsmen from all over the country vied for victory. The Potomac Boat Club won fourth place.

17 TRAFFIC SIGNALS SET UP LAST YEAR, REPORT DECLARES

Former Director Harland's Statement Is Submitted to Commissioners.

DRUNKEN DRIVING TOPS ALL REVOCATION CASES

Seventeen new traffic light signals were installed at four intersections during the last fiscal year. W. H. Harland, former director of traffic, declared in his report just submitted yesterday to the District Commissioners. There were also installed two signals on Connecticut avenue, near No. 31 Engine House, but they turn red only when the fire apparatus is called.

These lights bring the total to 947 and the total number of intersections controlled to 249, not counting the fire house signal, the report states.

Attention is called to the alteration of the Rhode Island avenue system to flexible progressive, and Mr. Harland expresses the belief that "a more even flow of traffic" will result. Similar modernizations are suggested for other heavily traveled thoroughfares.

1,201 Permits Revoked.

Driving while drunk led the list of offenses which resulted in the revocation in toto of 1,201 drivers' permits last year. This offense brought 371 revocations, while speeding came second with 246 charges. Permits were taken from 126 motorists for leaving after colliding and from 171 others involved in traffic fatalities.

There were 884 permits restored. During the previous year 1,339 permits were revoked and 792 were restored. Last year 53,701 examinations for drivers' permits were conducted, but only 39,827 were approved. Automobile registrations increased 13,977 over 1930 and amounted to 187,638. There were 19,750 operators' permits issued to new drivers.

During the past year there were 8,954 traffic accidents in the District in which 3,610 persons were injured and 87 were killed.

Fifty Pedestrians Killed.

Fifty of the fatalities were pedestrians, while 16 were motorists who had collided with other motorists. Among the pedestrians persons between the ages of 15 and 49 led the list of injuries, and those between 5 and 14 years came second.

Forty-eight pedestrians were injured by street cars, and three were killed.

The report reveals that magnetic type traffic signals has been purchased for installation at the intersection of Massachusetts and Wisconsin avenues.

Couple Uninjured As Car Leaps Bank

Winfree E. Johnson, supervisor of athletics in the District public parks, and his wife, Mrs. Marie Johnson, of 4403 Klingle street northwest, narrowly escaped injury last night when the automobile in which they were riding plunged over a 20-foot embankment at Massachusetts avenue and Garfield street northwest.

Mr. Johnson told police that he was driving north on Massachusetts avenue, when at the intersection of Garfield street a small delivery truck, which was going south, made a left turn directly in front of his car.

As he turned sharply to avoid the collision, Mr. Johnson said, the truck hit the side of his car and it careened on to the sidewalk and over the embankment, coming to a stop against a tree 20 feet below the level of the street.

Unhurt, the couple made their way up the steep bank and Mrs. Johnson continued to her home in a taxi. Police said the truck was operated by Gazaway Foster, colored, of 4200 Dix street northeast.

More Car Title Forms Ordered by Van Duzer

A new supply of application blanks for certificates of auto title has been ordered by Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer, and will be delivered shortly. The order was sent to the Government Printing Office yesterday, after The Post revealed that persons applying for forms had been turned away after waiting in line for some time.

Two hundred thousand blanks were ordered when it was decided to compel title registration, leaving an estimated surplus for wastage of 90,000. A supply of the blanks was sent to the American Automobile Association, to garages, and to police stations. The others were kept at the traffic department. The new order is for 100,000 more copies.

Secret Dry Agent Took Bribe, Witnesses Aver

Judge Robert E. Mattingly yesterday listened to the testimony of three Government witnesses in the case of J. R. Gambaro, said to be an undercover prohibition agent, who is charged with having taken $21.85 from Robert H. Adams to "put in a good word" for him in his trial in Police Court on a liquor charge, and then ordered a continuance until today.

Police Sergt. N. O. Holmes and Sergt. Basil McAllister told the Court they waited at Thomas Circle and saw Adams hand something to Gambaro. Adams is said to have tendered Gambaro bills, the numbers of which had been previously noted by the waiting police.

Phi Delta Zeta Chapter Meets.

Plans for a dance October 17 at the Hay-Adams House were arranged last night by the Theta Chapter, of Phi Delta Zeta Fraternity, at the first meeting of its fall season at the Hay-Adams House. A basket ball team was organized, and Emory W. McIntosh named captain pro tem.

Baby Swallows Glass Of Broken Eye Dropper

Two-year-old Arthur Elwood Strack, jr., who is having a hard time cutting his teeth these days, chose a glass eye dropper for a teething ring yesterday with results that nearly proved disastrous.

The glass tip of the dropper broke off in the child's mouth, and was swallowed before his parents could interfere. His father took him to Casualty Hospital, where treatment was given by Dr. Grosberg. Arthur later was returned to his home.

Dr. Grosberg said the glass had passed into the baby's stomach, and there is no possible way of extracting it. He said, however, that if proper foods are fed the child it may never suffer any serious effects.

PRIVATE PLUMBING INCREASES $500,000

62,605 Inspections Made in Past Year; 16 Cases Carried to Court.

Plumbing work done in various buildings, exclusive of Federal and District structures, last year amounted to $500,000 more than in the fiscal year 1930, according to the annual report of A. R. McGonegal, inspector of plumbing, filed yesterday with the District Commissioners.

There was also an increase of 3,016 inspections made last year, but this was accounted for largely because of new regulations requiring examination of refrigeration equipment. A total of 39,313 plumbing inspections was made, while all inspections for the year totaled 62,605.

Sixteen cases were carried to Police Court. Four of these were for violation of plumbing regulations, while twelve were failure of plumbers to procure licenses. Fines from twelve convictions brought fines of $290.

F. M. Greenlaw, inspector of steam boilers, reported that 1,209 boilers were inspected during the year. A total of 126 was found defective in some respect. Gross receipts from inspections of privately owned boilers totaled $5,455.

"The general conditions surrounding boilers and plants under jurisdiction of this office show a marked improvement in care and maintenance, reflecting a reduction in the cost of steam production," the report stated.

Catholic Women Name Committees

Groups Will Carry Out Plans for National Convention Here.

Members of the National Council of Catholic Women met last night to form committees of local women who will make arrangements for the eleventh annual convention to be held here from October 4 to 7 in the Mayflower Hotel.

Mrs. Mary G. Hawks national president of the council presided over the meeting, at which practically every Catholic organization in Washington was represented. Among those who will form the committees are Mrs. James F. Hartnett, Mrs. Mary Burke, Mrs. Alice O'Connor, Mrs. Daniel Dunning, Miss Mildred C. Merrick, Mrs. Mary C. Clements, Mrs. Katherin Lynn, Mrs. Maud M. Anderson, Mrs. Anna C. Donnelly and Mrs. Harry Surguy.

The convention will formally open Sunday morning, October 4, with the pontifical high mass, at which his Excellency the Most Rev. Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi, apostolic delegate to the United States, will preside.

Essence of Soviet Plan Explained to Rotarians

Dr. Delos C. Kinsman, head of the economics department of American University, yesterday addressed a luncheon of the Washington Rotary Club in the Willard Hotel.

Speaking on present conditions in Soviet Russia, Dr. Kinsman declared that the Russian socialistic system is so thoroughly established that there is no possible prospect of revolt. The essence of the Soviet plan, he said, is to reduce unit production costs to a point where Russian products can be exported at prices far below those existing in other countries.

Pratt Prods Police On Abandoned Cars

Complaint that Second Precinct officers have been lax in allowing abandoned automobiles and trucks to remain on the streets in the eastern section of the precinct yesterday was made by Superintendent of Police Henry G. Pratt.

He ordered officers attached to the station to see that cars abandoned in the vicinity of Fifth and N streets northeast, First and N streets northeast and First and M streets northeast, be removed at once. He said some of the cars had been there two or three weeks.

Jimmy Thief Gets $75 Loot.

Richard G Dunlap reported to police last night that $75 in clothing and jewelry was stolen from his home at 1800 Ninth street northwest yesterday when the door to the house was jimmied open.

WATERMELONS MEET WATERLOO AT PLAYGROUND

GRANNIS TAKES LEAD WITH MODEL PLANES

Wins Two Events and Places in Three Others for 20 Points in Tourney.

By winning two events and placing in three others yesterday for a total score of 20 points, Edward Grannis, 1615 Kennedy street northwest, went into the lead for the championship of the ace class of the District of Columbia Model Aircraft Tournament, outdoor events of which were completed yesterday at Bolling Field.

Grannis leads the field with a grand total of 30 points, but is followed closely by John Sullivan, 1412 Twenty-ninth street northwest, with 27 points. Frank Salisbury, 1024 Vermont avenue northwest, the defending champion, has scored 20 points to date. Three indoor events remain on the schedule before the competition is completed. These are the flying true scale models, gliders and the seaplanes rising off water, which will be held at the Macfarland Community Center tomorrow morning.

Announcement Tomorrow.

Following completion of the final three events the scorers will total the points in the several classes and announce the winners at the annual luncheon of the District of Columbia Model Aircraft League tomorrow at 1 p. m., at the Macfarland Community Center.

Yesterday's flying saw the destruction of many of the prize models due to heavy wind. No records were broken, although several good flights were registered. Once a plane was able to get into the air it was hard to tell just where the breeze might carry it.

The greatest difficulty was encountered in the seaplane class, when the ships fitted with pontoons and floats, with a few notable exceptions, were unable to get off the water of the improvised seaplane basin.

More Than 42 Seconds.

Grannis gained one of his first places in this event without much difficulty when he was able to get his flying boat up for 42 2-5 seconds. Sullivan and Salisbury were the only other fliers successful in making a flight, the former keeping his ship up 27 seconds while the latter's remained aloft 22 seconds.

The best flight of the day also was accomplished by Grannis in the hand-launched scientific event when his ship was up for 7 minutes 8 seconds.

Lieut. Robert K. Giovannoli, of the United States Army Air Corps, again served as head timekeeper and judge. John Williams, tournament referee, allowed the contestants an extra hour to complete their flights yesterday due to the wind. The officials and newspapermen will be guests at the luncheon given tomorrow by the District Model Aircraft League following announcement of the winners.

Bullet Ricochets To Wound Boy, 11

A .22-caliber bullet fired in play yesterday ricocheted from the target which it was aimed and lodged itself in the leg of 11-year-old Joseph Milwit, sitting in the rear of his home at 1223 Decatur street northwest.

Leo Milwit, 18-year-old brother of the boy, drove him to Garfield Hospital, where his injury was pronounced not serious. Meanwhile Carter Lord, 14, of 1217 Decatur street northwest, revealed himself to police as the one who fired the bullet.

Carter said he was shooting at a leaf in his back yard, not knowing that beneath it was a piece of broken china hard enough to deflect the course of the bullet. The leaves of trees in a neighbor's yard hid the Milwit boy from his sight. He was not arrested.

Shots Fly as Auto Eludes Policemen

Suspected Bootleg Car Gets Away in Early Morning Battle.

Police last night were searching for two suspected bootleggers who exchanged shots with two Third Precinct policemen in a chase early yesterday through the Northwest section.

The policemen, H. C. Johnson and W. D. Perry, were cruising in a radio scout car when their suspicions were aroused by a large touring car near New Hampshire avenue and N street, with two men in the front seat. When the police car gave chase the driver of the alleged rum car speeded up and released a blinding smoke screen.

At Twenty-first street and New Hampshire avenue, Perry got out of the scout car while Johnson continued the chase through the foggy river bottom. As Perry had expected, the fugitive doubled back on New Hampshire avenue again. He fired several shots at the car as it whizzed by and the occupants returned the fire, though the bullets went wild.

Firemen's Parade Plans Announced

March to Be Divided Into Two Sections, One of Them Local.

Preliminary plans for the firemen's parade on Labor Day were announced yesterday by Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, director and marshal.

The parade will be divided into two sections, the first to be made up of local organizations, floats and officials and the second of volunteer fire departments from the nine States which will take part in the demonstration.

A police motorcycle escort followed by the Quantico Marine Band will head the parade. Following in automobiles will be Sergt. Bargagni, the District Commissioners, Odell S. Smith, general chairman; Joseph A. Burkart, chairman of the Board of Trade parade committee, and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland.

Employe Turned Bandit Sentenced to Five Years

Pleading guilty to a charge of highway robbery, Corliss H. Bowen, a former employe of the Sanitary Grocery Co., was sent to jail for five years when he was brought before Justice F. D. Letts for sentence.

Bowen admitted to Justice Letts that on October 25 last he held up a Sanitary Grocery employe who was on the way to the bank with receipts totaling $341 and relieved the employe of the money at the point of a pistol. He was caught several weeks later and has been awaiting sentence for a month.

U. S. GROUP TO SAIL SOON FOR ROUMANIA

American delegates to the Interparliamentary Union conference, to be held in Bucharest, Roumania, October 1 to 8, have assembled in Washington and are planning to sail within the next few days from New York.

Members of the group, which includes four senators and nine representatives, will land at Havre and proceed by train to the Roumanian capital, where they will hold informal discussion with delegates from other nations governed by parliaments concerning means by which the closest cooperation may be effected among their respective countries in the transaction of international affairs.

Senators who plan to make the trip are Tom Connally, of Texas; Thomas P. Gore, of Oklahoma; Henrik Shipstead, of Minnesota, and Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana.

Representatives in the party include: Cyrenus Cole, of Iowa; Andrew J. Montague, of Virginia; Fred A. Britten, of Illinois; Burton L. French, of Idaho; Fletcher Hale, of New Hampshire; Fritz G. Lanham, of Texas; J. Charles Linthicum, of Maryland; John McDuffie, of Alabama; William I. Sirovich, of New York.

Dr. Arthur Deerin Call, executive secretary of the American delegation, also will make the trip.

Among questions for discussion at the conference are the world-wide agricultural situation and the means by which a reduction of armaments can be most effectively brought about at the Geneva conference of the League of Nations in February of next year.

Congress has appropriated $10,000 to pay partially the expenses of the delegates, and an additional $10,000 to go toward establishment of permanent headquarters for the Inter-Parliamentary Union at Geneva.

Woman's Fall on Steps Causes $25,000 Suit

Bertha Virginia McNew, of the Woodley Apartments, Columbia road and Woodley place northwest, filed suit for $25,000 damages from T. F. Schneider, jr., of 1025 Fifteenth street northwest because of a fall she sustained in the apartment house.

The court is told that a bit of grease was negligently allowed to remain on a stair step, with the result that the plaintiff fell and broke her hip. The declaration of the suit did not specify the date of the occurrence.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

BANDITS, PAST AND PRESENT.

SAID Jesse James to Billy the Kid,
"We robbed a lotta birds, we did;
We stuck up trains, we robbed the mails—
We shot up towns and shot up jails;
Tough eggs we were and scoffed at law,
The lives we led were pretty raw,
But this you'll have to grant us, son,
We never thought shooting babes good fun."

Said Billy the Kid to Jesse James,
"We played quite fast and loose with dames
We toted guns and volleyed lead
And shot some well-known persons dead;
Bad men they call us, and we were—
We often did our bit 'in stir;'
Mean customers were we, but say,
We never thought kiddies legal prey."
Said Ali Baba to the Forty Thieves,
"The world the worst of us believes;
We knew no law; our acts were vile—
We used a knife without much style;
We'd steal your purse, your house we'd sack;
We'd even stab you in the back,
But, all in all, we had our charms—
We never killed nursing babes in arms."

SAID the Forty Thieves to Baba, Chief,
"Each one of us was a dirty thief;
Just vermin vile and unfit to know;
Whose foremost thought was 'get the dough;'
We robbed and pillaged cheerfully
And were as bad as bad could be;
Scum we were of the lowest sort—
But we never thought killing babes clean sport."
Said Dalton (Jack) to Two-Gun Pete,
"We gave our share of guys the heat;
We shot a lot and shot to kill—
If we'd lived we'd be shooting still;
Bandits bold, we were gunmen tough;
Our motto, boy, was 'Treat 'Em Rough;'
We were not much good, and our deeds were dire,
But we laid off babes when we opened fire!"
Said Two-Gun Pete to Dalton (Jack),
"We loved to hear the pistols crack;
A good hot fight in any street
Was just a mild and pleasant treat;
Two guys were we with records bad—
But notches in our guns we we had;
We were worthless eggs lost to shame, perhaps—
But we never slew babes in their mothers' laps!"

Business Bureau Reports Hoax in Italian Vermouth

Fine, old Italian vermouth—fine, old and Italian in name only—is being vended in Washington as the real thing, by bland foreign-looking salesmen, who are not strictly truthful in their sales talk, the Better Business Bureau advised the Police Department yesterday.

It seems a lawyer complained to the bureau that a man representing himself as a radio operator on a well-known steamship line offered to get him two cases of the wine. The lawyer paid $75 in advance. The liquor arrived, but turned out to be of the nonalcoholic, delicatessen variety.

Police headquarters last night broadcast a lookout for a dark complexioned gentleman, about 24 years old, apparently a Frenchman, suspected of working the hoax. The bureau believes there have been others victimized who are ashamed to report it.

DISABLED VETERANS TOLD OPPORTUNITIES IN FEDERAL EMPLOY

Outlook Better Than Ever Before, Civil Service Officer Says.

D. A. V. ADVISED TO FIND WAY TO BRING PRESSURE

Men who came back from the World War with physical disabilities stand a better chance today of getting employment with Uncle Same than at any time sinc the armistice, more than 400 disabled veterans were assured at a mass meeting last night at the District Building by Claude E. Babock, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War and assistant secretary of the Civil Service Commission.

Mr. Babcock advised the unemployed veterans to stop worrying about the kind of position they want but to concentrate on the task of getting jobs. The D. A. V., he said, should devote its energies to bringing pressure to bear on the Civil Service Commission, the Labor Department and other Government employment agencies so as to facilitate employment of disabled veterans.

Figures now being tabulated show so far 350 unemployed disabled veterans in Washington, 607 employed and 66 unemployable. The total will show approximately 3,600 disabled veterans in the District, it is believed. The unemployed column is increasing daily and a new total is expected to be compiled by the end of this week, the veterans were told.

U. S. Hires 4,000 a Year.

The Government employs approximately 4,000 persons in Washington each year and if a small percentage of this number represented disabled veterans the problem of the unemployed former doughboy in the District would be solved, Mr. Babcock said.

Mr. Babcock revealed that the next annual report of the Civil Service Commission would show the number of disabled men eligible for employment. He added that it was virtually certain that most of these men would be given jobs.

R. C. Cogan, superintendent of the veterans' service in the District for the Department of Labor, assured the veterans that every effort is being made to place the unemployed former soldiers.

Ralph H. Campbell, executive secretary of the District of Columbia Polytechnic Institute for the Blind, advised the veterans, in applying for jobs, to place their disability in the background and their merits in the foreground. "Don't ask for what you want," he counseled the men, "but accept what is available."

Forum Reveals Problems.

There is no way to force personnel officers in the Government to retain veterans when temporary employes are discharged; the personnel officers can get around reinstating veterans by giving them low efficiency ratings; employment in no way should affect a man's rating; if any department of the Government discriminates against a disabled veteran the only recourse is to publish the facts.

After the veterans voted to have regular meetings on employment problems, Mr. Babcock announced that such meetings will be held the first Wednesday of each month, at which times problems of unemployed veterans will be investigated and remedies sought.

$3,500 Dress Burglary Reported.

A quantity of cloth coats and dresses valued at $3,500 was reported stolen yesterday from the Wellsley Co. at 800 Seventh street northwest. William Goodman, of Baltimore, manager of the store, told police that when he entered the establishment early yesterday morning he found one of the side windows broken open and the entire store ransacked.

DAVIS WILL SPEAK AT LABOR SERVICE

Seventy Labor Groups Are Expected at Cathedral Outdoor Meeting.

One of the largest outdoor congregations of the year is expected to assemble at the Peace Cross on the grounds of Washington Cathedral Sunday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock for a service in observance of National Labor Sunday at which Senator James J. Davis, former Secretary of Labor, will be principal speaker.

Representatives of more than 70 local unions and national labor organizations, including men and women prominent in labor circles, are expected to attend. The International Association of Machinists will be represented by Arthur Wharton, national president. Lodge No. 126 of Moose is to be present in a body. Many of the craftsmen engaged in the building of the Cathedral also will be in the congregation.

A special order of service, including familiar hymns and prayers for labor together with appropriate Scriptural readings, will be followed. It will be conducted by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, who is returning from his vacation especially for the occasion. The service will be broadcast by radio Station WMAL and the Columbia System's Coast-to-Coast network.

Seating accommodations for large numbers will be available to the general public without ticket and without special reservations. Ushering will be handled by the Cathedral Guild of Ushers. Music is to be provided by a vested choir of men and boys with instrumental accompaniment.

Situated directly above the city, the grounds adjacent to the Peace Cross afford a remarkable panorama of the Capitol, the Washington Monument and other symbols of patriotic ideals. With the edifice which is being built as a symbol of the Nation's spiritual aspirations near at hand the setting is regarded as especially appropriate for services of national significance.

Federal Workers Plan Excursion.

An excursion to Atlantic City September 12 and 13 is being planned by Federal Employes Union No. 2. The party will leave Washington on the afternoon of September 12 and return about 11 o'clock in the evening of the next day. Cost of the trip will include railroad fare, meals and hotel expenses.

80,000 IN CAPITAL SCHOOLS SEEN FOR SEPT. 21 OPENING

Record on Enrollment Is Expected by Officials of System.

ATTENTION IS CALLED TO CHANGED AGE RULE

New Applicants Must Bring Credentials From Their Former Tutors.

Largest student body in the history of Capital public schools, numbering about 80,000 pupils, is expected to be enrolled when schools open Monday, September 21, it was estimated at the Franklin School Building yesterday.

This enrollment will include students in kindergartens, elementary schools, junior high schools, senior high schools and teachers' colleges, both white and colored.

Age Limit Is Cited.

Attention is called to a new rule of the Board of Education which prevents any child who will not be 5 years of age by November 1 of this year from entering school. No child who is not 6 years of age by that date can enter the first grade.

New students, before being admitted to school, must present birth certificates and certificates of vaccination to the principal of the school nearest their homes on Friday or Saturday, September 18 and 19, between the hours of 8 o'clock and 10 o'clock in the morning and from 4 o'clock to 6 o'clock in the evening.

Places of Reporting.

Grade children will report to their last year classrooms except those promoted to high school. The latter will go to their new buildings. New high school pupils from out of town or from parochial and private schools must report to the high school board of admission at the Franklin School Wednesday or Thursday, September 16 and 17, between 8:45 o'clock in the morning and 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

These new applicants must bring credentials from their former schools. If school authorities are not satisfied with the credentials, the new students will be required to take entrance examinations.

2d Reunion Held By 27th Infantry

Philippines Veterans Elect Officers at Session in Capital.

The Twenty-seventh Infantry, United States Volunteers Veterans Association, composed of veterans who served in the Philippines, held its second annual reunion at the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines Club yesterday.

Col. Albert S. Cummins, of Tecumseh, Mich., was elected honorary president. Other officers chosen were: George H. Steidel, Pottsville, Pa., president; Col. Oscar D. Weed, Washington, vice president; Col. William F. Judson, of Philadelphia, honorary vice president; the Rev. Herbert M. Peck, of North Platte, Nebr., historian; and Edwin J. Robb, of Washington, secretary and treasurer.

A business session was held yesterday morning. A smoker was held in the afternoon followed by a dinner. Today, most of the 100 visitors will be taken on sightseeing trips through the Capital. The next reunion will be held in Baltimore.

Suicide Verdict Found In Death of Chambers

Coroner Ramsey J. Nevitt yesterday issued a certificate of suicide in the case of Edward H. Chambers, 33-year-old purchasing agent for the Washington Times Co., who was found dead in the kitchen of his home, 2934 Glover drive, Tuesday night, with gas pouring from every jet in the range and all the windows and doors tightly shut. An autopsy, yesterday, revealed the fact that the man's lungs were filled with the poisonous fumes.

Coroner Nevitt withheld issuance of a certificate Tuesday because of the fact that friends of Mr. Chambers swore he had been in good health and spirits and had no apparent reason to end his life. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Chambers, are residents of New York City. He was unmarried.

16 of Oldest Inhabitants To March With Firemen

Plans for participation in the annual Labor Day firemen's parade were discussed last night at a meeting of the Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia, at a meeting held in the Old Union Engine House, Nineteenth and H streets northwest.

Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, director and marshall of the parade, addressed the meeting. Sixteen members of the organization will take part in the celebration, together with the oldest fire engine in the District.

Zonta Clubs to Meet.

Plans for a joint meeting of the Zonta Clubs of Annapolis, Hagerstown and Frederick, Md., were discussed yesterday at a meeting of the District branch held at the Dodge Hotel. The joint meeting will be held September 26 at Olney Inn, Olney, Md.
